

The Scranton Tribune

Daily and Weekly. No Sunday Edition. Published at Scranton, Pa., by The Tribune Publishing Company...

Entered at the Postoffice at Scranton, Pa., as Second-Class Matter.

Printers Ink, the recognized journal for advertising medium in Northwestern Pennsylvania.

The Weekly Tribune, issued every Saturday, contains twelve handsome pages...

The Tribune is for sale daily at the D. L. and W. Station at Hoboken.

SCRANTON, NOVEMBER 26, 1895.

The Scranton Tribune is a Republican paper and it will support the nominees of the next Republican city convention...

Pennsylvania and the Presidency.

All the greater states of the north, excepting only Pennsylvania, are already getting into shape to present their claim for recognition in the Republican National Convention next year...

Where will Pennsylvania stand in that convention? As a Republican state she looms high above all the others. She is second to New York in population...

Very forceful and timely, likewise, are the ex-president's comments on lynching, which he denounces as a detraction of our constitutional principle...

What is the obstacle in the way of a movement to secure for a Pennsylvanian the Republican nomination for President of the United States?

The thread-bare argument heretofore advanced against Pennsylvania that "she is safely Republican anyway, no matter from what state the candidate comes," should be cast aside.

Age and Temperament. The Philadelphia Bulletin has discovered a drawback to the presidential candidacy of Senator Allison...

Senator Quay regards Senator Gorman as the likeliest Democratic candidate. For licker purposes Gorman probably could not be surpassed.

Dalzell for Leader.

During the present week it is hoped that Representative Reed, the speaker-to-be of the congress which will assemble next Monday, will decide to place in command of the Republican majority on the floor of the house that gifted Pennsylvanian and unsurpassed debater, Hon. John Dalzell.

Mr. Dalzell would be the real leader of his party in congressional debate, even though another should be invested with the nominal leadership.

and qualifications for such a priority are too many and too important to be subordinated. It is to be hoped that Mr. Reed will recognize the rule of fitness...

The sudden zeal of Joseph A. Scranton for political reform recalls the song: When the devil was ill The devil a saint would be!

The trouble with Mr. Scranton's passion for reform is that it has no inclination to take effect at home.

Ex-President Harrison's Paper.

Almost at the beginning of the series of papers on "This Country of Ours," which ex-President Harrison is contributing to the Ladies' Home Journal...

Many laws are made necessary because we have neighbors because there are so many people. If there were not so many people using the park we might reveal the fact for the first time...

At the beginning of the session Mr. Reed stands higher in politics than he ever did before. He is the head of the Republican party, and the great question here is whether he will be able to hold that which he has gained.

The new "man from Maine" is a real Maine man. He was born in the very city of Portland, which has ten times sent him to congress...

He has never been rich and probably never will be, for he is not a money-maker and he neglects his practice, a good deal of the time that he has been in public life...

He is fond of fun of all better sorts. Indeed, his fun and his life are not serious drawbacks but as a presidential candidate or a candidate for the presidency he is a beautiful country, where he has more than that to do anywhere else in the world.

Mr. Reed is satirical and ironical, with a tendency toward combativeness; General Harrison is cold, distant and suspicious, and Senator Allison is somewhat negative.

The semblance of political sanctity would command greater confidence if it were not in this case discounted by the poor concealment of the cloven hoof.

Colonel Ripple is an honest man who never deserts a friend. Therefore, knife him, in the name of the ingrate and "reform."

What a pity that Mr. Scranton's virtuosity to "Connellism" didn't break out last fall!

Is it any wonder that reform is often shamed by the tricksters who masquerade in its name?

Under the present order there is no bleeding and no blackmail. Therefore, "reform it."

"Reformer" Joseph forgets that reform, like charity, should begin at home.

The self-appointed leader of the "reform" campaign is certainly a beauty.

THE NEW MAN FROM MAINE.

McFarland, in Philadelphia Record. Washington, Nov. 22.—Enter Thomas Brackett Reed, the new "man from Maine." Fifty-six years old last month, in the prime of his powers, mental and physical...

panion. He reads newspapers and frankly says so, unlike some smaller men, who think that it beneath the dignity of a statesman, and he told me once that the New York Sun was his favorite newspaper...

JOE AS A MUGWUMP.

Scranton Free Press: Will the "Independent," (the Republican) for the "Straight," (the Tribune) ticket win? That is the question. The Tribune has a great advantage over the Republican...

His Mugwumpery Recognized. Philadelphia Record: Congressman J. A. Scranton, of Lackawanna county, has brought out a full set of independent candidates in his Scranton newspaper.

TOLD BY THE STARS.

Daily Horoscope Drawn by Alphas, The Tribune Astrologer. Astrolabe cast: 1.9 a. m., for Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1895.

A child born on this day will always be of a cheerful disposition directly after dinner. Upon arriving at years of understanding he may double in politics, as he will be able to keep his temper if the provisions hold out.

The faces of Lackawanna Republicans who allow themselves to be labeled "Independent" have already assumed the expression of anxiety that accompanies an effort to ride a circus trick mule three times around the ring.

It is surprising to note the number of political doctors who dislike to take their own medicine. It is rumored that Major Penman has refused to again sing "I'm Hot" for Mr. Scranton in an accompaniment on a mugwump harp.

Remember that cheerfulness aids digestion and makes votes. Do not expect people to love you if you hate yourself.

THERE IS TROUBLE IN TURKEY

We don't know what the Sultan is going to do about it, but what interests the American people most at the present time is THE THANKSGIVING TURKEY.

We trust every family will have a turkey on that day, and the next best thing to having one is to have it cooked properly. We can insure that part of it if you will buy a Crown Roaster. We have made a special order on them for this week only. You can see them in our window. Don't forget, prices marked on these goods for this week only.
