STRUGGLE FOR APPOINTMENTS

Reasons for Ambition on Part of Aspir ants-Ancedote of the New Member-A Blow at The Scranton Republican's Seed Bureau.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Washington, Nov. 29.—By tomorrow all the members of congress are expected to be here. Many or them are in town now, especially those interested in the battle over the house offices. The friends of all the candidates have been friends of all the candidates have been on the ground with coats off and sleeves up for more than a week. At this writing it looks as though the combine's slate will go through without much trouble. On the slate are:

McDowell, of Pennsylvania, for clerk; Glenn, of New York, for doorkeeper; Russell, of Missouri, for sergeant-at-arms.

The combine have not picked their man for postmaster, but he will likely come from Ohio. Rev. Turner, of Kansas, will probably do the praying man for postmaster, but he will likely come from Ohlo. Rev. Turner, of Kansas, will probably do the praying for the house.

The backers of General Henderson, of Illinois, are still full of fight and in the language of the late John G. Thompson, of Ohlo, are "claiming everything and conceding nothing." As stated in a dispatch in the early part of this week General Henderson, if defeated for the clerkship, may break the combine's slate and capture the sergeant-at-arms. The general has a host of friends among the McDowell supporters who will no doubt vote for him for sergeant-at-arms after their candidate for clerk is out of the woods.

Ex-Speaker and Speaker-to-be Reed has been in town all week, but he has maintained a dignified silence on the question as to what the coming congress will do in the way of legislation. Mr. Reed has run up his presidential lightning rod and he therefore recognizes the value of silence at this time. In making up his committees he will use the greatest judgment possible. He will no doubt put men at the head of the important committees who will be able to secure for him the largest number of delegates to the next Republican national convention.

Senator Quay, who has been in Florida since the election, is expected to reach here tomorrow. He will take no active interest in the fight for house offices, as the Pennsylvania delegation is a unit for his friend, McDowell, and if he attempted to control members from other states he would probably hurt rather than help the cause of McDowell.

Mr. McDowell's Ambition.

Some people wonder why McDowell

Mr. McDowell's Ambition.

Some people wonder why McDowell wants to be clerk of the house, after having been a member of congress. The question is easily answered. McDowell is no different from hundreds of other ex-members. He was in Washington just long enough to fall in love with the city. It is true he is wealthy enough to live here, and be a gentleman of lessure, but that is not the question. He has had a pull at the public teat and, like everybody else, he likes it. McDowell runs a banking business in Sharon, Pa. He is the bank. He is president, board of Mr. McDowell's Ambition the bank. He is president, board of directors, etc. In other words, he owns the bank. The major is an inveterate smoker of Pittsburg stogies. He introduced the "pesky things" in the last congress, and now many of the members have become slaves to the habit. He always keeps a box of them on tap at his headquarters, and takes a great deal of pleasure in handing his callers a "death dealer," and then calmly await results. The first time a fellow tackles a Pittsburg stogie he invariable gets sick. This tickles the major.

stogle he invarial tickles the major. There is more reason for General Henderson wanting the clerkship than Major McDowell. He needs it from a Major McDowell. He access it from a financial point of view. The general was in congress twenty years, but he never saved a dollar. His salary didn't more than keep him, and he was too honest to take any of the money that honest to take any of the money that is floating around at times. In disposition General Henderson is one of the most lovable men that ever came to congress. He doesn't know the first principal of meanness. He is kind and affectionate, and probably hasn't an enemy in the world. He is 71 years old today. Sympathy, if nothing else, will probably secure for him the office of sergeant-at-arms. He certainly deserves recognition of some kind from the party which he has served so long and faithfully.

The Irrepressible New Member.

The Irrepressible New Member.

The Irrepressible New Member.

The new member of congress, as a rule, is decidedly "new" in the strictest sense of the word. He is an important individual, indeed. About the first thing he does when he strikes town is to visit the clerk's office and see if his name is on the roll. Then he visits the various departments just to let the officials know he is in town and is a full fledged member of congress. If he is stopping at a hotel he watching the register to see if any of the late arrivals are from his district. He then hunts up a friend, generally an old member of congress, to pilot him around town and show him the sights. One of these "new" members, I will call him Jones for short, was introduced to Senator Gorman the other day, and this is what followed:

"This is Mr. Gorman, Mr. Jones," said the gentleman in charge of the "new" member.

"I didn't catch the name," said Jones.

"new" member.
"I didn't catch the name," said Jones.
"Gorman," replied the distinguished Marylander.
"Member of the House?" inquired the

"new" member.
"No, sir; Senate."
"Oh, yes; Senator Gorman, I see!" replied Mr. Newmember. "Let me see!
From what state, Mr. Gorman?"
"Maryland." said Senator Gorman, who by this time was somewhat irritated by his newly-made acquaintance's ignorance.

"Oh, yes," replied Mr. Newmember.
"Democrat or Republican?"
This last question was more than the leader of the Democrats of the Senate could stand, and with a look of disgust on his face, he turned on his heel, and walked hurriedly away, leaving Mr. Newmember and his friend staring at exhibited by the average new member of congress.

The outgoing clerk of the House, Hon. James Kerr, who has resided in Washington for the past four years, will remove with his family to Clearfield, Pa., about the first of the new year. Mr. Merr was very popular in Washington and his enforced departure will be respected by many. He will probably come back to Washington as a member of congress from the Twenty-eighth district when the Democrats up there set control again. Mr. Kerr has leased his Washington residence on Capitol Fill to Representative Leonard, of the highest Pennsylvania district.

Against Third Term.

Mr. Logan Carlisle is one Democratic office-holder under President Cieveland, who is opposed to a third term, and he mays so without any hesitancy. In discussing the question of third term with cussing the question of third term with your correspondent a day or two ago he cuid he would prefer to see the Demo-cratic party defeated next year than to have it establish the third term prece-dent. Mr. Carnille probably not only voices his own sentiments in this ques-tion, but those of his father, the secre-tary of the treasury. Pessiliving we tion, but those of his father, the secre-tary of the treasury. Pessibly he was speaking the thoughts of President Cleveland himself.

The president will send his message to congress probably on Tuesday. It will be read in both houses immediate-ly after the opening of the session and will be one of the most important docu-ments Mr. Cleveland has addressed to the national legislature. It will have im-portant bearing on the government's portant bearing on the government's financial condition, it will contain rec-ommendations regarding giaring de-fects in an imperfect currency system and it will state the attitude of the adgents, who are struggling for freedom from the iron rule of Spain. A conspleuous feature of it will be a recommendation touching on bond issues. The speculative world will receive with interest the modifications which Mr. Cleveland will suggest respecting certain tariff schedules, potably the suggest.

Concerning the Senate. The senate will not be reorganized at the opening of the session. It will be a continuous body practically for the two great parties are about on an equal footing in numerical strength, and it will take time and politics to deter-mine whether the rule that shall prevail shall be Democratic or Republican. Secretary Morton, of the agricultural Secretary Morton, of the agricultural department, has abolished the seed division of his department and thus saves Uncle Sam a cool million dollars a year. The abolishment of this useless adjunct to the agricultural department is generally commended, although it will be greatly missed by members representing rural or farming districts and country editors, who used the seeds to boom circulation. The rural circulation of Congressman Scranton's Mugwump Republican will doubtless take a downward course next straing about "Plantin' time." spring about "plantin' time," W. R. Bell.

Several Appointments. Washington, Nov. 29.—It was reported at a late hour tonight that Mr. Reed has practically decided upon two of the chairmanships, which he will give to the New York delegation. James S. Sherman, of Utica, is said to be one of the lucky men, and the committee on which rumors place him is of Indian affairs, over which Mr. Holman, of Indiana, presided at the last congress. The impression is deepening that Sereno E. Payne, of Auburn, the senior Republican member of the committee on ways and means, will not secure the chairmanship of that important committee, but that it will be given to Mr. Dingley, of Maine. It is also reported tonight that the chairmanship of the judiciary committee will be given to Mr. Dalzell, of Pittsburg.

liar Criminal Case Upon Record-A Detective Accused.

Wellsboro, Pa., Nov. 29.-The county court here has been occupied all this week on the case of Mrs. Charlotte Howell, who is charged with the mur-der of Miss Elizabeth Knapp, at Tloga last May. It will be remembered that Miss Knapp died under mysterious cir-Miss Knapp died under mysterious circumstances, and it was suspected that she had been poisoned. Detectives were set to work and the more they investigated the case, the more probable it became that a foul deed had been committed. Miss Knapp lived with Mrs. Howell and for months before her death she received every day or two a threatening anonymous letter. Libble (Miss Knapp) saved all the letters until she had about 190. These are now to be offered in evidence and an attempt is to be made, to establish the fact that Mrs. He rell was the author of them all, and that she it was who, from a jealous motive gave she made the printed copies of the letters. She stated that Dupignae, one of the New York detectives, was in the room alone with her and that he made an insuiting proposal to her, offered her 25 to accede to his request. She alleges that the detectives told her that if she would confess the whole thing they would let her off free.

Dupignae took the stand and declared that there was no truth in the woman's testimony regarding his words and actions. The letters made by Mrs. Howell were then offered in evidence as a ground upon which to establish the fact that she brought the original notes to Libble Knapp, which contained vile insinuations and threats. The court ruled all these letters out and this is considered a very strong point for the defence. The case is a very singular one in criminal annals. The evidence is purely circumstantial, but is deemed to be cuite complete in every point, except on that of a motive for poisoning the girl.

If the commonwealth is able to make it appear that Mrs. Howell was jealous of the girl the case will be a strong one, without this, it will, ho doubt, be imsaible to convict her.

The execution took place promptly at 12 o'clock and the murderer's neck was broken, and he was pronounced dead in fifteen minutes.

BIG COTTON EXPOSITION.

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 28.—Augusta has started a plan to include the whole south for a southern cotton exposition in Chicago. It is proposed to have a cotton exposition in Chicago, whose purposes shall be: First to make customers for present products; second, to open direct lines of distribution between producer and consumer; third, to bring to the knowledge of the captures and consumer; third, ing way the great opportunities for profit which southern cotton mills af-ford, and, finally, to show to the great west that Chicago is the natural and logical distribution control for $27,000 west that Chicago is the natural and logical distributing center for $275,000,logical distributing center for $275,000,-000 worth of cotton goods annually, which the south must and will naturally and logically make; and to offer to Chicago the great prize of an immense trade in exchange for Chicago's mighty assistance in building up the south.

The exhibit, its designers say, should be as practical and business-like in its nature as expedient, with enough of the picturesque element to make it attractive to the public.

DUNS ARE DYSPEPTIC.

The Business Outlook is Decidedly Gloomy from the Standpoint of the Review of Trade.

New York, Nov. 29.—R. G. Dunn and company will say tomorrow in their weekly, review of trade: The failures for the past week have The failures for the past week have been 279 in the United States against 239 last year, and 47 in Canada against 36 last year. Business has not improved, though there is very little change except in the shrinkage of prices which is a period of inaction naturally caused. The movement of crops is only fair, both cotton and wheat being largely kept back in the hope of higher prices, and there is a prevalent feeling that foreign imports will fall off. Exports show a little gain for the week although the small outgo of cotton is still a threatening fact as respects foreign exchange.

Railroads reporting for November show a gain of 8.4 per cent. in earning compared with last year, and a loss of 1 per cent. compared with 1892. There is no especial gain attributed to the Trunk Line agreement as yet, but stocks have advanced an average of een 279 in the United States against 19 last year, and 47 in Canada against stocks have advanced an average of 44 cents per share for railroads, while declining 37 cents per share for trusts. On the whole, the demand is nothing like what it would be if general busi-ress were in a normal condition. The expeculation may be a part to be a part of the prorees were in a normal condition. The speculative markets have not helped for while wheat is a cent higher, with corn unchanged, cotton is a shade higher, and held with much stiffness in spite of all evidence of the abundant supplies abroad, and the sagging trade of European spinners. Goods here are a shade weaker, perhaps 1 per cent. on the whole, in spite of a small advance in raw cotton.

Another sharp fall in hides at Chicargo has not been followed by leather, which has declined only for grain, nor proportionately by boots and shoes. The manufacturers are getting remarkably little new business for the season and many look for no material change until after January I. The woolen business makes scarcely any gain.

The iron market is decidedly weaker ngain, and while Bessemer pig has declined to $12.85 at Pittsburg and grey forge to $12.25 and plates to $1.60 at Philadelphia, so that the average of al. quotations is about half of one per cent. lower than last week. A sharp decline is noted in barbed wire. The bar association and the two nail associations re-fuse to reduce prices of their products, although the demand has been surpris-although the demand has been surprised ingly reduced since the great advance two or three months ago, and there were rumors in the market that one of the big combinations had gone to pieces because of underselling by members.

The western receipts of wheat continue larger than last year, for the week 5. 50,201 busheis against 3,565,404 a year ago. As before, Atlantic exports are relatively small, and for four weeks have been only 8,267,106 bushels, flour included, aginst 6,742,306 last year. It is evident that wit such movement higher prices can hardly be expected, nor can the exchange situation be favorably affected.

Rouse, Col., Nov. 29.—Francis Schlatter, the healer, passed through this coal-mining village this afternoon, mounted upon a gray horse. A number of people who had seen him in Denver positively identified him, His coming has been anticipated by rumors which came from Walsenberg last night. He was met a distance from town by nearcame from Walsenberg last night. He was met a distance from town by nearly the entire population, who flocked about and begged him to give them the healing grasp. The healer dismounted and grasped the hand of every one who came to him. He did not talk and refused to answer questions. He said only that he was going south and that he thad traveled twenty rilles during the day. After everybody had shaken hands with him he mounted his horse and rode on. and rode on.

Indianapolis lias a Healer. Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 29.—George W. Bunting, the street commissioner of this city, is said to possess the zame healing power that has attracted so much attention to Schlatter. much attention to Schlatter.

"I do not know what influence it is," said he today, "It consists merely in the laying on of hands. I have cured over 2,000 persons, but I never took a cent for my services, and I have al-always tried to keep my work out of the papers, because, as I said, I was a crank. I went into the Pates house one evening and D. F. Whitcomb there we

I passed my hand over his face two or three times and told him he would suffer no more pain. In an instant his sufferings stopped, and in a short time the sweiling was gone and he has never been bothered since.

"A man came here from the south who was suffering with a cancer on his face. He had spent uearly every cent of his money trying to be cured, and the doctors had told him his case was hopeless. He was an old friend of mine and came here to visit me, knowing nothing of my ability to heal. The first day he was suffering intensely. I had him lie down on the lounge in my office and I passed my hands over his face and the pain was gone. I told him that in three weeks the cancer would disappear, but he laughed at me, and so did several of the local doctors to whom he talked. I gave him three greatments, passed my hands over his face at three different times, and shortly after the last time the cancer was gone, and it has never returned. I showed the man to several doctors, famong them Dr. Lockridge, and they would hardly believe it."

SATOLLI IS CARDINAL. The Apostolic Delegate is Elevated by the Consistory.

Rome, Nov. 29.—A secret consistory, was held at the Vatican today, over which the Pope presided. The session ended at noon, when it was announced that His Holiness was in fair health and had made a speech of some length eulogizing the new cardinals whom the consistory had elevated to the sacred college. Among the prelates elevated to the cardinalate by the consistory was Archbishop Satolli, apostolic delegate to the United States. The Pope also recognized four new Italian bishops. the Consistory
