Application for a charter for the new Scranton club was filed in the prothonotary's office Saturday by Attorneys Everett Watson and J. W. Oakford. The members' rally of the railroad branch of the Young Men's Christian association will be held tonight. F. D. Glover will preside. A. F. Bower will lecture on Michael Angelo. H. D. Lee, of Easton, a cripple, was arrested Saturday for begging on Delaware, Lackawanna and Western passenger trains. Alderman Miller directed him with the warning to vacate the city. James Morrow, of Old Forge, was arrested Saturday and brought before Alderman Miller on two charges, selling liquor without a license and selling on Sunday. He furnished bail in the sum of $500 in each case for his appearance at court. At the Sheridan fair Saturday night three contracts were decided. Michael Daley, of Penn avenue, and W. J. McElroy, of 44 South Seventh street, won a saton each. Joseph G. Demund, of 222 Washington avenue, won the onyx lamp and stand. Dominick McWeir, of the South Side, a switchman employed in the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western yard, got the little finger of his left hand crushed last evening while coupling cars. It had to be amputated. He was taken to the Moses Taylor hospital. Register of Wills Hopkins on Saturday granted letters testamentary to P. J. Moran, Dunmore, in the estate of Patrick Loughney; in the estate of B. Lipson to Mrs. Sarah Lipson, widow; in the estate of Mrs. J. D. DeWitt to N. M. TIME HAS EXPIRED.

Nearly all the local undertakers must be examined. Saturday was the last day allowed by the recent act of the legislature on which undertakers could secure the required license. All who did not secure them on or before Saturday, and who are required to pass an examination before the state board of undertakers. Any undertaker who is not armed with a license and registered with the local board of health before Jan. 1, 1914, will be liable to a fine of $50. Very few of the local undertakers have fulfilled the requirements so far. They, however, intend to do so and are only awaiting the perfecting of the organization now under way before proceeding to obey the mandate of the law. This local organization was formed with a view of enforcing an observance of the new law.

BRANKMAN WOLF KILLED

Shut out from the top of a freight car under a moving train. On Saturday morning Jacob Wolf, of 200 West 10th street, was on the train when it struck a coal train, which set

Dunmore early in the morning, and was in the act of applying the front brake of the second car of the train when the brake chain snapped and he fell down between the cars. The remainder of the train passed over him. His right arm and left leg were cut off. As the pusher engine came along, the fireman, Edward Snyder, saw a man lying on the ground. He informed Engineer Collins that a man had been run over. They stopped and found Wolf. He died soon after being picked up. The remains were taken aboard the engine to Wilkes-Barre, and were brought home on a special train, which reached Dunmore at 11 o'clock. The deceased was 19 years old, and leaves a wife to whom he was married six months ago. Undertaker Schoenfeld has charge of the remains and prepared them for burial.

A VICIOUS ATTACK.

Italian with a Revolver Mercurio Attacks Two Petersburg Citizens. As Joseph Masters and Warren La France, of Petersburg, were returning from a visit to Little England yesterday afternoon they were set upon by a drunken Italian named Victor Bleno, who whipped out a revolver and attempted to shoot them. Notwithstanding the suddenness of the unprovoked attack, the two men did not lose their presence of mind, but sprang upon the murderous and drink-crazed Italian and after a hard struggle overpowered and disarmed him. With the assistance of the crowd which soon collected they bound him with a rope and carried him to the residence of Patrolman Louis Goerlitz, who took him to the central police station. The crowd which followed the two men and their prisoner would have treated the Italian pretty roughly if it had half an opportunity, but the captors and the more level-headed members of the crowd kept off those who wanted to get a kick at him. The fellow was locked up in cell No. 1 over night and will be given a hearing at 5 o'clock this afternoon. To all appearances he is demerited from excessive drinking.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

MISS PYGMALION—Quite likely all will care to see Miss Jane May, the Parisian pantomimist; she is too grand, too illustrious an actress to appeal to the sense of those who prefer to see to themselves to the sense of variety. The maiden in her teens, brought up on a theatrical diet of farce and spectacle, will find the part of Miss Pygmalion, having scored a great hit in these parts, both in Paris, London and at Daly's, a very profitable one. Her tour in our city is under the direction of Augustin Daly.

THE QUEEN OF LIARS—The pivotal character in the play "The Queen of Liars"—a character on whose coming depends the fate of Marie Deloche, the strange adventuress who is personated by Minnie Madden Fliske—does not appear in the drama until a moment before the end. He does not arrive until the adventuress has killed herself with poison, and he speaks but two words—the last words in the play. Mrs. Fliske will be seen at the Frothingham Tuesday evening, December 16.

THE THREE GUARDSMEN—In the forthcoming appearance of Alexander Salvini in the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western public will witness one of those rare dramatic treats that, as a general thing, they look for in vain among the season's bookings. Salvini is the actual individual concerned in the play, and he is not to give one the impression that he is reading the lines from a "play-book," but that he is the actual individual concerned in the play. In adopting the romantic drama as a stepping-stone to higher fame, Salvini did wisely. This character is going to be seen in the present generation, for, during its recollection, there have been no D'Artagnans nor Don Cesaars worthy of the name. From the time when he is introduced to his heroic creations, it would seem that the fiery abandon, the reckless daring, the nobility of these old-time heroes must be more or less a part of Salvini's personal character. He will be seen at the Academy of Music Wednesday night.

HUMANITY—Sutton Vane's sensational melodrama, "Humanity," has made a hit in Boston and will be seen in this city. There is enough realism in the piece for half a dozen melodramas, and the sensation upon which follows each other in such rapid succession that the audience is kept in a constant state of enthusiasm. At the Academy Thursday and Friday evenings.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA—Music hall will be filled last evening to witness the first presentation this season of the sterling drama, "Hands Across the Sea," at the Lowell Hall. One great inducement in the attraction, doubtless, was the announcement that Max Freeman was cast for the leading part, Jack Dudley. He was accorded a flattering ovation upon his first appearance and was presented with a beautiful bouquet. He gave a manly assumption of the part and fully sustained an excellent reputation. In short the whole cast was good and the drama was excellently presented. It will be given for the remainder of the week. "Hands Across the Sea" will be at Davis' the first three days of this week.

CAN'T KEEP THEM APART. Scranton and Wilkes-Barre Will Try Contests at Indoor Base Ball.

The Wilkes-Barre and Scranton indoor base ball teams will meet tonight at the Providence armory. On either team will be many well known players, among them Mullarkey, of Washington and Castello, of Allentown. The batting order will be as follows: Scranton—Kettick, 1b; Costello, 2b; Tighe, 3b; McDonald, 4b; Hens, 5b; Mullarkey, 6b; Murphy, 7b; Mitchell, cf; Rogers, rf.

Wilkes-Barre—Betts, 1b; Lytle, cf; Schwartzman, 2b; Bommer, 3b; Smith, 4b; Freeman, cf; Sista, 5b; Whartman, rf. After the game a social will be held. Turnquest the jeweler's got a nice stock.

DR. ROBINSON'S SERMON

"Christian's Duty to the Municipality, or Righteousness in the City."

CITY'S OFFICIALS HINTED AT
The Doctor Adroitly Refrains from Mentioning Names—Says Witnesses Were Maligned and Their Testimony Impugned.

Rev. Dr. Charles E. Robinson, of the Second Presbyterian church, had his innings last night. In a sermon, the phraseology of which would be too broad and too suggestive for publication, if reported literally, he heaped a vast amount of epithets upon Mayor Connell, Chief of Police Simpson, the rank and file of policemen, and, in fact, everyone who had anything to do with the recent charges made by him with the recent charges made by him in a sermon on Thanksgiving Day. It is a curious fact, however, that Dr. Robinson did not once mention the names of the objects of his dislike, nor did he refer directly to them by title; he couched his remarks in elegant digressions, and upon occasion resorted to corruption of Biblical terms, but his deflating phraseology left no doubt as to who was really meant.

Dr. Robinson's time was well chosen. He spoke so closely upon the sensational hearing in the mayor's office, it is not surprising that all the available space in the church auditorium was filled. The congregation comprised a slight majority of those present; the balance was composed of non-churchgoers and members of other congregations, men predominating, who were curious to know what was a "Christian's Duty to Municipality, or Righteousness in the City." That was to be Dr. Robinson's topic according to the published church notices, but the audience was obliged to leave the church without hearing the speaker's ideas upon his advertised theme.

He Used Plain Language. Occasionally one hears a minister quote from the scriptures "thieves," "robbers," "licentiousness" and other suggestive, but less used words, which do not look well in print. In his quotations last night Dr. Robinson did not draw the line on the unwholesomeness of his biblical words nor in the number of times he repeated them, but he was adroitly artistic in applying them to mayors, chiefs of police and policemen of antiquity.

"Cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet and say unto every one that heareth the words of Jacob their sins," from Isaiah lviii, 1, was the text announced by Dr. Robinson and from which his auditory expected to learn a "Christian's Duty to the Municipality, or Righteousness in the City."

God's own controversy with the world, he said, is sin; according to God's word the worst possible heresy is lack of righteousness. When a man stands in unrighteousness he stands against the whole law of God who hates the lying lip and false balances but delights in an honest man.

The first intimation of a reference to Dr. Robinson's recent police muddle first went to Rome, which city, Luther said was full of liars and robbers. Then the speaker in free quotations from the scriptures called black "black" and white "white" in speaking of personal unchastity, degraded creatures and licentiousness. The auditory was then brought to the attention of the princes of the old cities, such as Rome and Jerusalem, and whose official positions were the same as those of mayors of to-day, were companions of thieves and robbers. The watchmen of Jerusalem, he said, would be called policemen to-day, were as corrupt as their superiors, dumb and blind to the wickedness going on about them.

Jehovah doesn't witness that any other purpose than to uphold righteousness and so God charges the prophet to "be faithful," "fear not," "cry aloud."

World's Idea of the Church. It is a fact, Dr. Robinson remarked, that the world's idea of the church is often of its architecture, its good singing or its accommodations for backing up the music of the past and not fearless, truthful, independent utterances. These, may be, regret that the pulpit or the church is ever used to denounce rascals, or for anything but quietness and peace. These surely do not possess the sentiment recorded in Amos v, 21: "I hate, I despise your feasts, and I will not smell in your solemn assemblies." The truth should be spoken, wickedness in high places should be throttled that justice and righteousness might flow more like a stream. Yet, it is natural that the church should shrink from such a commission; Elijah, the bold, shrunk from it.

That the complainant's witnesses in the recent police inquiry were maligned, that their testimony was impeached in the headlines of a newspaper, a deplorable fact. But wouldn't you, he asked, if you were their pastor, stand by them and honor them under circumstances whereby they had been forced to reveal their misfortune and shame? The Master has said that His faithful servants would be hated of all men, and, as for the speaker, he would rather be the subject of their jeers, taunts and rashes than have them slap him on the shoulder in half-fellow-well-met fashion because he might be useful to them in their political and other machinations. Here inference was made that the halcyon and well-met ones might be more congenial to persons whose character the speaker's description makes unfit for publication.

Good Need Not Fear. Good and faithful policemen, said Dr. Robinson, need have no fear of accusations. There were some good men, whom he knew personally, on the police force. "If you or your friends," he asked in conclusion, "were browbeaten by those in high places, or were the object of jeers, sneers and petty jabs from the public press, would not you with the love of God and pity for these His poor servants, take the measure of light and truth

If you would do this there will be no end to your troubles, and your soul will be full of peace and honor."

In his opening prayer guidance was asked by Dr. Robinson for national, state and local municipal authorities, and a more appropriate plea for divine help to the mayor, heads of departments and policemen was invoked in the brief prayer immediately following the sermon.

Howe followed with a eulogy on the man in which he spoke of the invaluable services the deceased had rendered to Lackawanna lodge. A touching address was given by Past Grand George S. Horn, and addresses were heard from other members of the lodge and from Past Grand James Moir, of Robert Burns lodge; Past Grand Louis G. Schantz, of James Connell lodge; Past Grand E. E. PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.

Business Men's Plan for a Brief Contest in this city by the members of trade considered favorably the memorial of the Cleveland chamber of commerce to the Democratic and Republican national committees, urging the two parties to suspend their regular period from six to three months. The Republican national committee will meet Tuesday in Washington, D. C., when brief telegrams will be forwarded from this city by prominent members of board and by business men.

The recent formal action of the board was immediately made known to each national committee; its receipt was acknowledged by only the Democratic body.

HI HENRY'S MINSTRELS.

Gave Two Good Performances in the Frothingham Theater. Hi Henry's minstrels at the Frothingham delighted a large audience at the Frothingham Saturday night. The same might have been said for the performance of the minstrels, who were reasonably well heard; the temperature was sufficiently cold to freeze any enthusiasm. The minstrels contained a plenty of good specialties in the acrobatic and variety line. The costumes and stage management were splendid. Special favorable mention is due the Lancer brothers whose living-bronze posing closed the entertainments.

PORTRAIT OF COL. PRICE.

Will Be Presented to Lackawanna Institute of History and Science. A regular monthly meeting of the Lackawanna Institute of History and Science will be held at the Albright Library on Tuesday evening, Dec. 10, at 7.30. James J. Hamilton, esq., will deliver a lecture upon "The Basis of the Independence of Great Britain." A large portrait of the late Col. J. A. Price will be presented to the Institute by Artist Henry Frey, the presentation address being made by J. A. Lanang, and the response by Vice President A. V. Dickson.

MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL.

Will Be Heard in the Merolo Murder Case To-morrow.

PRISONER HAS GREAT NERVE.

Says His Father, Brother and Sisters Will Come from Italy to Prove He Is Frank LaBracka—Railroad Companies in an Equity Suit.

Attorney Joseph U. Brown made a motion Saturday morning before Judge Edwards for a rule to show cause why a new trial should be granted in the Merolo murder case. The court decided to hear the motion tomorrow and ordered that the reasons for a new trial be filed. Merolo still persists that he is not the right man and expects to bring his father, brother, and three sisters from Italy to corroborate his statement that he is Frank La Bracka. He said he would be able to prove his identity conclusively if the court allowed the case to go until January.

The prisoner's manner has not changed much since his conviction, except that he talks more readily. He realizes the doom awaiting him, and does not want to die with a bad conscience. He is crossing that bridge until he comes to it. On Saturday he requested Warden Jay to get a barber to shave his whiskers. He denounced the verdict which has been recorded against him, but talks hopefully about getting a second trial, when he expects to be liberated. Railroad Company Begins Equity Suit. The law firms of Warren & Knapp, of this city, and Olmstead, Rogers, Loebe & Hillburn, of New York, on Saturday, filed a bill in equity against the New York, Susquehanna & Western Railroad company at the instance of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company.

The bill was brought to the court in this manner and to enforce the bill, an appeal will be made by the defendants with the plaintiffs, wherein, in consideration of the fact that the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company is a party to the bill, the bill will be referred to a referee to report on the bill. The bill is in equity against the New York, Susquehanna & Western Railroad company at the instance of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company.

A large audience saw "The Silver King" produced at the Academy of Music Saturday night, and the demonstrations of approval proved how thoroughly the work of Mr. Hoskins and the other members of the company was enjoyed.
