THIS AFTERNOON'S CLASH.

Game of Foot Ball Between Scranton an

Game of Poot Bail Between Scranton and Wyoming Seminary.

This afternoon at the Base Ball park will occur one of the hardest fought foot ball games of the season; whether it will be a good game or not, in a technical sense can only be determined by the game itself, but that it will be hard fought is indicated by circumstances. Wyoming seminary is not by any means represented by a slow team; it is composed of a lot of brawny, active and heady fellows, who have suffered no disgrace because of two defeats by Scranton.

Scranton's victories were hard earned, but that causes no less a chagrin in the hearts of the Seminarians, and today they are bound to win the last of the three games in the series. This is what indicates that the contest will be a superb one. Not a little seminary money was circulated yesterday in Scranton at 4 to 5 on, and this information coming to the Seminarians has spurred the bicycle men to make it three straight. Thus each side has something at stake and it is a safe prediction that any enthusiast who goes to the park to see a grim death kind of a battle will be accommodated goes to the park to see a grim death kind of a battle will be accommodated to his heart's content. The teams will line up as follows:

Resolution Adopted by the Board of Revision and Appeals Containing the Terms of the Concession Served on the Assessors.

The board of appeals has virtually admitted that the assessors up to date have the best of the argument.

When Mr. Jones, in an interview published recently in The Tribune, stated that the board of assessors could not complete the assessment for 1896, owing to the board of appeals' refusal to let them have the 1895 books and the unreliability of the 1895 blotters there was an awakening among the board of appeals members to the fact that the responsibility in case no assessment should be made could be shifted to their shoulders.

To obviate this the appeals board has adopted and addressed to the board of assessors the following preamble and resolutions:

The Resolution Adopted. The board of appeals has virtually ad-

The groomsman was Thomas Hughes and Miss Sarah Gli-lard was bridesmaid. The bride was attired in a beautiful white silk cos-tume with pearl trimmings, and she wore a corsage bouquet of roses. bridesmaid wore pink silk, with lace trimmings.

At the church, while the ceremony was being performed, were numerous friends of the bridal couple. In the evening a wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, and congratulations were showered upon Mr. and Mrs. May. After a wedding journey to points of interest they will return and reside in Scranton. The bride is possessed of many graces and bride is possessed of many graces and charms and has a host of friends. The groom is a popular young man, and is in the employ of the Scranton Illum-inating Heat and Power company.

A CONTINUANCE DESIRED.

An Important Witness Has Been Secured by Merelo in Boston.

Merejo, the Italian murderer in the ounty jall, received a letter yesterday from a fellow countryman in Boston saying that the writer of it would come to Scranton and establish the innocence of the prisoner by proving that Merelo was not in Scranton nor in the United States in June, 1894, when Emanuel Loro was shot at Old Forge. The accused wrote a week ago to this man, asking him to come here to testify in his behalf.

In the letter the friend, his name Merelo will not divulge, said that it will be impossible for him to get here next week, and on the strength of this there will be an effort made to have the case continued until the January term of criminal court. By means of control of the price of the papers from Italy the prisoner also hopes to be able to show that he was over there when the murder was com-
