CHANGE OF VENUE ASKED

Depositions on the Jennings Application Heard in Arbitration Room.

FOUR WITNESSES EXAMINED

heir Testimony Will Be Presented the Court to Sustain Mr. Smith's Contention That a Fair Trial Cannot Be Had Here.

Attorney Cornelius Smith and his client, John G. Jenings, of Minocka, are infinitely weary of Lackawanna county court trials and they desire to be alowed a change of venue in the case wherein Mr. Jennings is plaintiff and the Lehigh Valley Railroad company, defendant. The action is for comper satory damages for the loss of his son's services through the injuries he susained at Mud Run in the accident on Oct. 10, 1888. The case was once tried here and the jury disagreed. The second time it was called for trial, one of the jurors, Superintendent John H. Brooks, of the Mendow Brook silk mill, after he had been worn, arose and asked the permission of the court to be excused. He had biased sentiment against the case from all he had read about it and felt that he could not do justice to the defendant He was withdrawn and the case was ontinued.

The third time it came up for trial Dr. C. M. Kelley, the most important witness for the plaintiff, was not present. He had been playing tag with the deputy sheriffs and constables who went to Equinunk to serve the subpoenas on him.

The fourth time Mr. Jennings got Ir trouble by making charges in an affidavit against officers of the court. The fashionable audience will be on hand to affiant was held for perjury and the ase was relegated to the statu quo list.

Burns Case on Ontgrowth. One of the ramifications of the charge of perjury against Mr. Jennings was the famous libel suit of Attorney I. H. Burns against Mr. Smith. The details comes to this city and his appearance is of it are of recent date and do not require repeating.

In the arbitration room vesterday Attorney C. C. Donovan acting as commissioner on the rule to have the Jen-Attorney Smith represented the plain-tiff and Major Everett Warren the Four depositions were taken. The His counton was that it is performers. impossible for Mr. Jennings to get fair trial in this county. John Heffron of Minooka, was the second; he blamed the newspapers for creating a sentiment against the Jennings case. Major Warren asked him if the public opinion was not against the lawyer and not the case. Hefron agreed that was so, but he said the newspapers were all wrong in the manner they treated Messrs. Jennings and Smith. Anthony Cusick, of Minooka, was the third. His opinion was that Jennings ought to get a fair trial. "Not what he ought to get; but can he get it?" said Mr. Smith vehemently. Would Have Nothing More to Say, "Well. I'll have nothing more to say, said Mr. Cusick, leaving the stand.

Mr. Smith had to coax him back

Mr. Cusick then said he believed that there is too much prejudice existing in this county against Mr. Jennings to insure him a fair and impartial trial Martin P. Judge was the fourth. His opinion is that there is too much blased sentiment against the plaintiff that he may have a fair trial in this county. The hearing was adjourned until Fri-largest monthly business in the history of the Scranton postoffice.

Stamp sales amounted to $9,345.52, as against $7,614.36 during the corresponding month last year, and $6,725 in 1893. The sales were largely in excess of the sales of preceding months, and with the present revival of business it is probable that all holiday records of previous years will be shattered.

The Girl I Left Behind Me at the Acad emy of Music To-night. Tonight "The Girl I Left Behind Me" will be produced at the Academy of Music under the auspices of Company D of the Thirteenth regiment by one of Gustave Frohman's companies. play deals with military life at Post Kennion in the Blackfoot country. Montana, during the Indian uprising of 1890, and there are many scenes of the most intense and exciting kind, particularly with the general's daughter pleading with her father to shoot her, not to let her fall into the hands of the Indians. Although the background of the play is rough it is in every respect rigid and culminative, its climaxes growing stronger with each act. The lighter side of the play rests on the love-making of several couples, all of whom are the young people of the garrison. Many of the parts call for strong and clever acting of an unusual line, but suffice to say that with Mr. Frohman's excellent company the piece will in no way suffer in this respect.

Mantell Tomorrow Night. The indications are that a large and welcome Robert Mantell, the celebrated romantic actor, when he comes to the Academy Wednesday evening in Espy William's powerful play in four acts entitled, "The Husband." Modjeska's Last Appearance Here. It is always a sad thing to hear of the retirement of an actress who has, through her achievements, endeared herself to the public heart, and it is a great blow to the drama, the admirer of Shakespeare and the student of dramatic art to lose an actress whose incomparable genius and marvellous artistic ability have placed her in the foremost rank of living actresses. Such a woman is Modjeska; her retirement from the stage is an absolute certainty in the near future. She has announced her last appearance in this city to take place next Friday evening at the Academy. There is no possible shadow of doubt but that this will be the last time that she will appear in public before our local theater-goers. Such an event is regrettable from all standpoints and will doubtless arouse the interest of all theater-goers and admirers of dramatic genius. "Mary Stuart" will be the bill on this occasion. It is on of the greatest roles in which Modjeska appears, and it is a fitting character in which to make her final bow.

Scranton Club May Temporarily Occupy W. W. Scranton's House.

B. Mair and F. C. Whitmore Receive in Their Quincy Avenue Home. They Leave the City To-morrow.

The Monday afternoon whist club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. George B. Jermyn, 219 Jefferson avenue.

The directors and other officers of the ecently organized Scranton club considering the wisdom of engaging the W. W. Scranton house, Monroe avenue and Linden street, for temporary quarters, and will hold a meeting during this week to decide the matter. Before then they will secure the opinions of all the members, and if 75 per cent, favor the plan, it will probably be carried out.

There are many expressions favoring and disapproving the plan. It is believed by some that of the one hundred members, not more than fifty or sixty would approve the collection of the $100 initiation fee and $50 dues until during late next year on the completion of the new board of trade building, which will contain the club rooms, and when it was expected the collection of dues and initiation fees would begin. Then there are others who would disapprove purchasing furniture and like which might not be at all in keeping with the decorations and arrangement of the rooms in the board of trade

While the officers and directors seem to personally favor the Scranton house idea they are not disposed to acquire the property for a temporary home if the project is not almost unanimous. They will conduct a careful canvass ig the members and come to a quick decision. The rent of the house will approximate only about $350 per

A tea was given last night from 7 to 10 o'clock by George R. Mair and Frederick C. Whitmore in their bachelor home, on Quincy avenue. The affair might have been termed a "farewell tea," as Mr. Mair will within two or three months leave for the gold fields in South Africa on business connected with the setting up of machinery to be shipped by the General Electric company, of which he and Mr. Whitmore are the local managers and Mr. Whitmore will tomorrow leave to assume a more mportant position in the main office of the company in Philadelphia. Mr. Mair will go with Mr. Whitmore to Philadelphia, where he will remain until his departure for Africa.

The young men were assisted in receiving by Miss McClure, who chaperoned the affair. Misses Belin, Archbald, Welles, Chauncy Reynolds, Dale and Jermyn assisted in serving tea, chocolate and punch and in entertaining. Kinney, another employe of the General Electric company A. W. K. Pierce, an instructor in electricity for the Colliery Engineer, who will leave here in about two weeks. Mr. Mair's native city is Boston; Mr. Kinney lived in Towanda before coming to Scranton, and Mr. Pierce's home is in Plymouth, Mass. IS YET AT A STANDSTILL.

Both Sides in the City Hall Are Westing for Something to Turn Up.

Nothing definite was done yesterday lowards settling the differences existing between the board of appeals and board of assessors. Mr. Jones, speaking for the assessors, said:

"We are doing nothing. Simply waiting until the board of appeals sees fit to let us have the 1895 books. There will be no assessment made by us until we get those books." When spoken to about the matter, City Clerk Lavelle said that as far as he knew, the board of appeals had taken no action on the assessors' co is any cause for action on their part," said Mr. Lavelle, referring to the board of appeals. "The assessors have the 1896 blotters, and the board of appeals has offered to correct them if the assors deem them unreliable. Thu Mayor Connell said he felt that h onciliation, but he has failed so far to find any reason or authority for offering himself as a mediator. Mr. Chittenden, Mr. Finn and Mr. Lauer, members of select council's committee of conciliation, took no def-inite steps yesterday, but each of his own accord was engaged in hunting up information on the matter and posting himself on the new law.

One interesting feature of the case is that City Solicitor J. H. Torrey is the advisor of the board of appeals and ex-City Solicitor Ira H. Burns is the assessors' attorney. If the matter gets into court, as it eventually promise to, there will be a nice battle, no doubt etween these two famed authoritie on municipal law.

WEATHER FOR TO DAY.

Indications Say Clear and Fair, but Decidedly Cold.

At 11 o'clock last night a light snow was falling and the fleecy flakes con-tinued to circulate about in the air until after midnight. Theatergoers and other late pedestrians buttoned tightly their outer garments and witnessed the sight with more or less surprist, as early in the evening a light rain was falling and there was little suspicion of approaching cold.

Today promises a taste of a real cold and wintry snap, but without any trimmings of snow. The prognostications received yesterday afternoon directly by wire from Washington and last night's press dispatches promised that the thermometer would take a decided tumble during last night and that the cold would continue today. A clear, fair day with northwest
