Attorney T. V. Powderly will deliver a lecture before the old committee of Chamberlain tomorrow evening.

M. I. Corbett, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, will leave this morning for New York to be absent until Friday.

E. B. Sturges, of this city, was in Wilkes-Barre last night assisting in the organization of a New England society there.

EXAMINATION POSTPONED.

State Superintendent Advises the Present Committee Not to Act.

Owing to the fact that no new permanent certificate committee had been provided for, the old committee, which Professor H. L. Burdick was chairman, made arrangements for the regular winter examination and set Nov. 23 as the date.

Yesterday a letter was received from the state superintendent of public instruction advising the old committee not to act and announcing that the names of the new committee would be made public in a few days.

The committee has declared next Saturday's examination off. No other date can be fixed until the new committee organizes, which means a delay of at least a week.

ODD FELLOWS MEET.

Pennsylvania Grand Lodge in Session at Philadelphia.

Washington, Nov. 19.—Ex-Speaker and Future Speaker Thomas B. Reed, of Maine, writes that he will be in Washington on Nov. 25. The explanation of Mr. Reed's delay in reaching Washington, which is generally accepted, imputes it to a desire to avoid as long as possible the personal inconveniences of representatives who are ambitious of committee chairmanship and good committee assignments. The pressure for these places among the members who were re-elected to the next house began last winter and it is presumed that it is greatly intensified with the present approach of the reassembling of congress.

The Republican caucus will meet in the hall of the house of representatives at 5 o'clock on Saturday evening, Nov. 20. The first business will be the election of a speaker, following which the names of the various candidates for clerk, doorkeeper, sergeant-at-arms and postmaster will be presented.

JURY SAW SAFE DRILLED

Burglary, However, Was Not the Purpose of the Cracksmen.

JUDGE ARCHBALD A WITNESS

It Was Done to Test the Temper of the Metal—Jury Disagreed in One Case. Reasons for a New Trial in Jessup Case Filed.

Before Judge Love, of Bellefonte, in No. 2 court room, this morning, one of the townsmen of New York, against Frank Carucci, of this city, was put on trial yesterday and only two witnesses were examined. All told, Major Carucci, who represents the plaintiff and Attorney W. W. Watson and T. V. Powderly, the defendant. The case was tried before and the jury disagreed.

The amount in dispute is $1,000 for granite furnished to Mr. Carucci for the pedestal of the Washington monument erected on the corner between Madison and the Erie streets, in the city of Scranton. The two witnesses examined are representatives of the "Townsend company," with which the defendant made a contract to furnish him the material for the pedestal. Their evidence was in proving the contract and showing by other documents in the shape of a contract, etc., that the company did what was required of it. Mr. Carucci refused to accept the granite when it arrived for two reasons: one as alleged that it was not shipped in time, the other that it was of inferior quality.

The jury in the case of Liveright, against T. F. McDermott and A. E. Barber, disagreed and were discharged. Alonso Porter, a colored man, was the man on the jury and in answer to some of the questions of Judge Edwards said the jury might agree if they could hear more evidence. The jury split six and they were accordingly discharged.

It is the second disagreement.

This is the second time the case has been tried and each time it resulted in a disagreement. The question whether or not the paper on which the defendants signed themselves as security for Ayres was a sealed one was the tangle that the jury could not untangle.

In the main court the assumpsit suit of the Cincinnati Safe and Lock company against M. M. DeWitt, of this city, was tried before Judge Archbald, and in the afternoon the court, counsel and jury went over to the freight depot of the Central Railroad of New Jersey to see a test of the safe which is the matter in dispute.

Mr. DeWitt purchased the safe from the plaintiff in the spring of 1891 and in due time it was shipped to him. Before making it out of the freight depot the purchaser caused some one skilled in the art to get a chisel and hammer and make a test of it to see whether or not it was burglar proof, as per agreement. The expert very easily drilled a small hole into the outer layer of metal, and from that Mr. DeWitt concluded that it was not burglar proof, so he refused to pay for it.

It was brought against him and the jury found in favor of the plaintiff for the entire amount of the claim with interest. A new trial was granted by the court on the ground that the safe was not tested in the presence of the jury and in refusing to take the safe when he made a test and drilled into the metal so readily. After the case was closed for the plaintiff yesterday Attorney C. C. Donovan and J. W. Carpenter asked the court that the jury be permitted to go over to the freight depot to see a test made showing whether or not burglars or thieves could break through and enter in.

They tested the safe.

The court agreed that this was proper and accordingly all put on their hats and went to the freight depot. It appears that the outer layer of the metal is quite malleable and on that account it was very easy to drill a hole in it. But farther in there are ribs of chilled steel so closely interwoven that no chisel no matter how highly tempered could penetrate. A test was made for the benefit of the judicial spectators.

There was no trouble in drilling through the outer soft plate, but when the chilled steel ribs of the interior were reached, the chisel struck a snarl and could not get any farther. The jury and they came back to court.

In No. 3 court Judge Edwards presided at the trial of the suit of Benedict R. Carr against C. C. Donovan, of Scranton, and Wetherill, of Dunmore, administrator of the estate of Sarah Carr Wetherill, his wife. Attorney Charles L. Hawley represented the defendant.

The deceased wife of the defendant on Nov. 6, 1890, bought from her mother, Mrs. Margaret Carr, of Dunmore, a lot of land for $1,000. She gave a mortgage for the balance of the purchase money on a lot on Drinker street, and the terms of the mortgage were that she should pay in installments. In consideration of boarding with her daughter, Mrs. Carr gave her a receipt of $250 on the mortgage. This is the amount in dispute, alleged by the plaintiff, who was the son of Mrs. Carr. The defendant claimed he paid the funeral expenses which amounted to enough with the receipt for $250 to make the $500. The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $485.90.

Reasons for New Trial in Jessup Case.

In the case of Assignee J. H. Gunster against George A. Jessup and his sureties, Attorney Everett W. Carr, for the defendants, yesterday filed the following reasons for a new trial:

"First—The verdict of the jury is against the weight of the evidence.

"Second—The verdict of the jury is against the charge of the court.

"Third—The court erred in not affirming the severer points of the defendant, which he refused to affirm.

"Fourth—The court erred in rejecting the offer to prove that the directors who had indemnified Dr. Tripp against the loss of the bank were perfectly solvent and able to pay the same.

"Fifth—After discovered evidence, specifications of which will be filed at an early date.

"Sixth—Counsel for defendants respectfully ask leave to file additional reasons and specific ones as soon as they have an opportunity to examine the stenographic notes of testimony, as well as the charge of the court and the answers to the several points submitted by the parties.

Court granted a rule to show cause why a new trial should not be allowed and made it returnable Dec. 6, at 2 p. m.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

Olis Skinner to Appear at Academy of Music in Villon the Vagabond.

The production of "Villon, the Vagabond," which Olis Skinner will play at the Academy of Music on the evening next, is attracting a great deal of attention, from the character of the play itself, which is an adaptation of the medieval poetry that which it has hitherto included—the personal tone. His life was very romantic and, if history is to be believed, a very varied one, because, judging from his biography, he lived a life of constant travel, behind prison walls. The play, it is said, is a strong one, the dialogue being clear and crisp, as well as bright and sparkling. The story is, however, both effective and highly dramatic. The company which supports Mr. Skinner is, it is said, an exceptionally strong one and many of the scenes, however, one sees in the support of a star. The coming production is unquestionably one of the most important dramatic events of the season in this city.

Jolly Old Chums Friday Night.

The management of the Academy is most fortunate in having for its guest Friday evening such a side-splitting farce comedy as "Jolly Old Chums." Like all such mirth producers, the story is simple and the thread of plot on which to hitch its many specialties and musical numbers, but plot is scarcely needed, and if the audience is to be entertained, it is not so much a matter of the story as of the "Jolly Old Chums" is a pronounced success. The company is made up of very clever people, including Miss Carrie Lamont, and Miss Little Edithman, "the Brown woman of the period." There are enough pretty girls in the play to almost make one's head whirl, and all are clever, and ready and bright. The title given them on the program, incidental to the comedy there are almost two dozen selections, which include all the new songs and the best of the old ones.

Final Tour of Wang.

"Wang" comes this season with everything bright and new. It will be seen at the Academy Saturday matinee and night. "Wang" has but two acts, yet the interest of its production will cost several thousands, while the total bill for scenery and accessories will probably reach $15,000. The management of the Academy does not include thousands spent on costumes, nor the further thousand required for lithographic work, the thousand for the music, and the thousand for nearly a hundred people, and the thousands necessary to have to fall back upon for salaries in case of bad business, it can readily be imagined that the theatrical business, especially in the department of comic opera, is one requiring abnormal business qualifications as well as almost unlimited capital. Hart, the Regent of Steam, is said to be equally as good as his famous prototype in that most famous part. "Wang" is now on its final tour.

London Belies Company.

Following the "Play and Players" at Davis' popular theater will be seen for the first time in Scranton, the London Belies show, said to be one of the most expensive companies of the kind on the road this season. Besides the two comedies, "The Wagon Wheel" and "The Continuous Show" there will be a strong olio of specialties by the following people: Campbell and Shepp, the Regent of Steam, the great Elwood, Kelly and St. Clair Jones and LaPearle and Miss Madelle Forest. The music is new and catchy, the costumes are gorgeous and the marches, etc., entrancing.

Fanny Davenport Coming.

Ben Stern, manager for Fanny Davenport, was in the city yesterday arranging for the appearance of Miss Davenport at the Provingham on November 28, 29 and 30, when she will produce "Gismonda," which is said to be one of the strongest plays ever written by Sardou. The play will be staged in the same superb manner as it was in during its New York run at the Grand Opera theater. That engagement closes Saturday night and on Monday and Tuesday the company goes to Albany, coming to Scranton on Wednesday. These are the only two engagements of the season that are less than a week in duration. Three car loads of scenery are registered expressly for Mr. Goodwin and served to give that distinguished artist the greatest character of his life. The company supporting Mr. Goodwin is a most brilliant one, including as it does Annie Russell, Clara Jean Walters, Estelle Mortimer, Ethel Browning, George Pawcett, C. F. Montaine, George Bergman, Louis Payne, J. C. Saville, Arthur Hoops and others.

Not Goodwin in Ambition.

It is now definitely announced that Nat C. Goodwin, America's favorite artist, will be seen in Scranton, next Tuesday evening, Nov. 26, at the Academy of Music, in his latest success entitled "Ambition," which has been the reigning sensation in New York and Philadelphia during the past eight weeks. The piece is from the pen of that versatile writer, Henry Guy Carlisle, and has been pronounced to be far superior to any of his earlier efforts. The opportunities afforded Mr. Goodwin's "Ambition" for displaying his great versatility are many, and that he has made the hit of his life in the enthusiastic ovations and generous treatment accorded him by both press and public. The play, with every phase of congressional life, and the scenes are laid in Washington with the plot turning on the Cuban revolution. It is described as a non-human political play of contemporary interest, with a judicious mixture of sentiment, sensational incident and comedy. The part was written expressly for Mr. Goodwin and served to give that distinguished artist the greatest character of his life. The company supporting Mr. Goodwin is a most brilliant one, including as it does Annie Russell, Clara Jean Walters, Estelle Mortimer, Ethel Browning, George Pawcett, C. F. Montaine, George Bergman, Louis Payne, J. C. Saville, Arthur Hoops and others.

Winter Excursion Tickets on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

On November 1 the Pennsylvania Railroad Company placed on sale at its principal ticket offices excursion tickets to all prominent winter resorts in New Jersey, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Cuba. The tickets are sold at the usual low rates.

The management of the Pennsylvania Railroad, with its many connections, make this the favorite line for winter travel.

An illustrated book, descriptive of winter resorts, and giving routes of travel and rates of fare, is furnished free of application to ticket agents.

PORTER HAS DEPARTED

Officers of Suburban Electric Light Company Anxious to Find Him.

SAY HE OWES THEM MONEY

After Collecting Money that Was Due to the Company, Porter Deceased for Paris that are at Present Unknown. Detectives are After Him.

George W. Porter, a hinesman of the Suburban Electric Light company, disappeared from the city Monday, leaving behind him receipts for several hundred dollars, money that he obtained by representing himself as the company's collector. The fraud was discovered today through a visit of the authorized collector to Dunmore.

Porter left on the 12:55 noon Lackawanna train for New York, after purchasing one ticket for New York and two for Atlanta. E. D. Sturges, president of the company, has put the case in the hands of detectives, and it is believed Porter will soon be captured.

The absconding employee was several months ago given work on the strength of good recommendations. He rented a house on Dickson avenue, where he lived with his wife, but five weeks ago the house was abandoned and Porter was seen at the St. Charles Hotel. After leaving the hotel and an unpaid board bill, Mr. Melvin, the proprietor, learned that the woman was not Mrs. Porter, but a woman who was a week ago, but the electric light man met Proprietor Melvin's demand for payment by saying he would set the matter straight.

The victimized Dunmore people beseege the company's office yesterday. None of the losses were very large, the whole amounting to only a little over $250.

HOW THEY DIFFER.

Man a Creature of Habits; Woman Utilizes Anything that is Handy.

From Lippincott's Magazine.

Man is a creature of cast iron habits; woman adapts herself to circumstances. This is the foundation of the moral difference between them.

A man does not attempt to drive a nail unless he has a hammer; a woman does not hesitate to utilize anything from the heel of a boot to the back of a brush.

A man considers a cork-screw absolutely necessary to open a bottle; a woman attempts to extract the cork with the scissors; if she does not succeed readily she pushes the cork in the bottle, since the essential thing is to get at the drink.

Shaving is the only use to which a man puts a razor; a woman employs it for a chiropodist's purposes.

When a man writes everything must be in apple-order; pen, paper and ink must be just so, a profound silence must reign while he accomplishes this important function. A woman gets any sheet of paper, tears it perhaps from a book or portfolio, sharpens a pencil with the scissors, puts the paper on an ink blot, crosses her feet, balances herself on her chair, and confides her thoughts to paper, changing from pencil to pen and vice versa from time to time, nor does she care if the child-drum or the cook comes to speak to her.

A man storms if the blotting-paper is not conveniently near; a woman dries the ink by blowing on it, waving the paper in the air or holding it near a lamp or fire.

A man drops a letter unhesitatingly in the box; a woman re-reads the address, assures herself that the envelope is sealed, the stamp secured, and then throws it violently into the box.

A man cuts a boot only with a paper-cutter; a woman deftly inserts a hair-pin and the boot is cut.

To a man "good-bye" signifies the end of a conversation and the moment of his departure; for a woman it is the beginning of a new chapter, for it is just when they are taking leave of each other that she begins to think of the most important topics of conversation.

A woman ransacks her brain trying to mend a broken object; a man puts it aside and forgets that for which there is no remedy. Which is the superior?

NOT SO AWFULLY SLEEPY.

Taro is More Than One Way to Beat a Railroad.

"What station was that?" demanded the passenger in the rear seat, suddenly rousing himself, straightening up and prodding his voice through the dimly-lighted car.

The conductor, who was coming down the aisle, stopped and held his lantern close to the speaker's face.

"It was Bragdon," he replied. "Ain't you the man that wanted to get off at Smallville?"

"I am," rejoined the passenger. "I asked you to wake me up when we got there, and you said you would."

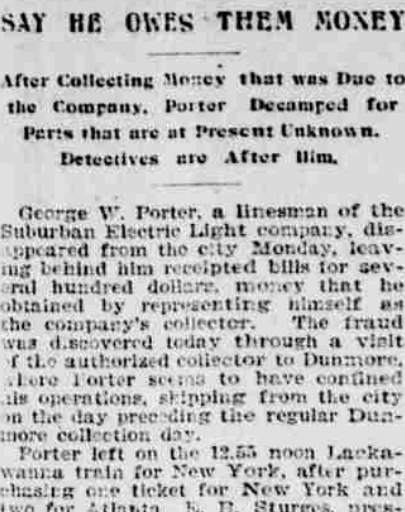

"Oh, did you, you? How far have we gone past Smallville?"

"I don't know anything about it!"

"I shook you, called out the name of the station, and you said 'all right' and reached for your eyes. I supposed you were wide awake. Several passengers got off there and I took it for granted you were one of them."

ENTIRE AUDIENCE BAPTIZED.

Bridges Gives Way at Falton, Mo., During a Religious Ceremony.

Falton, Mo., Nov. 18.—Much excitement was caused this afternoon by the falling of the Gerhardt bridge over the Rippon river, where an immense crowd had gathered to witness the baptism of a number of colored people by the Baptist colored church minister. The bridge was crowded with people, both white and colored. Without any warning whatever a fifty-foot span went down with a fearful crash, precipitating the crowd of men, women and children into the water from a height of fifteen feet. The people fell in heaps in water four or five feet deep.

A large number were more or less injured, but no one was killed. The accident proved a damper over the baptismal proceedings for a short time, but it was finally resumed.
