

The Scranton Tribune

Daily and Weekly, No Sunday Edition. Published at Scranton, Pa., by The Tribune Publishing Company, 100 North Third Street, Scranton, Pa.

In view of the deliberate failure of the Scranton Republican to join this paper in a pledge to support the nominees of the next Republican city convention...

An Error of Judgment.

Whatever may be the final outcome of the now familiar charge against the police force of this city, it will, we think, be the general opinion that Dr. Robinson erred in secreting the alleged information for several months and then divulging it publicly without first having presented it to the head of the police department or the mayor.

The Presidency.

Mr. Frank G. Carpenter, who lectured in this city the other evening, quotes a lady living in Indianapolis as having heard General Harrison say: "You cannot appreciate the feeling I have toward the white house and the presidential office, if it is filled with disagreeable things and the president of the United States, if he will permit it, could keep himself miserable all the time."

An Important Conversation.

The esteemed Washington Post, after a somewhat difficult attempt to maintain an equivoque, has at last had the good judgment and the frankness to espouse fairly and flatly the Republican side of the tariff controversy.

TO THE RAILROADS.

On account of 24,000 tons of ore at 60 cents from the mine to lake port, $14,400. On 15,000 tons of coal at 27.50 from the ovens to Chicago, 41,250. On limestone, 5,000 tons at 55 cents from the quarries to Chicago, 2,750.

TO THE LAKE CARRIERS.

On 24,000 tons of ore at $1.50 from port to Chicago, 36,000. On 15,000 tons of coal at 30 cents at the mine, 4,500. On limestone, 5,000 tons at 55 cents at the quarry, 2,750.

TO LABOR AND MANUFACTURING.

On 24,000 tons of ore at $1.50 from port to Chicago, 36,000. On 15,000 tons of coal at 30 cents at the mine, 4,500. On limestone, 5,000 tons at 55 cents at the quarry, 2,750.

Their votes have answered that inquiry. We had, in 1890, 55,000 people, with annual wages of $20,000,000, engaged in the silk industry.

THE MESSAGE.

Weak in Its Cuban References. Cleveland World: "A more cowardly attitude and disgraceful back-down than this can hardly be conceived. To thus openly refuse belligerent rights to this struggling republic ought in itself to condemn the foreign policy of the administration to everlasting ignominy."

Buying English Rails.

The recent announcement, from New York, that 10,000 tons of English steel rails had been sold by Cammell & Co., the Sheffield iron merchants, through their New York agent, to an American purchaser, has attracted widespread attention.

Philadelphia Bulletin.

"The message, like all of Mr. Cleveland's state papers, is ponderous in tone, and in its self-complacent, if not egotistic, in its spirit of inflexible wisdom. There is hardly a line in it that is not a repetition of the head of an administration that has suffered the most overwhelming rebuke that the country has ever passed on a federal executive and his party."

He Has No Sympathy.

Philadelphia Bulletin: "The president is very emphatic in his expression of sympathy for the numerous outrages perpetrated upon the Armenians in Turkey, but the whole of his discussion of the Cuban question is in accord with a severe interpretation of international obligations rather than with the unmistakable sympathies of the American people."

Cannot Believe Him Sincere.

Troy Times: "In some respects it is disappointing in its most important parts. It is a combination of apologies and special pleading, and one cannot believe the president sincere in all of his declarations without forming a poor opinion of his knowledge and his judgment."

Here's One Word of Prates.

Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph: "President Cleveland's message is a great disappointment. It is a combination of apologies and special pleading, and one cannot believe the president sincere in all of his declarations without forming a poor opinion of his knowledge and his judgment."

Other Republican in that city better worthy of recognition than Mr. Miner.

Impatience and condemnation that have just been meted out to their political adversaries. The time is not ripe for partisanship, for petty expedient and campaign strategy.

JOCULARITIES.

A Robbery. Oh, shameful thing! Who could believe true. The one so fair would compass such a deed! For gain the villain doth his dupe pursue; But she, alas, no such excuse can plead.

THE LOGICAL CONCLUSION.

"There are things," said the impecunious philosopher, "that it is useless for man to try to comprehend. For instance, who shall measure eternity?" "If 'm'm," replied his practical, patient friend; "I thought you had it down pretty fine."

TOLD BY THE STARS.

Daily Horoscope drawn by Alphonse, The Tribune Astrologer. Astrological cast: 3:19 a. m. for Thursday, Dec. 5, 1895.

One Redeeming Feature.

Rochester Post-Express: "The most satisfactory thing about the message is that it contains no advocacy of the issue of wild-currency by state banks. The president seems to have abandoned completely the whole of his previous schemes that he advocated so earnestly one short year ago."

GOLDSMITH'S BAZAAR.

Always to the Front

Every electric car stops in front of the store, and every conductor announces Goldsmith's Bazaar, by special orders from the Scranton Traction Company. This is a convenience that no doubt will be greatly appreciated by the public, especially the ladies, because they will not be compelled to stand upon the street corners exposed to all kinds of weather, and when accompanied by children will avoid the dangers of crossing at street intersections that are always thronged with vehicles.
