Cornell Never in the Game at Yesterday's Contest.

OUTWIGHTED AND OUTPLAYED

The Ithaca Knights of the Pigskin Are Defeated by a Score of Forty-six to Two—Other Thanksgiving Football Games.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—On Franklin Field this afternoon, amidst the cheers of 10,000 people, Pennsylvania closed the second season of unbroken victories in football by overwhelmingly defeating the Cornell college eleven. From start to finish Cornell was never in the game and when time was called they had but two solitary points to place against forty-six for Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania scored seven points in the first half and twenty-nine in the second. Cornell scored its two points on a safety touchdown from Brooke fumbling the ball when it was passed to him for a kick.

Throughout the entire game, with the exception of a few moments in the first half, Pennsylvania's offensive and defensive play was magnificent. An exhibition of fast, scientific football has never been seen in this city. Overweighted, outplayed and swept away before the furious onslaughts of the Quakers the Ithacans fought bravely, but it was in vain that their backs hurried themselves against Pennsylvania's impregnable line or attempted to start the end game. The only thing that only became a question of time for the red and blue to score touchdown after touchdown.

The game was simply a sheet of slippery mud from recent rains, and before the game and between the halves it was necessary to cover it almost from end to end with sawdust to enable the players to retain their footing. Although a hard-played game, there was no objectionable features in the way of shoving or brutality, and but two men were badly enough hurt to have to retire. The umpiring and refereeing of the game was of the highest order and so fairly did both sides play that more than three hundred spectators were compelled to penalize either team. Pennsylvania has defeated every team they have played this season and as they are the only one of the "Big Six" to do this, they claim they are justly entitled to the championship of the college football world.

An Ideal Day for a Game. Overhead the day was a beautiful one and the ground almost balmy. One thousand spectators accommodated six thousand people each rose tier upon tier on either side of the field, and at the hour of 3 o'clock approached the field to witness the game. Upon either ends of the field were packed ten deep four thousand men and boys. Pennsylvania had the south stand and before and during the game the enthusiastic adherents of the red and blue cheered and sang their college war songs to the encouragement of their battling warriors of the gridiron. Cornell had a section of the north stand and some three or four hundred followers of the red and white strove to hearthen the Ithacans with their cheers. Pennsylvania's appearance upon the field at 2:10 o'clock, and the cheers that greeted them were still spitting the air when the Cornell boys trotted out. The Ithacans were greeted nearly as warm a greeting as the home players.

Referee Laurie Biles, Umpire Paul Dashiell and Captains Wyckoff and Williams held a short consultation in the center of the field. Williams won the toss and chose the west goal and gave Cornell the ball. The wind was barely strong enough to ruffle the hundreds of little flags that were being waved around the field, and throughout the game neither side gained any advantage from this source. Ritchie kicked off to Pennsylvania's twenty-five yard line and the game was on. Cornell's seventy-yard line, Ritchie returned the kick and then followed a succession of plays so rapid that the spectators could hardly keep up with them. Ritchie fumbled Brooks' return kick, and Gilbert fell upon the ball on Cornell's twenty-five yard line. Three hard plunges and the ball was in Pennsylvania's hands. Williams then executed Pennsylvania's famous trick kick and Minds running ahead of the ball got it behind Cornell's goal line and scored the first touchdown in three minutes. Brooke easily kicked the goal.

Pennsylvania Had the Ball. After the kick off, Pennsylvania rapidly carried the ball forward again and a twenty yard run was made by Gilbert landed the ball on Cornell's ten yard line. Two mass plays on the line followed and Minds went around the end and kicked the goal. Brooke again kicking the goal. The rapidity of Pennsylvania's play seemed to have paralyzed Cornell, but now they started to make the only consistent gains of the game. Beachers, Cool, Fitch and Tausig smashed through the right side of Pennsylvania's line between the twenty and thirty yard line. It was in this rally that Cornell made its really only good run of the game. Aided by the fine interference of Wyckoff, Beacham went around Pennsylvania's end and for thirty yards he carried the ball. This was the nearest Cornell got to Pennsylvania's goal in the first half. They lost the ball here and Brooke kicked a punt for the game, but it was not allowed. On a kick off from Wyckoff, Brooke took the ball and by wonderful dodging passed the entire Cornell team and was finally overtaken and thrown on Cornell's five yard line.

goal line. The Cornell ends were coming down on him with a rush, and, to save a touchdown, Brooke fell upon the ball for a safety touchdown. From this time until the end of the play the game was simply a repetition of fierce assaults by Pennsylvania and unavailing resistance by Cornell. Three times did Pennsylvania carry the ball up to and over Cornell's goal line for a touchdown, and each time Brooke kicked the goal.

Pennsylvania would have had another touchdown but for a fumble by Woodruff, who was pushed over the line by his companions, but lost the ball as he fell, and Cornell man got it. Throughout the entire game Wyckoff had done most all the punting for Cornell from quarter back. With but a minute to play, one Wyckoff's punts was blocked on Cornell's 25-yard line and Pennsylvania got the ball. On the first down Brooke fell back and kicked a goal from the field, raising Pennsylvania's score to forty-six.

Distribution of Glory. The Pennsylvanians went into the game today to do or die. Where every man acquitted himself so well it is difficult to single out any one for praise. Minds, Gilbert, Woodruff, Wharton and Bull all did great work but again the laurels of the game were carried off by Brooke who constantly carried the ball like an avalanche and carried the ball for great gains, but as a punter he again stood pre-eminent. Some of his punts were tremendous and Pennsylvania constantly gained from ten to thirty yards on the exchange of kicks between Brooke and Wyckoff and Ritchie.

When the game was over the crowd surged out into the field and carrying Brooke off in his feet raised him upon the shoulders of shouting men and bore him in triumph from the field. For Cornell, the game was a disaster. It is reported that thousands of persons were killed and many hundreds wounded.

The American Theological Seminary was plundered and burned, and two of the students at that institution were shot, one being fatally wounded. The Seminary, during the night, was plundered. The Christians at Marash and in the vicinity, thousands of whom are destitute, have appealed for aid. A despatch received in Constantinople dated November 28, says that an outbreak is apprehended at Van, and reliable telegrams from other sources say that outbreaks continue with the purpose of wiping out the Armenians. It is impossible to rely for aid from Sassoon, whose advice is, the relief work there having ceased. The Kurds are again attacking the Armenians, and it is reported that they are acting under orders from the government.

Neldoff Warns the Sultan. M. Neldoff, the Russian ambassador to Turkey, has had an audience with the sultan, during which he warned him that if serious disturbances should occur at Constantinople the foreign fleets would penetrate the Dardanelles. The sultan admitted to M. Neldoff that he was not prepared to admit a second guardship to the Bosphorus, but renewed his request that they should not insist upon that right. He urged that the prompt reforms be progressing, and that the approach of an era of reform was shown by the appointment of six inspecting judges, of whom three were Christians.

Despite the assurance of the sultan to the contrary the arrests of Armenians in Constantinople has been renewed, though there is no sign of any uprising or resistance to the law on the part of Armenians in Constantinople. Thousands of them, however, are reported to have been frightened into conversion to Islamism.

Shedden Case at Erzeroum. A resident of Erzeroum writes as follows to a friend in Constantinople: The people are in an awful state of dread. The collection of the dead still goes on. The bodies are piled up in hundreds. A heart-rending scene was the following: The battered door was pushed open and a long passage led to a small room, lying side by side on a mat were the bodies of two young women, one lying on her back, the other on her side. The bodies were lying there. They were simply wrecked human bodies. A cruelly was practiced, two or three of the bodies had been skinned and some had been burned with petroleum. A representative of the United States, who was present, was unable to get at any definite figures, but the number must be very close to a thousand.

Call for Assistance. Boston, Nov. 28.—This evening Rev. Judson Smith, D. D., secretary of the foreign department of the American board, received a cablegram from a representative of the board in Constantinople as follows: "Induce red cross association to enter into relief work as in war times. Urgent—extraordinary help needed. Four hundred thousand people destitute. Ordinary channels of relief blocked."

TURKISH FORT IS CAPTURED

Armenians Use Dynamite with Great Effect—The Arrests of Christians at Constantinople Continue in Spite of the Sultan's Assurances.

London, Nov. 28.—The United Press representative in Constantinople telegraphs under yesterday's date that news has been received from Zetoun that on November 13 forces of 15,000 Armenians under a Russo-Armenian leader captured the fort occupied by Turkish troops. In the attack upon the fort dynamite was used by the Armenians with great effect. Twenty thousand Turkish troops are said to be advancing upon Zetoun from all sides, it being known in railroad circles here, as the only one of the kind on record.

WIBORG ARRESTED.

Commander of the Danish Steamer is Held to Bail—Exciting Encounter with Officers.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—Captain Wiborg, of the Danish steamer Horsa, his chief mate and two crew members, were arrested this morning on a charge of leaving the United States Commissioner Bell, charging violation of the neutrality laws under section 6,536 of the revised statute.

Bail in the sum of $1,500 was entered for each for their appearance at a hearing tomorrow morning. Wiborg clearing the vessel, Captain Wiborg making affidavit as to the correctness of his outward manifest. The vessel will not sail, however, until after the hearing, tomorrow morning. A number of the crew has been subpoenaed as witnesses and will probably be detained. The Danish consul, J. N. Walker, at the request of Consul Guegista, the Spanish consul for this port gave a hearing this morning to Captain Wiborg and his crew of twenty-four men at the consulate. The hearing was private and lasted only a half hour. Consul Wallen, after the hearing, said: "We examined Captain Wiborg and several men, asking them the direction taken by the steamer after leaving the port and whether she had taken on board or landed men or munitions of war. The captain and his men all declared that the steamer had not left her destination, Port Antonio, and that no men or munitions of war were taken on board or landed at any place."

When asked if the Spanish consul was satisfied with the result of the examination, he said he did not know. He was evidently not satisfied, however, as it was after the hearing that the warrant against the steamer of Captain Wiborg and mate was issued. The warrant was given to a deputy marshal, who made the arrests on board the Horsa. The newspaper reporter who was not admitted on board the vessel or even upon the pier upon which the Horsa was lying, but according to the statement of the deputy marshal, the warrant was issued by Assistant District Attorney Ker, who is acting as counsel for the arrested men. Captain Wiborg demanded if the warrant represented the Danish consul. To this the deputy replied: "No." "Don't you know that this deck is Danish soil?" asked Captain Wiborg. "I have no right to take me dead or alive," replied the deputy.

As it is understood the captain ordered the Danish flag hoisted on the Horsa, and when the national colors under which the vessel sailed were up, he advanced towards the deputy. "I have no right to take me dead or alive," he asked. "Yes," answered the deputy. "I will take you to the question of force," said Captain Wiborg, "and you insist on serving this warrant and arresting me. I will go with you, under protest, but I am sure you will have to suffer for the outrage."

The captain was then arrested. FIGHT FOR THE FLAG. American Students Defend the Stars and Stripes at Toronto. Toronto, Ont., Nov. 28.—The glorious Stars and Stripes caused a mimic war at the Ontario Veterinary college, when a number of American students headed by a New Yorker named Shaw produced an American flag and hoisted it in the main assembly hall in honor of Thanksgiving Day.

No sooner was the emblem hung, when a tall Canadian named Lindsay seized it, tore it from its fastenings and threw it to the floor. In a second Shaw sprang at him and with a well-directed blow, stretched him on the floor. A riot followed, in which fully 150 boys and young men were engaged, and the eighty of the being American. Dr. Smith, with the assistance of the faculty and a number of older students, finally succeeded in quieting the disturbance and when the object being washed off the blood the day's lectures were resumed.

PRAYERS FOR BOB. Christian Endeavorers Plead for the Conversion of the Skeptic. Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 28.—The movement to offer prayer for the conversion of Ingersoll at noon on Thanksgiving Day met an enthusiastic response today. The Christian Endeavorers were joined largely by Epworth leaguers and Christians generally in the effort to secure Ingersoll's conversion, and many pleaded with tears for the skeptic as they would for their own soul.

HAD STOLEN THE WIRE. Peter Davis Arrested by Patrolman Neuls at Midnight. Peter Davis, a young man 20 years old, was arrested in Court street at midnight with about 100 pounds of copper wire in his possession, which he had stolen from the storeroom of the Scranton Illuminating, Heat and Power company. He was arrested by Patrolman Neuls.

PROTEST OF SOUTHERNERS

They Object to the Action of Ohio and Indiana Delegations.

PROSPECTS OF A LARGE STORM

Mr. Reed's New Sensation—An Applicant for Committee Honors Who Has No Choice—Hoke Smith's Latest Report—Other Topics.

Washington, Nov. 28.—If some of the southern Republican congressmen make good their threats, the prospects of two presidential possibilities may be injured by the action of the Ohio and Indiana delegations last night in voting to support the McDowell-Glenn-Russell combination for the offices of clerk, doorkeeper and sergeant-at-arms of the next house. When the news reached the headquarters of Mr. Tipton, of Tennessee, who is the southern candidate for doorkeeper, at midnight, great indignation was expressed. There were present in Mr. Tipton's room at that time Congressman Brewer, McCull, Gibson and Anderson of Tennessee; J. R. Fortune, of Virginia; ex-Congressman Broderick, of Kansas; and a number of state politicians from Kentucky and North Carolina.

A heated discussion of the situation followed, in which it was repeatedly asserted that neither McKinley nor Harrison could secure the delegations from this trio of southern states at the next presidential convention after the resignation of the delegates to support the southern candidate for doorkeeper. Twenty-two of the twenty-four southern congressmen will caucus tonight to decide whom they will support for one of the house offices, notwithstanding the general belief that the "combination" will win without material opposition.

Mr. Reed's New Sensation. Congressman Thomas B. Reed, of Maine, experienced a new sensation today. It came in the form of a letter from Mr. Broderick, of Kansas. Mr. Broderick, of Kansas wrote that as the only Republican member of the committee on printing he might properly claim the chairmanship in the next house, but that he would not do so; that he preferred on the contrary not to embarrass the prospective speaker with an application of any character, and that he hoped Mr. Reed would feel at liberty to place him wherever he chose. Mr. Reed at once dictated a reply expressing his gratification at Mr. Broderick's unselfishness, and adding joyfully that his request was so reasonable that it should certainly be complied with. Mr. Broderick's letter was then filed away with other papers bearing in Mr. Reed's handwriting this endorsement: "A rare curiosity to be preserved for future generations with the addition of a few others who do not wish to be remembered."

But this experience is so rare that Mr. Reed properly describes it as a new sensation. From present appearances it is not likely to be repeated. He has already received 150 applications for chairmanships and committee assignments and these represent about the number of Republicans in town, with the addition of a few others who do not wish to be remembered. The statement made in these despatches would all be announced at the same time, with the exception, possibly of the committee on rules, mileage and accounts, is confirmed today by one of Mr. Reed's intimate friends. This gentleman doubts if the list will be complete before the 15th of December. Mr. Reed has made no promises either with respect to the chairmanship or to committee assignments.

Hoke Smith's Report. The report of Mr. Hoke Smith, secretary of the interior, elaborately reviews the varied work of the interior department. The report estimates the amount of public lands undisposed of to be about 69,000,000 acres, the close of the fiscal year, and shows that the total receipts during the year for public lands amounted to over $2,000,000. The unadjusted receipts to railroads amount to nearly $9,000,000.

Under the subject of forests the secretary calls attention to the fact that 17,000,000 acres are now included within forest reserves, the object being to thus preserve the forests for future use and through their preservation to control the supply of water so that it may be stored and utilized for irrigation. Unless some plan is devised by congress for the protection of the forests, either by the army or by foresters living upon the reservations it is manifest that the object sought to be accomplished will fail.

Mr. Tipton's Chances. A caucus of Republican members of the house of representatives from the southern states, tonight, to determine upon a course of action in connection with the organization of the house, was attended throughout by eleven members. The caucus was held behind closed doors, and after adjournment the severest to offer prayer for inquiries by saying that they were pledged to secrecy, and positively refused to say anything concerning their action. They even declined to say whether or not any action had been taken. It was learned, however, that in the course of the meeting the situation was fully discussed, and in better temper than was displayed last night by the friends of Mr. Tipton, the Tennessee candidate for doorkeeper, when they heard of the action of the Ohio and Indiana delegations.

It was said by one of the speakers that the southern members should go before the caucus Saturday night and ask recognition by the selection of one of the principal officers from that part of the country; not for sectional reasons, but because of the gain of Republican members. Another speaker advised the solid south to vote with a solid column and in this spirit, a resolution or motion was offered that the caucus vote to support General Vandevanter for clerk, Ed. A. Parker, of London, Ky., for sergeant-at-arms, and Mr. Tipton, of Tennessee, for doorkeeper.

There was some question as to the wisdom of this course, but one of the members remarked that they might as well, even from the lowest point of view, act thus, for were they now to go to the support of the McDowell-Glenn combination, they would get no "preference stock" it had all been issued. They would nail their flag to the mast and go down, if they must, with colors flying.

The proposition to vote for the persons named was agreed to, and the caucus adjourned. German Traveler Drowned. Hamburg, Pa., Nov. 28.—A despatch received here from Auckland, New Zealand, says that the German traveler, Otto Winkler, has been drowned while taking his expedition across British New Guinea, and that twenty natives belonging to his party, were also drowned. All of his dispatches and sketches were lost.

TO UNSEAT MORGAN.

Contestant Takes the Road for Washington and His Friends Have Hopes. Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 28.—Warren S. Reese left for Washington to prosecute his contest for Senator Morgan's seat. He said before leaving that while he might not find it an easy job to oust Morgan, he believed he would at least hinder the perpetration of election frauds in Alabama, prevent the counting of the votes of dogs and dead negroes, and help to restore a Republican form of government in the state. Colonel Reese contends that Morgan was elected by a fraudulently-elected legislature and that the Republicans and the Populists had a majority of five and all voted for Reese. Reese's friends are confident Morgan will be unseated, inasmuch, in addition to frauds they say they can prove, the Republicans in the senate need his vote to organize that body.
