HOLMES IS SENTENCED.

The Murderer Condemned to the Gallows by Judge Arnold.

Philadelphia, Dec. 1.—Herman W. Mudgett, alias H. H. Holmes, who was convincted of murder in the first degree for having caused the death, in this city, of Benjamin F. Pietzel, was yesterday sentenced to be hanged. An opinion denying a new trial was de-livered by Judge Arnold. The opinion was concurred in by Judges Thayer, Wilson and Arnold, who heard the ap-plication for a new trial.

During the pronouncing of the sent-ence, Holmes kept his eyes fixed upon the judge, but he did not betray any emotion. He turned to his guard with the remark, "That is all," and walked out of the court room. The case will be appealed. The date of execution will be fixed by Governor Hastings.

STATE'S FINANCES.

Balance in the Treasury Two Millions Below the Fund of Last Year.

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 1.—The fiscal year at the state treasury ended on Saturday. The balance in the general fund was $2,389,018.88 as against $5,014,942.18 a year ago. The receipts for 1895 were $11,377,024.75 and the total payments for the same period $13,462.88 of the for the same period $13,402,948.05. The amount paid on appropriations was $11,805,005.13, which exceeded the estimated expenditures over $2,000,000.

From the item of receipts for 1895 should be deduced state tax returned to countles, personal fees, attorney general's commission, etc, amounting to $1,752,895.94, which was not available for appropriations and therefore rev-enue in name only.

DEPOSING THE SULTAN.

Many of His Subjects Are Talking of This Possibility.

Boston, Dec. 1.—A letter has been re-ceived from a Bostonian who has been in Turkey since 1859, and has returned after a year's vacation in Boston. He says that the minds of men generally in Constantinople, Mohammedans as well as non-Mohammendans, are great-ly disturbed and there is a marked sulenness of expression on many faces and a rudeness of manner which are quite unusual. Most people have lost hope of reform and of any substantial improvement under the present sus-picious and tyrannical regime.

The dethronement of the Sultan is the secret, but common, talk of the

TEN BODIES RECOVERED.

Victims of the Disaster at the Tilly Poster Iron Mine.

Brewster's, N. Y., Dec. 1.—The bodies of four more of the men who were crushed to death by the fall of 100 tons of slickensides in the Tilly Foster mine Friday afternoon were recovered yesterday morning, making ten in all. There are believed to b three more bodies in the bottom of the mine.

It will probably take three or four days of digging to get at the bodies.

ANOTHER MASSACRE.

All the Armenians, Young and Old, Eitled

All the Armenians, Young and Old, Eitled in Baiburt.

Vienna, Dec. 1.—The Politische Correspondens has received information that the entire Armenian population of Baiburt, sixty-five miles northwest of Erzerum, and Kurahissar, about fifty miles south of Diartekir, have been massacred by Lazes Kurds.

The Turkish population of Tamzara joined the Kurds in massacring the Armenians of that place, killing men, women and children.

WILKES-BARRE.

FISHER INNOCENT.

So Says the Jury After Twenty Minutes

Deliberation. When court opened on Saturday morning Attorney John T. Lenahan began one of the strongest arguments that he has ever made in court. He took the evidence piecemeal, and spoke on it, showing that it was not a stranger that lured Barney Reick away from home on that night. Reick was a cautious man, and would not leave home with a stranger, and carrying so large with a stranger, and carrying so large a sum of money. There are two in-teresting scenes in this trial. One was the cold-blooded story of Jack Rob-inson, the other the proud and haughty manner in which the minister of our city laws admits he aided the defense. Lenahan's denouncement of Mayor Nichols was terrible. He said Robinson was a criminal, a murderer, but Mayor Nichols is worse, for his unofficial and strange action of assisting in the defense of the murderers.

Judge Lynch's charge began with the carticulars of the crime. Hendricks Judge Lynch's charge began with the particulars of the crime. Hendricks, said the judge, has been found guilty and is suffering for his crime; Jack Robinson pleaded guilty, and is also in the penientlary. James Fisher is now on trial and Michael Kearney is in the county jall awaiting trial and defined the degrees of murder. The court continued. "The counsel in the case agreed that if James Fisher is guilty he is guilty of murder in the first decontinued. "The counsel in the case agreed that if James Fisher is guilty he is guilty of murder in the first degree. The contention is that Fisher, the accused, was in the conspiracy for the robbery of Reick. The true criterion of murder in the first degree is a wilful taking of life. But you will also remember that murder perpetrated in the commission of robbery is murder of the first degree. All the evidence tends to show that this crime was committed for the purpose of robbery, and the guilty ones have committed murder of the first degree. The prisoner then is either guilty of murder of the first degree or he is innocent. You may bring in a verdict of second degree, but it will not be in accordance with the law. There has been much said regarding Robinson, Hendricks and Kearney, but you gentlemen have and Kearney, but you gentlemen have only to deal with Fisher. If you be-lieve from the evidence in this case that Fisher aided and abetted Robinson in taking Reick from his home, that is sufficient, even if there was not blow struck.

The jury left the room at 3.35. Just twenty minutes later, they returned with a verdict of "not guilty." Fisher. with a verdict of "not guilty." Fisher, who was in the prisoner's corner, arose as the verdict was given, smiled and flushed with gratification, turned to his lawyers, who were just entering the room. Attorney Shea at once asked that Fisher be discharged and Court Crier Barnes taking Fisher before the bar, made the usual announcement that if anybody had anything to say why James Fisher should not depart. why James Fisher should not depart, innocent of the crime, they should come forward and say so or forever af-terwards hold their peace.

Judge Lynch then remarked: "You are discharged, Mr. Fisher." Court then adjourned and a number of the lawyers, as well as friends of the prisoner hurried forward to shake hands with him, and offer their congratulations and later he went home with fils sister. The verdict met with general approval.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Schoffstall appeared before Mayor Nichols, bringing with her her daughter Effle, who, she says, has fallen into evil ways. The charge was proved and the mother is half-crazed by her daughter's waywardness and all pleading and prayers for her have been unavailing. Effle is only 16 years of age, a typical brunette, well dressed and quite prepossessing. Notwithstanding her tendering es he is old in sin, and has once been to the Home of Good Shepherd, but it appears, she is irredeemable. The mother this morning refused to have Effle sent to jail and the mayor decided to once more send her to the Home of the Good Shepherd. Effle begged to be allowed one more trial at home, but Mrs. Schoffstall refused, saying she had heard such promises before well they had been bryken repeatedly. Sent to the Home of the Good Shepherd, in she had heard such promises before and they had been broken repeatedly. Effic will be taken to Scranton today.

A Curling Rink.

The curling club of this city has demonstrated its progressiveness, and will soon begin the construction of a curling rink on the West Side. They have, accordingly, leased an acre of land from A. R. Gates, of Eingston. The plot adjoins Athletic park on the South and has been leased for a term of ten or twenty years at the option of the club.

the club.

It is expected that the rink will be completed in ten days at he most. The portion of the park that will be flooded with water from Spring brook to a depth of eighteen inches and as soon as depth of eighteen inches and as soon as it freezes the invigorating sport of skating will be indulged in. The pipes from Spring brook run close by the Curling club's plot, so it will only be necessary to connect at the nearest point. The rink entire will cost about $3,500.

Suit for Big Damages.

Myrtle J. Shoemaker, through her at-torneys, J. M. Garman and T. D. Gar-man, on Saturday began suit in tres-pass against the Wilkes-Barre and Wypass against the Wilkes-Barre and Wyoming Valley Traction company for $50,000 damages. The plaintiff, who is a resident of Nanticoke, says that on August 5, 1895, while she was riding to her home, a car collided with the one she was in and she was thrown violently against the side of the car, and had both legs and arms injured.

Hurt While Gunning.

John Lyons, of Georgetown, went hunting on Saturday and returned with three fingers of his left hand gone. The gun was accidentally discharged and the fingers blown off. Mr. Lyons says he had a narrow escape from re-ceiving the charge through the body.

THE NEW SOUTH.

THE NEW SOUTH.

Philadelphia Builetin: Neither the political campaigns in other States nor the thickening rush of rumors of war from over the sea have been allowed to interfere with the business Georgia has on hand. Visitors at the Atlanta Exhibition are of one voice and verdict regarding the wonders of the fair. If half the reports are trustworthy, it is clear that though the Georgians may not have created the "greatest show on earth," they have achieved wonders. The Liberty Bell could add a stirring tale to the events it had witnessed if its tongue were endowed with a phonetic power. The President of the United States, as well as our own civic Chief Magistrate, has witnessed the marvels of a recreated people. From the President down the tale is the same. An orderly Babal of activities comprehending the achievements of all the Gulf States—with hospitable thousands eager to dephonor to the visitor from the North. For when the Southern "hustler" undertakes to set his best foot first in hospitality his warmth and welcome are entirely unlike our measured Northern demonstration. It is almost impossible to reconcile the majestic pageant going on today in Atlanta, with another spectacle that enlisted the attention of the civilized world on the same spot, thirty years ago.

the attention of the civilized world on the same spot, thirty years ago.

The campaign begun in May, 1864, had brought Sherman, after a summer of march and battle, of ambush and magoeuvre, to the then most important city of the gulf. The intrepid lexions of Johnston had been worn out and dispersed. The flery Hood had gathered the remnant of all the armies dispersed in the South and daringly confronted the Northern masses. Atlanta and its environs for a space of thirty miles was a war-devastated ruin. Whole armies were at rest, the rest of death, between the Northern base at Chattanooga and the tortuous streams of the Chattahoochee, Miles of pitfalls that had been entrenchments defaced all the south land-from the mountains gulfward. Atlanta itself bore no semblance of a city—for the cruel need of Sherman's future operations demanded that the place should afford no more refuge or resource to the dispersed armies of the south. Though less ravaged by the carpetbag regime and the hideous Ku-Klux reign of terror, Georgia and its capital, Atlanta, were suspended in development until northern foresight pointed out the ways and means of rehabilitation. Added to this, a native group of clear-sighted ploneers, who insisted upon the elimination of past doctrins, past hates, worn-out methods, and, presently, Atlanta began to share with Chicago and other western "boom" of Atlanta has gone on steadily, until today the whole country is called to witness the reality of her quarter of a century of enlightened effort.

whole country is called to witness the reality of her quarter of a century of enlightened effort.

These swift contrasts in so short a space have no parallel in the history of peoples. For the spectacle the visitor's eye resis upon as he pushes through the penetralia of industrial wonders would have been considered astonishing in Paris or Vienna thirty years ago. Such work done, such exhibits gathered, such grandiose evidence of human recuperation evince an extraordinary evolution. It is not only a recrudescence of ancient aptness; it is a revelation of a new growth. As France is never so thoroughly France as when the Gaulish spirit revives—the South is never so thoroughly American as when it revives the characteristics of its forefathers, the men who transformed the dark and bloody grounds into growing plantations, industrial entrepots for the emulation of the aptitudes which have made the North a workshop of peoples. Nor can the most strenuous partisan pretend that any political line of demarcation is responsible for this magnificent transformation. The forces and impulses that make Atlanta to-day a twin wonder with Chicago reside in the practical good sense, the rare sagacity, the tireless energy of a whole people. There is, of course, that attractive element of the chivalric and picturesque in Southern character which gives the present pageant its charm, perhaps its humor for the less impressible Northern spectator.

The South is to our Northern latitudes to infinite industries—to say nothing of being brought face to face with new types of womanly charm and manly grace. In fact, every man, woman and child who has a week to spare would be prouder of his birthright, fonder of the republic, by a glimpse of the New South and its grow-ing acropolls, Atlanta.

MR. BRICE OF NEW YORK.

MR. BRICE OF NEW YORK.

Hochester Post-Express: Calvin S. Brice is a remarkable man. When he went on his wedding journey he was so poor that he had to pawn his watch for railroad fare. Now he is worth twenty millions or more; he is a large owner of railroads, mines, and factories; his wife has $50,000 a year for spending money; each of his children has $10,000 a year, and Brice, who maintains palatial residences in three cities and travels around the country in special trains, is growing richer every day. He is very ambitious; not for more money, but for prominence in politics. His ambition is to be president of the United States and he has so much faith in himself that he does not doubt his ultimate success. In the Ohio campaigns of 1888 and 1889 he expended an enormous amount of money in the legislative districts; a Democratic logislature was elected and it belonged to Brice. It elected him a senator of the United States. He claimed that he was a resident of Lima, but that claim was disputed and there was serious thought of contesting his election. It was certain that Brice had refused to pay taxes in Ohlo on his personal property on the ground that he was a resident of New York. Suits were brought against him and there was considerable excitement over the matter for months. But no action was ever taken by the Federal senate. Brice was allowed to keep his seat.

the Federal senate. Brice was allowed to keep his seat.

He desired a re-election and he went into the campaign with enthusiasm. He became the master of the Ohio Democracy and the boss of the state convention. His orders were obeyed. There was some grumbling, but there was no revolt. Then came the campaign, which ended in Ohio, as elsewhere, in Democratic defeat. Before the canvass had gone on ten days Brice expected defeat. Walter Wellman the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald, knows Senator Brice well. He says: "Brice showed his shrewdness in the recent campaign in Ohio. Sixty days ago he thought of making a fight for the state. He was prepared, in case he saw a chance to win, to throw half a million or a million of money into the canvass. But before doing so his temperamental caution sent thin to Ohio to look into affairs himself. Three tours did he make across the state by special train. Each time he took with him a railroad superintendent, and the duty of this official was to go to each station agent along the line and say to him: "There is a gentleman in the car outhere who wants to talk politics with you. He doesn't care what party you belong to, but he wants you to tell him just what you hear and think. He wants you to be frank and honest with him." When the agent entered the car he was taken in hand by Mr. Brice, and there is no keener cross-examiner than he. In two minutes he had ascertained all that agent knew about the political situation, all he had learned from his intercourse with travelers, with shippers, and with politicians. Then the special car was hurried on to the next station, where the process was repeated.

In this way Brice gauged public sentiment in Ohio, and he raused it so accounts.

politicians. Then the special car was hurried on to the next station, where the process was repeated.

In this way Brice gauged public sentiment in Ohio, and he gauged it so accurately that he decided not to make a fight for the state. He knew there was no chance of success. All he did do was to make a show for the sake of appearance, for the sake of holding the party together. The result is a justification of his judgment and of his method, which is quite like Mr. Croker's way of going about New York before an election, talking with the street car and truck drivers, with laboring men on the streets, and with barbers in their shops. In 1892 Mr. Croker told me, three days before election, within 5,000 of Cleveland's plurality in the city, and last week he told me Tammany would win by 25,000. They fall only a few short of that figure. Mr. Brice was not so quite so accurate in his estimate of Bushnell's majdrity in Ohio. He thought it would be 25,000 or 40,000." Now what is Brice going to do? Abandon all hopes of a political career? Not at all! This correspondent learns from one of Brice's intimate friends that the senator has decided to shake the dust of Ohio from his feet, acquire a legal residence in New York city, plunge into politics, and work to the front there. He believes that Hill's political supremacy is over, that the other leaders of the New York Democracy, with the posible excep-tion of Whitney, wil offer no opposition and that by 1900 he will be master of the Democratic party of the Empire state and a formidable candidate for the presiden-tial nomination.

This story of Senator Brice's plans is at least probable. He has nothing to hope for in Ohio, and the chances in New York are immense. With his wealth, his abilities, his sublime faith in himself, and his enthusiasm, there is no reason why Mr Brice cannot become a leader of the Democratic party in this state—if devotion to the people and genuine statesmanship be not requisite.

SCIENCE NOTES.

It is estimated that within the past seven years not less than 500,600 horses have been displaced by the trolley.

It is said that 20,000 cubic feet of water plungs 100 feet downward over the Niag-ara escarpment every second, thus wast-ing 10,000,000 horse power of energy to the second. If Niagara were really "har-nessed" so as to utilize this energy it would be sufficient to run more machinery than there is in the world.
