119 WASHINGTON AVE.

THE HOLIDAY SEASON is now here, and so are we, with a full line of useful and fancy articles. Everything to suit the plainest as well as the most fastidious.

SELF-POURING COFFEE POT
Pours by pressing the lid.

Pour by the lid, without lifting or tipping, and with such little fuss and confusion as to make it almost appear electrical. The pouring device is so simple that to the uninitiated these pots seem no different than the ordinary, common pot. They have no complicated parts; no valves, springs or mechanisms of any kind. There is nothing to get out of order. The part touched is cold. One hand does it. They do not soil the table cloth by drip or spill.
