This evening at 8 o'clock the borough uncil of Hyde Park, which has not een heard of in years, will meet in directors' room of the West Side bank, for the purpose of electing a suc-cessor to David Powell, formerly of this side, now of the central city. The council at present consists of: Hon. D. M. Jones, burgess; William H. Deck-Carson and Captain M. L. Blair, counen; A. B. Eynon, treasurer. There is an interesting history connected with rected in last evening's Times by Mr. Twining as follows: "In 1868 thirty-one suits were brought against the borough n the courts of Luzerne county for county tax alleged to be due old sol-lers, who had been accredited to Hyde Park, to take the place of drafted men of this place. The plaintiffs were nonitted as the United States provo-marshal's records at Washington did not

Later it was found that these thirtyme men had been credited to Hyde Park on the United States adjutantgeneral's record, and were entitled to 300 each, from Hyde Park borough, A double of years ago thirteen of these time against the borough, and the suits

Hot Fight in the Fifth. A bitter fight is on in the Fifth ward over the select councilmanic represen-tation. The present incumbent, R. H. Williams is opposed for re-election by ex-Councilman E. E. Robathan. He has made many votes thus far in a quiet canvass. The strongest fight seems to be between Messrs, Robathan and Williams. Each is making a systematic canvass of the voters in the ward, and every honorable means is being used to further their candidacy. The caucus will be held on Saturday, Deo. 14. This is perhaps the most insresting fight on the West Side, as oth men are prominent, and each has a arge number of friends.

Attention of the Board of Trade Called to the Matter.

CONGRESS TO BE APPEALED TO

ried consideration by business men in particular has been received by the secretary of the Scranton board of trace from the committee on one-cent posttrade at its recent meeting in Washington, D. C. The matter will be thoroughly discussed at the next meeting of the board.

One-cent postage (letter postage) means a direct and positive saving to each member of the board, but there is bound to be a pronounced difference of opinion on the matter, as many will not approve decreasing the revenue of the government in view of its present low ebb of money-income; still, one-cent letter postage will save $100 to the bus ness man each year who now spends $200. If one-cent postage existed, the ed savings of the members of the board would be a very large sum.

It Is a Possibility. That one-cent postage is possible and postmaster-genral for the year 1890, where it is demonstrated that in that alone amounted to $38,000,000, while the cost was only $8,000,000, leaving a profit of $30,000,000. According to this re-port, had letter-postage been reduced in that year to one cent there would still have been a profit of $11,000,000. The simple fact is, that letter writers are at present forced to pay double postage in order that one class of matter may be charged only one cent a pound, or about one-twelfth of the ac-tual cost; and because many million dollars of free mail matter used by departments of the government and which should be charged to their own accounts, are included in the expense of the postal department.

The national board of trade committee feels that the time has come to stamp disapproval upon the present system and a bill for the reduction of the postage rate will be introduced in congress.

Severe Antagonism Expected. It will be confronted by severe antagonism, and to overcome the opposition the committee is aiming to secure the co-operation of as many influential odies, citizens and officers as possible. The committee requests the Scranton board of trade to take immediate and avorable action.

The next meeting of the nationa board takes place in January, when it s proposed to push the one-cent postage idea to a definite issue.

The national committee is composed of such well known ousiness men as Finley Acker, chairman, of Philadelphia; Silas M. Giddings, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Blanchard Randall, of Baltimore The matter has been brought before ...e Scranton board because it is a member of the national body.

"Andrew Stachick, a Polander, while on his way to work this morning, found a garbage box in the alleyway between Lackawanna avenue and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western tracks. He wanted the box and dumped the rubbish out upon the tracks. The eagle eye of Officer Durkin caught him and he was shortly arraigned before Alderman Millar and fined $5, in default of which he was given thirty days.

he did. And it may be that the Polander has no family; but, nevertheless, I do not think it was fair to send a man up for thirty days for such a deed as he committed. I guess you can find all the garbage you want throughout the biggest part of the town, and very few people gent up for thirty days. I may fail to see it in the proper light, and if I don't why I will submit, but I think thirty days for any man to lose is quite a little, as the paper says he was on his way to work.

Had Mr. Frits's information been correct I would not be greatly surprised at his indignation, but the Item referred to is at almost total variance with the truth. The man was arrested and fined is and in default was committed for ten days, as the law and justice to theprosecutor demanded. However, as in any other cases of a like nature, when a wholesome warning is more efficacious and just than punishment I suspended the infliction of the sentence indefinitely and the workingman with his dinner pail went his way without his arrest costing him a cent.

SPORTING CHIT CHAT.

SPORTING CHIT CHAT.

The college foot ball season of 1895 is over and on the whole it has been most successful and satisfactory. There have been several new and praiseworthy features developed, and the game itself has been strictly improved by the new rules. Perhaps the most important point—because it was the point on which the life of the game depended in some colleges—is that lack of roughness that has characterized the season's games. The Yale-Princeton game was conspicuous because of absence of unnecessary roughness all through the match. Rosengarten, of Princeton, was not disqualified to serve as an example to the rest of the team, or as a check to any rough play that might be going on. He was disqualified because he broke the rules. And in breaking the rules he made himself conspicuous by contrast with the rest of the team. The same absence of rough play on the part of a whole team was a marked feature of the other big games. In fact, the year has been singularly free from a feature of foot ball which has made the game a by-word with newspapers heretofore, and with a large class of people who knew it which has made the game a by-word with newspapers heretofore, and with a large class of people who knew it from observation or from hearsay.. If one year of the sport has accomplished this change, and if the change becomes permanent, then the season of 1895 has done a great deal for the game.

The English racing authorities are beginning to discredit some of the re-markably fast times credited to John markably fast times credited to John S. Johnson. Regarding his one mile record of 1 minute 441-5 seconds, the Cyclist says: "Owing to the extra early arrival of mail from America last week we were enabled to publish an account of J. S. Johnson's wonderful ride of 1,760 yards in 1.441-5. The figures read so surprisingly that our own statistician subjected them to the scrutiny of a sectional analysis. After riding the first 440 yards in 291-5 seconds, he rode the next third of the distance at nearly double that speed, only taking 44-5 seconds for 146 yards 2 feet, or at the rate of a mile in 573-5 seconds. This will want a lot of explaining as the first ouarter was so slow; the time-keepers most likely muffed the first quarter by at least three seconds which ought to have gone on to the next or one-third stage. Even this alteration would stage. Even this alteration would make the first (flying start be it re-membered) quarter mile gait of one minute 44 4-5 seconds, and the next secminute 44 4-5 seconds, and the next second one-tweifth of a mile gait of 1 minute 33 3-5 seconds. A misplace of 4 seconds would make the mile gaits respectively 1 minute 40 4-5 seconds and 1 minute 45 3-5 seconds—about what they would be. Then from the half to the two-thirds there is a sudden rise in the speed rates of 17 seconds per mile, followed by a sudden slump of nearly double that per mile, followed by a quickening of nearly ten seconds per mile in the last quarter. Now, the mechanical-like pacing of the two quads chanical-like pacing of the two quads would never make such eccentric and jagged speed rates, and, great rider as Johnson is, we do not believe he or any other man, living or dead, can or could have ridden 146 yards 2 feet in 4 4-5 sec-

RAILROAD NOTES.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Trunk Lines' associations will be held in New York on Thursday te take action on the issuing of clergymen tickets. For some time part there has been a disposition on the part of some of the railroads to cease issuing these tickets but as the roads did not unite in the movements the ministers continued to receive the cut rate. It is thought that considerable opposition will be raised at the meeting and an effort will be made to do away with these tickets. The principal objection is raised by the lines that ply between New York and Buffalo. It is said that the lines in this city are not desirous of making a change and will do all they can to continue the issuing of the clergymen tickets. It has only been lately that any objection has been made, but the attempt to do away with the practice has become a universal one and the roads in the West, as well as those in the East, are working on the same problem. The reason the lines between New York and Buffalo object to the issuing of these tickets is that many of them find their way into unscriptious hands. It is contended that the rates are low enough for all and that no discrimination should be made. The Philadelphia and Reading railroad company, as well as the Pennsylvania, is desirous of allowing the same system to remain in effect, and it will do all it can to have the rule pertaining to issuing of clergymen tickets remain unchanged.

The Central Reilroad of New Jersey has sent out the same system to remain in effect, and it will do all it can to have the rule pertaining to issuing of clergymen tickets remain unchanged. A meeting of the executive committee
