Candidates Nominated by Fourteenth Ward Republicans at Their Caucus in Co-operative Hall Last Evening

The public meeting room of Co-operative hall was crowded last evening by the Republic at voters of the Fogueeath ward assembled to nominate ward candidates, according to the Crawford county system. There has been an unusual exciting time among the Fourteenth ward Republicans. The Democrats have nominated an unusually strong ticket and the Republicans had this in view last night when they named their candidates. The vigilants committee who issued the call for the meeting were George L. Peck, David Jones, John Jordan and John Jones.

Mr. Peck, as chairman of the committee, read the call for the convention. He then called for nominations for chairman of the meeting. Joseph D. Lloyd and Symbol Porter were named. Mr. Lloyd was elected. He made a brief speech in accepting. There were several Democrats in the room, and Mr. Lloyd noted this and referred to it in his speech. As the fine for the nominations approached the excitement grew intense. A thorough annyals of the ward had been made by the prominent candidates for the higher-offices and each had his following in the hai. The chairman with difficulty preserved order. Nominations for alderman were called for. This was the chief cotsect of the meeting. George F. Kellow and William This was the chief correst of the ing. George F. Kellow and William H. Mr. Kellow was declared cleeted, and on motion of Mr. Derby the nomination was made unanimous.

on motion of Mr. Derby the nomination was made unanimous.

The convention was in good humor by this time and a cheer went up for the successful candidate. Richard Davis and William M. Darling were placed in nomination for school controller. Mr. Darling received 60 votes to his opponent's 40. Mr. Darling was declared elected and the nomination was made unanimous on motion of Mr. Davis. In nominating a candidate for common council to oppose P. J. Nealis, the Democratic nomines, several good speeches were made. James Barrett, in a telling speech, placed the name of the chairman. Joseph D. Lloyd, before the convention. Mr. Lloyd declined. Alamanza Porter nominated Davis W. Thomas. Mr. Thomas was given the nomination for council by a vote of acciamation. David Jones was unanimously nominated for ward assessor and on the shoulders of Alamanza Porter the nomination for constable was awarded. This conded the ward convention and distance. tion for constable was awarded. This ended the ward convention and adjourn morning. His team of horses, attached to the delivery wagon, were standing on South Main avenue near Eynon street, when they became frightened. Mr. Brown was delivering meat in a house at the time. When he reached the sidewalk the team were scampering down Main avenue. When they reached No. 32 school the runaways turned to the left and ran down the newly-opened street in the old "Clover Field." A stop was made at the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad about a half mile distant from the starting place. The wagon was badly damaged. No one was hurt, however, for the reason that no one attempted to stop the team.

The proposed debates between the Vesper Literary society, of the central city, and the Hyde Park Literary and Debating society of the West Side, are now almost a surety. The Scranton society has appointed the following committee to attend to its share in the preliminaries; E. S. Williams, J. W. Browning, and F. M. Koehler. The West Side society also has a committee, with U. E. Daniels as chairman. Conferences will be held as soon as possible and the subjects for debate settled upon. The contests will be of a friendly nature. There is a probability that the Browning cup will be offered as a prize, although the Hyde Park society has a claim upon it. Announcement of the arrangements for debate has already increased the attendance at both societies.

bete noir of managers, and yet the fascinations of this most hazardous of amusement occupations is such that from time immemorial managers have risked their last dollar in such enter-prises only to find themselves bankrupt in the end. The risk is so great that of all the operatic generals who have directed the melodious hosts in the past, for the benefit of English speaking constituents, not one has finished his career with any substantial fortune.

management have all experienced the ingratitude of musical mankind in ul-timate and complete failure. Whether Abbey and Grau, Sir Augustus Harris Abbey and Grau, on the present in-and Walter Damrosch, the present in-cumbents of the managerial throne, will succeed where all others have failed remains to be seen. They have experienced innumerable vicissitudes already, and Abbey, in particular, could a tale unfold that would be an eloquent epitome of daring and dis-aster. His experiences during the first season of the Metropolitan Oper ouse were calculated to discourage all further invasions of the same field, and the deficiency at the end of the season was said to be $300,000. But Mr. Abbey would not permit a little thing like that to interfere with his chosen amusement, and, ever since, he has coquetted with dame fortune in a manner ex-hibiting so much nerve and perseverence that he has gained universal admiration and respect. Whether he has also sarned a financial solace for his declining years is quite another matter. It is said that the profits of the Metro Opera company last season amounted to $200,000, but with enor mous losses on Rejane, Lillian Russel and the other speculations in which Abbey and Grau were engaged it is evident that the profits of the season were inadequate compensation for much responsibility and risk. Something About Salaries.

The enormous salaries that must be be paid operatic artists form the chief element of cost in producing grand opera. For years Patti has received from $4.000 to $5,000 for every operatic performance in America, and it is estimated that during her entire career managers have paid her not less than $5,000,000, a sum far greater than that accorded to all of the presidents of the United States put together by a grate-Something About Salaries United States put together by a grate-ful republic. At the outset of Mme Patti's career she was engaged by Strakosch at a salary of $300 per month for the first year, $600 per month for the second year, $800 for the third and $1,000 for the fourth. She then visited Lon-don with Mr. Gye, under a contract which brought her $250 for each per-formance and from that time the figures commenced to climb rapidly, until she became, as she has continue ever since, the highest priced vocal ar tist the world has ever known. With Patti in the cast, supported by other ar-tists of high rank, and, of course, high pay, the expense of an operatic per-formance never falls below $10,000 or $12,000, a tidy sum amounting to more than the entire annual business of thou-sands of thrifty shops and stores in Chicago. Pattl has held the record for others who have commonly received for each appearance more than the average salary of expert clerks and profes-sional men. Nilsson, the star of the CANADIAN JINGOES. ed a snug sum to his earnings, so snug indeed that those well informed place the grand aggregate of his receipts in America last year at a round $100,000. a sum which comparatively few men carn in a lifetime. As Melba, Eames, Nordica, Tamagno, Maurel. Edouard De Reszke and others were among the high salaried people of last season, it is evident that Abbey & Grau held no sincure in the duty of providing ways and means. Yet if the problem was difficult last year, it will be even more so this season. Calve is re-engaged at a lump sum of $100,000 for the season of a hundred performances or less. Melba, who declined to renew her old contract, has compelled the management to add 50 per cent. to her accepted honorarium of last winter and will now sign the pay roll in the sum of $1,500 every time her name appears upon the house bill. In a comparative sense this sum is still too small, as Melba is chief among the bel canto divinities of the world today. Sembrich is coming over, for a song, to be sure, but the manager will be obliged to pay well for it. That is a detail the charming Marcella never forgets, and when to all this is added the suggestion that the De Reszkes have not forgotten to mark up their vocal goods and that Nordica was also

It is also true that just as people are right or left handed, so are they right or left sighted—that is to say, while apparently looking with both eyes they often really use only one, and out of 20 persons whose eyes were tested, two only were found to be left sighted. The reason of the greater strength genrne reason of the greater strength gen-erally possessed by the right eye is not clearly known, but it is suggested that the greater use of the right side of the body generally—which seems a natural tendency—has something to do with it. in using weapons, for instance, mankind have been taught for ages to assume attitudes in which the right hand and side have most exercise, a discipline which has doubtless had its infect on the light constitution. which has doubtless had its effect on the eye itself. Gunsmiths now carefully allow for right or loft-sightedness in making firearms to order. Old sea cap-tains, after long use of the telescope and other instruments used in making calculations at sea, often find their right eye much stronger than the left— the direct effect, evidently, of exercise deawing the sight, as it were, into the drawing the sight, as it were, into the eye most used.

Lord Holland fell asleen while listening to some one reading, dreamed a long dream, and awoke in time to hear the conclusion of a sentence the first words of which were in his eags when he became unconscious. Dr. Abercrombie relates that a gentleman dreamed that he had enlisted for a soldier, joined his regiment, deserted, had been approhended, carried back, tried, condemned to be shot, and at last led out for execution. After all at last led out for execution. After all the usual preparations he awoke with the report, and found that a noise in an adjoining room had both produced the dream and awakened him. Escaped.

Urbana. Ohio, Jan. 5.—(Special.)— This town is greatly exercised over the remarkable rescue of Sheriff R. P. Wil-kins from one of the worst forms of kins from one of the worst loss of his slavery known to man. He has now fully recovered from the results of his experience, and talks freely and gratefully of his deliverer. In an interview today he said: "I have been a view today he said: view today he said: "I have been a perfect slave to tobacco for over twenty perfect slave to tobacco for over twen perfect slave to tobacco for over twenty-five years; I smoked from twelve to fifteen cigars a day. November 4th. last, I bought my first box of No-To-Bac from Anderson & Cramer. I had little faith, and to my great surprise, after using part of the third box. I was completely cured and did not have the least desire for tobacco. Today I feel better, I sleen better, think better, and I have gained fifteen pounds in weight, and there is not a day passes that I do and there is not a day passes that I do not recommend No-To-Bac to many of the tobacco users who I know are destroying their lives and vitality by the use of the weed." Further investigation revealed the fact that there are 500 people living in this town and the surrounding country who have been cured by No-To-Bac. Anderson & Cramer stated that they were the first to start the good work were the first to start the good work here, as Mr. Anderson termed it. "Yes, we introduced No-To-Bac into this town about three years ago. The demand at the start was very light, the folks had no faith in it, but we sold to a few people, and to our great astonishment every one reported a cure. Since that time we have sold hundreds of boxes, and every one under a guarof boxes, and every one under a guar-antee to cure or refund the money, and strange as it may seem, we have never had a call to refund money."

No-To-Bac not only relieves the ner-vous irritation and makes the use of tobacco entirely unnecessary, but at the same time builds up and fortifies the general physical condition. As a natural invigorator and stimulant we believe there is no preparation in America to equal it.

"The public should be warned, how-ever, against the burchase of any of the many imitations on the market, as the success of No-To-Bac has brought forth a host of counterfeiters and imi-tators. The genuine No-To-Bac is made by the Sterling Remedy Co., Chi-cago, Montreal and New York, and is sold under a guarantee to cure by all druggists, and every tablet has the word No-To-Bac plainly stamped thereon."
