COMING ATTRACTIONS.

HUMANITY—This evening at the Academy of Music "Humanity," a melodrama by Sutton Vane will have its first production in this city. It will be repeated Friday evening. This melodrama is said to be the best that has yet come from the pen of Mr. Vane. Love and the fortunes of war are mingled to such a degree of nicety that the attention of the auditor is never slack. attention of the auditor is never slack-ened. The picturesque hunting scene at the close of the first act; the ruined English abbey; the Transvaal war and the splendid display of stage mechanism in the explosion scene, are all worthy of commendation. "Human-ity" demands the services of a large corps of actors, and the company fur-nished by Manager Brady is equal to all requirements

THOMAS E. SHEA-The coming THOMAS E. SHEA—The coming of the popular young actor. Thomas E. Shea, to this city always awakens a feeling of pleasure among theater-goers because they realize they are sure of seeing good plays, well put on the stage and well acted, at prices within their means. His hold on the people is wonderful, yet, when you come to think of it, it is not surprising that Mr. Shea has a warm strott in meny come to think of it, it is not surprising that Mr. Shea has a warm spot in many hearts. He knows what the people want and gives it to them. Best of all he makes his prices so reasonable that every one can afford to see him, no matter how humble his circumstances may be. He will be at the Academy of Music next week.

THE ENGINEER—Today, tomorrow and Saturday "The Engineer" will be the attraction at Davis' theater. It is the first return engagement of the season, the drama having been seen here before in September. The Eagle, of Saratoga, N. Y., in speaking of it said: "The large Town Hall was filled to witness "The Engineer.' The play is similar to 'Blue Jeans,' 'Alabama' and "The Old Homestead' in treatment. All of the scenery is new and the stage settings and mechanical effects are novel and unique. The great engine scene elicited tremendous applause. The specialties were excellent and the company all that could be desired."

WHAT THE ASSESSORS SAY

resented Their Case in an Informal Way to the Councilmen.

OF GREAT SERVICE TO CITY

titled to, Assistant Assessor, & Clerk and Assessors Working Full Time Arc Necessities.

Owing to its inshiller to muster a quorum the judiciary committee of com-mon council did not meet last night to consider the resolution cutting down the city assessors' salaries to $400 a year and doing away with the assistant assessors in years other than the triennial year. A number of councilmen, however, who happened in sat around and discussed the matter informally with Assessors H. D. Jones and Rudolph Buenzil, who were on hand to argue against the resolution, and Common Councilman Joseph Oliver, who was there to look after the interests of the board of revision and appeals.

To show the inadvisability of the proposed doing away with the assistant assessors, Assessors Jones and Buenzli held that it was impossible for the three assessors to make as thorough and complete an assessment as twenty-one men, each having "a personal acquaintance with every man, woman, child, horse, cow and dog" in his respective ward. These assistant assessors instead of being an expense to the city are a paying investment. The additional number of dogs, cows and horses, particularly dogs, that they manage to hunt up each year more than pays their salaries. Six years ago there were one hundred and twentyfive dogs on the assessment books, now there are 2,866, for each one of which the city receives $1.50 and in some cases $2. Thus, as can be readily seen, the expense of the actual work of assessing the real estate of the city is paid for by the dog taxes, the compensation of the assistant assessors being about $3,000 per annum. Arguments of the Assessors To combat the wisdom of that part of the resolution fixing the remuneration of the board of assessors at $4 a day, with one hundred days as the limit of time in which they are to be employed, many strong arguments were produced to show the necessity of their being continually employed; and incidents were given to prove the wisdom or such a policy. During the past year by noseing about the assessors have discovered taxables, which have heretofore escaped assessment, one from which sufficient revenue will be derived to pay the expenses of the assessors' department for six years. The main part of this was coal lands in Hyde Park and Providence, the surface of which has, heretofore, only been assessed.

With the same kind of business argument the assessors made their clerk, George Heusner, a benefit instead of a burden to the city treasury by sending him out to hunt up persons who have no real estate but who are liable for occupation tax. By reference to the poll ooks, registry lists and the county nmissioners' office four hundred taxable citizens were discovered, who had been paying state and county tax in order to vote, but who had been avoiding the city assessors and escaping dry taxes. These four hundred people were worth at least $2,000 to the city treasurer, so when the clerk's annual hire of $600 is deducted it can be seen that the city is a net gainer of $1,400.

He Does the Work Freely. It should be borne in mind, the uses-sors remark, that the clerk is not sup-posed to leave the office and does this additional work without additional compensation and without any compulsion whatever.

The assessors estimate that assesment will show an increase ation of over half a million dollar

THE THREE GUARDSMEN.

Given a Fine Production by Salvini and Company.

A fine production of "The Three Guardsmen" was given by Alexander Salvini and company at the Academy of Music last night. For the romantic drama Salvini seems best fitted although he has met with no little success in other departments of the drama. "The Three Guardsmen" is a dramativation of the novel of that name from "The Three Guardsmen" is a drama-tization of the novel of that name from the pen of Dumas who has woven a most interesting romance of the times in France when might was right and all questions of honor were settled by appeal to the sword. In dealing with this period of the history of chivalry Salviul as D'Artagnan seemed imbued with the spirit of that age. One of his with the spirit of that age. One of his striking characteristics on the stage is the tremendous energy that he displays. The play is full of life and action and one less active than Salvini would seem but a tame and commonplace D'Artagnan, one who did not measure up to the full requirements of Dumas' hero. His is the impetuosity that surmounts all obstacles and turns defeats into victories and just that kind of impetuosity Salvini most faithfully portrayed.

William Ranous made a very acceptable Cardinal Richelieu while Walter Vincent was a properly effeminate with the spirit of that age. One of hi ceptable Cardinal Richelleu while Wal-ter Vincent was a properly effeminate Louis XIII. Other members of the company who did excellent work were Albert Bruning, Augustus Balfour, Norman Cenners, Adelaide Fitz Allen Augusta de Forrest and Lulu Morgan.

Fire broke out in the residence of Obadiah Day in Feltzville, Taylor borwho was recently injured in the mines, was almost suffocated before he could be taken out of the house. The injured man was resting on a cot in a room on the second floor and his family was fast asleep. The fire originated in the basement where the kitchen is located and burned behind the partitions for a long time before it broke out and filled the house with strifling smoke. Mr. Day awoke his wife, who first got the children out safely, and she could not attempt to remove her husband on account of his injuries. She had to get help and while she was what difficult owing to the lateness of the hour, the imprisoned man was suffering ntense agny. Fnally when help came and he was got out he was very weak from the smoke.

The Taylor Hose company responded but the line of hose was too short to reach from the hydrant to the fire. The bucket brigade was pressed into service and they succeeded in putting the fire out. The damage to the house will not go beyond $200.
