FRUIT STEAMER SEIZED.

Horse, the Danish Craft, Is Detained at the Philadelphia Port--Detention Is Made at Request of the Spanish Minister.

Philadelphia, Nov. 27.--The Danish fruit steamer Horse, whose reported seizure for Cuban filibustering at Kingston, Jamaica, has been the cause of considerable talk here today and discharged her cargo at the wharves of her agents, the J. D. Hart company. The officers of the steamer denied that she was seized at Kingston and complained of untrue stories having been written about the vessel.

It was the intention of Captain Wilmore to clear either today or tomorrow, but this afternoon Collector of Port Read, at the instance of District Attorney Ingham, refused to grant the steamer clearance until she had understood that the district attorney is acting under instructions from the department of justice at Washington and that the Spanish government is the complainant on the grounds that the vessel is violating the neutrality laws.

The vessel will be obliged to remain at this port. The Danish carried one cabin passenger, William Dougherty, a railroad contractor, who returned to his home in Pennsylvania from Port Antonio, Jamaica. There were also seven deck passengers, all laborers.

Washington, Nov. 27.--Attorney General Harmon declined this afternoon to discuss the matter of the seizure of Philadelphia of the Danish steamer Horse. It is understood here that the detention was made on the request of the Spanish minister, DeLome.

SPECULATOR'S SUICIDE.

Peter McGeoch, Who Once Tried to Corner Lard, Is Found Dead in His Bath-room.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 27.--About 10:30 this morning Peter McGeoch, who lives opposite the National Soldiers' Home in an elegant mansion, ordered his carriage to go to the city. He was never seen again. It is thought that he committed suicide through the key-hole of the bath room door, which was locked, and saw McGeoch lying on the floor with a revolver in his hand. He shot himself through the mouth and death was presumably instantaneous.

When found Mr. McGeoch had on his business suit and was apparently ready to start for the city. The servants noted nothing peculiar about his actions before the time he went to his room. Mr. McGeoch's suicide is taken as the result of divorce proceedings begun last Monday by Mrs. McGeoch on the ground of incompatibility of temper.

Mr. McGeoch was a native of Chicago, a son of a prominent family. He was married to a woman who was a native of Chicago. They were married about eight years ago at the Leland hotel, Chicago. Since their marriage they have lived at the National Avenue home of Mr. McGeoch while in the city. Mr. McGeoch had three children, a son and two daughters, who after their marriage moved to a grand residence on Grand avenue, which their father provided.

Since Mrs. McGeoch left, one of the daughters, it is understood, has been keeping house for her father. No man was for years better known on the Chicago and Milwaukee boards of trade than Mr. McGeoch. He was a large speculator in the disastrous corn lard of 1883, when he attempted to corner lard, which scheme failed.

REVIEW OF THE SITUATION

An Unbiased Glimpse at the Affairs in Turkey.

CAUSE OF THE BUTCHERIES

Plunder Seems to Have Been the Main Object--Many Armenians Are Protected by Turks--Thousands of Survivors Are in Desperate Circumstances.

Constantinople, Nov. 15.--The following matter has been handed to the European manager of the United Press, who is now in Constantinople. The latter, from full confidence in the American Christian men who present it and from careful personal observation, is able to forward it to the American press as an impartial statement of facts. It is known that the full endorsement of Minister Terrell.

During the month of October a considerable part of the Armenian districts in the provinces of Trebizond, Erzeroum, Bitlis, Van, Harput, Diarbekir and Sivas, has been laid waste and a number not yet full known of the Armenian inhabitants have been killed. The Turkish government has diligently telegraphed abroad in regard to each place that Armenians had attacked Moslems, thus arousing a frenzy of indignation which could not easily be controlled, but the order has been stored after some loss of life. The effect of these telegrams has been to cultivate the belief that there has been some general rising of the Armenians against the Turkish government, which is merely the result of lawless proceedings on the part of the Armenians themselves.

It is not within the purpose of this paper to enter upon the question of the responsibility for these massacres. The ground is taken as a matter of fact, especially mentioned, in the reform scheme, so empty and so painfully wrong from the ports. But if the object of the original scheme was to sensibly to diminish the Armenian population of these provinces, the main object of the men who did the work was to exterminate the Armenians. The Turkish government has been very busy in the past few months in the provinces of Aleppo, and far from the scene of the massacres. Moreover, such cases offer opportunity for examination, several circumstances cited in the Turkish dispatches as causes of the bloodshed are in fact the result of the Turkish government's policy.

William Willard Howard, Representative of the Christian Herald, Has Failed to Carry Out His Mission of Relief.

Philadelphia, Nov. 27.--An afternoon paper says that William Willard Howard, a newspaper man, is believed to have been murdered by the Kurds near Tiflis, in Persia.

Mr. Howard sailed from New York on the steamship Texaco on the 14th of September as a representative of the "Christian Herald" on a mission of relief to the persecuted Armenians. He has not been heard from for five weeks, and the hope of his safety has been abandoned. His destination was the city of Van, and he was due there more than four weeks ago.

WEDDING AFTER A FUNERAL

Magnar Events Follow the Death of a Rag-picker. Bessemer, Mich., Nov. 27.--"Big 164," who lead the bread riot of 1883, carrying a red flag, and frightened Poor Commissioner Haggerson so badly as to cause him to flee to the woods, yesterday called on Haggerson to secure a coffin to bury her aged father, a rag-picker, who died very suddenly. Mr. Haggerson refused the demand, alleging that her father had a good sized bank account, which proved to be unfounded. Presently a stranger, who entered the room, said he would bear the expenses, and proceeded to the undertaker, when the sheriff presented him with a warrant for his arrest, on a charge of wronging the 16-year-old daughter of William Gladzak. The man was immediately taken to jail, and the girl offering to marry the prodigal. Commissioner Haggerson was sent for and performed the marriage ceremony, after which the prisoner was released. The funeral, after which there was a grand wedding, lasting until morning.
