Burke favored with a song. Miss Wardwell recited "The Last Hymn" in a way that shows her to be possessed of fine dramatic ability. The contest for the prize quilt presented by Mrs. Charles Lord, was won by Comrade Lewis Lotte.

The earliest arrest on record was made by Patrolman Heese G. Jones Saturday evening. He was patrolling Hill street, and while making the rounds of the station house about 6 o'clock discovered a man stretched out on the sidewalk, a can of drink and fast asleep. He tried to awaken him, but the fellow was in such a drunken stupor that he could not be aroused, so the officer locked him in. Inquiry among the lodgers elicited the information that the fellow had staggered in through the back door and entered the cell, pulling the door shut after him. At the hearing yesterday morning he gave his name as Ben John, of Peckville. Alderman Millar let him go on account of the trouble he saved the officers.

BUT LITTLE RAIN FELL.

Lack of Humidity Was the Feature of November Weather.

H. E. Paine, voluntary weather observer for the month of November to the meteorological bureau. The total rainfall of the month was only one and three-fourths inches. This is less than half what has fallen every November for the past seven years. The average is three and one-half inches for the present season.

The average maximum temperature was fifty and seventeen-thirtieths degrees; the average minimum is thirty-three and one-thirtieth degrees. What is meant by these statistics is that the highest temperatures are added together and divided by thirty, and the lowest temperatures are added together and divided by thirty, and the result is the average. The warmest day of the month was Nov. 9, when the mercury went to 72; the coldest was Nov. 22, when it went down to 15. It rained on Nov. 2, 20, 21 and 29. The heaviest rainfall in any twenty-four consecutive hours was on Nov. 15, when forty-four hundredths of an inch fell.

The prevailing winds were west. There were nine clear days, eight partially cloudy ones and thirteen cloudy ones. The lowest temperature was 15, the small amount of rainfall. It rained on but six days. It was a very bleak month and not unlike the one immortalized by the poet Burns.

GARDNER AGAIN ARRESTED.

He is Charged with Issuing Bogus Insurance Policies.

J. W. Gardner, alias Luce, alias Vosburg, was caught in the police dragnet last night. Gardner's operations have been quite extensive, covering a period of nearly a year and for boldness are quite unequalled in this region. They began last Spring when he secured from the Iron Mutual Insurance company of Pittsburg and began his work by a series of misdeeds which culminated in his arrest on May 15. While in the custody of Patrolman Sartor, going along Alder street to the station house, he shot himself in the temple with suicidal intent. He was taken to the Lackawanna hospital, where he lingered for a time between life and death. Finally he recovered and one night made his escape from the hospital. He disappeared for a month or so, but after the matter had died out to a certain extent he took up his residence in this city, occupying room at a boarding house on Millin avenue. By some means known as yet only by himself, he secured a quantity of blank policies belonging to insurance companies represented by C. G. Boland, and went about soliciting himself as an agent in Mr. Boland's employ went about in isolated districts doing insurance business at very low rates.

The outskirts of Dunmore and the district lying between Dunmore and Olyphant was his principal stamping ground, but he was not content with that. He was taken to the Lackawanna hospital, where he lingered for a time between life and death. Finally he recovered and one night made his escape from the hospital. He disappeared for a month or so, but after the matter had died out to a certain extent he took up his residence in this city, occupying room at a boarding house on Millin avenue. Police After Him Again.

The first complaint against Gardner was made by one of his victims in this city. Chief Simpson had a warrant sworn out and almost every night for the last month Lieutenant Davies has had the officer on the Millin avenue beat keep a lookout for Gardner. All this time, however, he was working in the upper part of the valley and leaving Dunmore. Last evening he returned to his Millin avenue house, and by a singular coincidence an Olyphant constable came here yesterday afternoon seeking Chief Simpson's assistance in locating him. Several holders of his bogus policies in that district inquired into the genuineness of the policies, with the result that they were clearly convinced that C. G. Boland had no such man on the road, and that the fellow was a representative of no company or agency whatever. They then began a hunt for their dollars and revenge and as a first step dispatched the Olyphant officer to this city to look up the victim.

Patrolman Neuls accompanied the constable to Gardner's house, and to their pleasant surprise and his deep chagrin found him at home. He was arrested on the Olyphant warrant and will be turned over to his victims in that locality. The warrant which Chief Simpson holds will be kept in abeyance.

The publishing of his arrest was no doubt, bring to light the full extent of Gardner's operations.

Another Plan He Worked.

It has also come to light that he has been working in Taylor and Old Forge as the representative of the Cosmopolitan Building and Loan Association of Syracuse.

Gardner is about 50 years of age and of a somewhat attractive and dignified bearing. He is said, also, to possess exceptional shrewdness and cunning.

A PECULIAR DEATH.

Allowed Deadly Fumes to Escape from a Gas Conductor with Fatal Results.

Michael Kubiak, a laborer at the blast furnace, met his death Saturday at noon in a peculiar manner.

For some unaccountable reason he opened a slide in one of the big gas conductors and before he could get away from the spot was enveloped in flame and suffocated by the deadly fumes. All signs of life had disappeared before medical aid could be summoned.

Coroner Kelly inquired into the matter and, with a jury consisting of Edward Gardner, Michael Girey, John J. Sheetz, James Hoffman, Jacob Emrich and Patrick Connerton, came to the conclusion that death was accidental and that the company was in no wise to blame.

Deceased was 28 years of age and lived on Kirist street, South Side. A wife and one child survive him.

ARE NOT TAKING SIDES.

The D. L. and W. Men at Liberty to Act as They Please.

NOT INSTRUCTED FOR DAVIES.

Neither Are They Under Orders to Work for Moir and Westfahl—A Significant Interview with Supt. Benjamin Hughes.

Saturday evening's Times contained the following significant interview with General Mine Superintendent Benjamin Hughes, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company: "For some time past a report has been circulated to the effect that the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad had endorsed the candidature of James Moir, for mayor, and Thomas D. Davies for city treasurer in the coming municipal election. The report was based upon what was presumed to be good authority and was given credence by many. In elections heretofore similar reports have been circulated in regard to other candidates, but have never really been verified. In this instance, however, the candidate for city treasurer is a foreman under the D. L. & W. company and for that reason the report is more generally known than it has been in previous campaigns. The company's representatives, however, deny and ridicule the idea and claim that it is a false report issued for the benefit of certain candidates for only the time being.

"That members of certain officials are used in campaigns for the benefit of certain candidates is admitted, sometimes for intimidation, sometimes for the friendly influence they possess. At all events, it is a fact that the knowledge or consent of the persons whose name is used.

"Superintendent Hughes interviewed in order that the report might be verified or refuted. He called on the reporter called upon General Mine Superintendent Benjamin Hughes, whose name is among those in use in behalf of Messrs. Moir and Davies. This subject of the report he laughed and ridiculed the idea saying: 'I didn't know there was any such report out. The idea is taken from the Mine Foreman Decker. Mr. Hughes said: 'There is one of our foremen, ask him if he has had any instructions.' Mr. Decker replied: 'I have had no instructions, but I am informed of any preference held by the company.

"Continuing the superintendent said: 'Sometimes candidates do come to me and ask me to do this or that, but I never promise. I sometimes do ask the foremen how they are on such and such a man, and they reply that they are for or against him, but I never say anything in saying that they are never intimidated. It is always optional with them how they vote and it is the same with the foremen as to where they put their influence.

"Nothing Heard About Using Influence.

"If the candidate is a good man they can work in his behalf which they have a perfect right to do, but they confine themselves to the bounds of propriety. I have heard absolutely nothing, however, in this campaign about using my influence in any way.

"When asked about reports to the effect that the company worked in behalf of candidates in previous elections, Mr. Hughes declared it was false."

Change of Venue Can Be Had.

When two disagreements result in the trial of a case, upon application of either plaintiff or defendant a change of venue may be granted and the case tried in another county. This is the second time juries have disagreed in the Schloss-Cobb case.

The case of Charles Camin against L. Warnka was tried Saturday morning and the jury disagreed. This was a verdict of $86.05 in favor of the plaintiff. Mr. Camin sued the defendant for $90.83, the balance of the contract price for the erection of his house. Attorney H. M. Hannah represented Mr. Camin and Attorney W. W. Watson, the defendant.

Judge Archibald, in accordance with a resolution passed by the city officials, appointed William E. Williams, A. F. Duffy, John McCracken, John Gable, Thomas Lydt, and M. H. Daulton, a jury of six to meet Saturday morning, Dec. 28, at 10 o'clock, on the ground and view the property of Mrs. John Moran, 509 Lawrence street, to see if it be subject to a nuisance, whether or not the other is entitled to any compensation.

Testimony in Divorce Case.

Judge Edwards, in chambers, heard testimony in a divorce proceeding brought by Ruth J. Morgan, of this city, against her wife, Margaret Morgan. They were married in 1889, but did not live together long. Mrs. Morgan went away one night without saying a word and has stayed away. The testimony of a few witnesses was heard to substantiate the fact of her desertion. The bill will be disposed of at argument court.

U. OF P. TEAM IS COMING.

Famous Foot Ball Eleven to Play in This City Friday.

It is authoritatively announced that the University of Pennsylvania foot ball eleven, which has a record of six wins and one loss in the country, will be here Friday afternoon to play the team of the Scranton Bicycle club.

There are many reasons why the game will elicit much interest, and a large attendance. Among the college players will be Charles Gellert, of this city, Alfred E. Johnson, of Wilkes-Barre; Otto Wagerhorst, of Guldshorst; "Wilby" Woodruff, of Tunkhannock, and a nephew of C. S. Woodruff, of this city, who is a well-known player locally. The Scranton players feel themselves able to put up a strong game against the "varsity" men. They are justly proud of their record, and have been scored against in only one game this season, and that was the only game lost.

Judge Edwards will preside in the main court room, Judge Archibald in No. 2, and the second week Judge Gunster will preside in the main court room, and Judge Edwards will hold court in No. 2. District Attorney John R. Jones is distributing an artistic leaflet containing the trial list. On the front page of it is a good halftone engraving of ex-Judge Walsingham G. Ward, the oldest member of the Lackawanna bar, one who has been in active legal practice for over forty years. The first case on the list is the Commonwealth against Criscenzo Merolo for the murder of Emanuel Loro at Old Forge, June 18, 1894. The case is now on file will be made to have the case continued until the January sessions on the plea that there are very material witnesses in the defense, who cannot be present if the case is tried this week. John T. Martin is counsel for Merolo.

SCHLOSS JURY DISCHARGED.

After Being Locked Up Ninety-two Hours They Reported an Agreement Impossible and Judge Gunster Released Them from Further Duty.

Ninety-one hours, or almost four times as long as the jury in the Schloss-Cobb case, was kept in the jury room as the jury in the Schloss-Cobb case. The jury was in deliberation by the jury in the Schloss-Cobb case, and they were discharged Saturday morning by Judge Gunster.

The jury was not in a frame of mind that could be termed pleased at the verdict. He expressed his disapproval of their conduct by saying that they were not a jury in the Schloss-Cobb case, but a jury in the Schloss-Cobb case. He assured them that it could not be regarded a good way to go about it.

"The jury members of certain officials are used in campaigns for the benefit of certain candidates is admitted, sometimes for intimidation, sometimes for the friendly influence they possess. At all events, it is a fact that the knowledge or consent of the persons whose name is used.

ELKS' LODGE OF SORROW.

The Frothingham Could Not Contain All Who Sought Admission.

HUNDREDS ARE TURNED AWAY.

Memorial Address by Attorney George D. Taylor—Exercises Included a Splendid Program of Vocal and Instrumental Music and Recitations.

Probably the Frothingham theater will never contain a larger crowd than was last night within its four walls to witness the annual lodge of sorrow of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. All over the United States at the same hour began similar exercises in honor of the memory of Elks who have died.

"While this Order lives our members can never be forgotten," is one of the phrases frequently appearing in literature of Elksdom, and it is rather than printed on the lodge of sorrow programmes. Certainly last night's function was sufficiently elaborate and impressive to fulfill its object in Scranton, and, if the services throughout the country were as beautiful, the departed Elks must really live in the memory and hearts of those who are crumbling dust.

The exercises included vocal and instrumental selections by eminent local artists and organizations, soprano solos by Mme. Kate Holo, of New York city, and recitations by Miss Tillie Lewis, of Wilkes-Barre, who last year assisted in the services in the Academy of Music. The programme was introduced and closed by Elk ceremony conducted by Exalted Ruler P. F. Gunster, who was assisted by other officers of the Scranton lodge. The memorial address was delivered by Attorney George D. Taylor.

Although 8 o'clock was announced in the invitation as the hour for opening the theater was practically filled at 7:30 o'clock, and fifteen minutes later it contained several hundred more than the stated capacity. The memorial address was delivered before 8 o'clock and after finding that all the seats had been taken, the overflowed audience took along the walls on the main floor and in the balcony and gallery; the eight boxes and all the loges were occupied, and perhaps a hundred persons were conducted to lofty seats on the balcony which encircled the flies above the stage.

Elks Occupied the Stage.

The curtain hid the stage from view until 8:15 o'clock, and when it was raised disclosed a hundred Elks sitting on tiers of chairs behind the following officers in the front row: Exalted Ruler P. F. Gunster, E. Leadley, Knight P. W. Martin, E. Loyal Knight W. J. Welch, E. Lecturing Knight John M. Corbett, Secretary W. S. Gould, Treasurer C. J. Welch, Esquire T. A. Ruddy, Chaplain George E. Davis, Inner Guard W. C. Smith and Tyler John H. Lewis.

Among the members of the order in the theater, most of whom were on the stage, were E. H. Higgins, Judge T. W. Gunster, M. H. Higgins, F. Martin, F. C. Hand, M. C. Judge, W. Gould, C. Bushnell, F. Robling, A. Connell, W. Welch, W. E. Smith, E. Welch, A. Renshaw, P. J. Messitt, F. Marks, A. Dunn, Jr., D. Reynolds, R. Reeves, J. Van Kleeck, P. Rosar, George Wahl, D. Peitchard, M. Smith, A. Rose, N. Kramer, E. Brown, J. Schiffer, T. J. Casey, J. Baird, Dr. F. McGraw, George Maddox, A. Francois, J. Callahan, W. E. Finn, J. Brown, E. J. Walsh, James Benore, E. S. Lewis, J. G. H. Hill, F.
