COMING ATTRACTIONS.

Robert Mantell at the Academy of Music in The Husband.

Robert Mantell, the celebrated romante actor, comes to the Academy this evening. The Toronto Mail in speaking sembled at the Grand Opera House last evening to see the production of Espy Williams' play. The Husband's Company Seems of Co the greatest dramatic situations of the piece is at the end of the third act where Devigny overheard a mutual declaration of lovebetween Henri Lefevre and his (Devigny's) wife and then liscovers that Henri is the husband of the woman whose death he has indirectly caused, in the opening scene Mr. Mantell rose to the occasion in a powerful climax, was rewarded with several enthusiastic recalls and in reply to demands for a speech Mr. Mantell thanked the audience for their considration. ' Mr. Mantell's company inludes such artists as Errol Dunbar Willis Granger, B. T. Ringold, E. A. Eberle, Frank Smith, John O'Neill, Miss Edyth Chapman, Miss Marie Edith Rice, Miss Kate Lester and others. As Mr. Mantell is such a strong favorite in this city there is no reason to doubt that a magnificent audience will be on hand to welcome him.

A Satire on Dress Parade Soldiers. Hoyt's "A Milk White Flag" will be infurled again at the Academy Thurslay evening. It is a spectacular satire on the militia of the country. It teems with fine lines, particularly Hoytesque in their sharpness, and the follies and folbles of the dress-parade soldier are satirized with most humorous severity. The company presenting the play will be an excellent one. Several old favorites will be in the cast. The costumes and scenery will all be new, and the latest catchy music will greet the ear

Modjeska Friday Night.

The simple announcement of the coming of Modjeska is enough to fill the Academy on Friday evening with lovers of poetle drama and the fine art of acting, but the fact that his will be Mod-jeska's last appearance in this city pre-Mrs. Reese Buried.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary J.

Reese occurred yesterday from her late residence on Twelfth street. Ser ing, but the fact that his will be Modjeska's last appearance in this city previous to her permanent retirement from the stage, should still further attract the undivided attention of the theatrethe undivided attention of the theatregoing public. She will present the role of Mary Stuart, which is not only one of the most powerful, but one of the noblest and most distinguished in her repertoire. Modjeska combines in the very highest degree, skill, power and personal charm, and her genius has ever been devoted to the purest and most exalted expression of her art. Her portrayal of the unhappy Queen of Scots is one of the brightest flowers in her bouquet of artistic characterization. No other star in the country carries so thoroughly capable a company, and every lover of first-class amusements can look forward with pleasure to the Minstrels Saturday Night.

CURIOUS FOSSIL FOUND. iscovered by John B. Davis in the Bellevuo Mine.

Mrs. M. Robinson, of Cedar avenue, in possession of a carboniferous fossil found in the Dodge mines of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Wetsern railroad, which has the formation of a woman's head and neck. It was pre-sented to her by John B. Davis, of Bellevue street, West Side.

It weighs sixty-five pounds and is omposed of fire clay. It is twenty-four inches high, fourteen inches from the tip of the pose to the back of the head; The neck is nine inches across. The fossil is flattened and at its thickest point is three inches through.

It is a valuable specimen and Mr.
Davis was offered $50 for it. The convolutions on the top of the head resem-ble curls of hair and they end in a knot such as is worn at present in arranging the hair.

The fossil is a profile and the nose, mouth and eye are set at natural positions. It is, without doubt, one of the best fossils found in this city. The miner found it imbedded in a solid piece of rock fire clay; it dropped out entire when the chunk was broken.

The Pennsylvania Roofing Company has the best pipe covering in the city Estimates cheerfully given.

SOUTH SIDE NEWS.

Stone Avenue and Bellevue Lines Are Now One Continuous Line-Royal Arennum Elects Officers.

A new departure has gone into effect on the Stone avenue and Bellevue street car lines, and the result will be awaited with interest. The two lines have been made one continuous line, and until otherwise ordered the cars will run from the terminus on Stone through the central city and out the Believue line to the Sauquoit silk mill, on South Washington avenue. By laying about a half mile of track a belt

Under the new arrangement three cars are running and the service is quite satisfactory. Twenty-minute trips are made. The change went into effect on Monday. Should it turn out to be unimpracticable schedule it will be abandoned. The change was made to solve the vexing transfer question from the South Side line to Bellevue.

SPORTING CHIT CHAT.

Carl McCarthy, who died at St. Francis' Hospital in Jersey City Friday-night from hasty consumption, first made his appearance as a fighter while a member of the defunct Scottish-American A. C., of Jersey City, at the 110-pound amateur championship com-petition of the Spartan Harriers in 1887. McCartly was the winner. During the same year McCarthy defeated all the beat 110 and 115-pound men in the ama-

He was then advised to enter the professional ranks and soon afterward was matched to fight Joe Flaherty, of Boston. They met on February 14, 1888, end of the sixth round. The pair met twice thereafter, McCarthy being a winner each time, once in fifteen rounds and again in seven rounds. His next fight was with Sylvia Burns, of England, which occurred at Boston. The pair fought sixteen rounds and the result was a draw. He next met Paddy Kearny, of Paterson, in a ten-round contest, which also resulted in a draw Then Eugene Hornbacher tried to lower the colors of the Jerseyman.

They fought with skin gloves and Hornbacher lost the fight on a foul. The next man to meet defeat at Mc-Carthy's hands was Harry Walton, of Philadelphia, whom ae knocked out in five rounds. Following closely upon this came his fight with Matt McCarthy. The latter was beaten in six rounds. Johnny Murphy, of Boston, was McCarthy's next opponent. After four rounds of hard fighting Murphy injured his arm and forreited the fight. Mike Nolan, another foreign importation, also fell before the prowess of McCarthy after fighting seven rounds. This was McCarthy's last fight before he tackled George Dixon. His first battle with the colored Bostonian resulted in a draw after seventy rounds. Mc-Carthy afterward met with defeat at the hands of Dixon. He beat Tom Callaghan in fourteen rounds at New Or-leans in January, 1895, but a few months later was defeated by Bobby Burns, of England, and about eight months ago fought a draw battle of ten rounds with Joe Craig, at Oakland Rink, Jersey City Heights, which was his last appearance in the ring. He was 26 years of age.

A project is assuming definite shape among those who have charge of atn-letics at the leading colleges to form an intercollegiate cycling association.

The intention is to abolish the two-mile bicycle race at the annual games of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association and instead hold a purely collegiate bicylce meet each Spring. The plan is indorsed by all the leading universities and the prospects of success are bright. Cycling has grown rapidly in the different colleges, and the racing men feel they do not receive proper attention by merely competing in a two-milerace an-nually. Last season the University of Pennsylvania suggested the formation of an intercollegiate association. Har-vard favored the suggestion, and now the Athletic Union of Columbia College has appointed a committee to com-municate with the different colleges and secure their co-operation to the
