There are some other words of similar lineage, as for instance that which was earliest used to denominate the infernal region. The employment of that, too, is a witness of the truth of scriptural teaching. When in August one says it is hotter than hell, one ventures a term signifying the greatest possible measure of torridity. One could say "hotter than a blast furnace," a reasonably tropical concern, as you and I know, but one might be speaking to a man who never saw or heard of a blast furnace and who had no conception of the measure of its heat. When one mentions the home of his satanic majesty speaker or listener are at once at a complete understanding with one another. In the use of that word one may imply that one's interlocutor is to some extent a student of scripture.

On the whole, it is well that you have decided to quit swearing.

ACCIDENTS OF A DAY.

Three Persons Seriously Injured in the Cont Mines.

While at his work in No. 1 drift, Timothy Gilhool, of Brooklyn street, met with a serious mishap. While shovel-ing coal to his laborer, a large piece of the top rock fell on his head and shoulders and severed ar artery. The blood flowed very freely and was with difficulty stopped. The doctor was summoned immediately and stitched the wound. Mr. Gilhool can congratulate himself upon his nerrow escape.

L. Phiel, fireman for the Delaware and Hudson company, injured his finger while throwing coal into the firebox at Thompson. He was on the staff of Enineer Robert Copeland.

J. Cavic, a visitor in the city from Plymouth and a Polander by nationality, was seriously injured in the No. 4 mine of the Delaware and Hudson. A ity, was seriously injured in the No. 4 mine of the Delaware and Hudson. A fellow countryman took him to the mine, he being anxious to get work. He was taken from chamber to chamber. His errand was fruitless and his friend took up his usual work. Then Cayle went to make his way back to the bottom of the shaft alone. He saw the carriage about to being hoisted, and jumped into it but failed to effect his purpose aright. He got between the carriage and the sides and fell down to the bottom of the shaft, a distance of about fifty feet. He was taken to the hospital where his injuries were at-

HIGHER FARES CHARGED. The Rapid Transit Company's New Move

in Increasing Fares.

It appears that the Lackawanna Val-ley Rapid Transit company decided on Friday last to double their fares from Carbondale to Forest City, the previous fare being 10 cents. Now 20 is asked. The inhabitants who patronize the com-pany are loud in their protestations of what they term imposition. Especially do the workmen who live in the city, but gain their livelihood at the Wilson Creek mines, say that they cannot pay extra 10 cents, and many have illed themselves of the engine down that conveyances will be placed on the road to counteract the company's adexpense will be a barrier, especially to ! FOREST CITY.

The Carbondale Herald's Forest City representative criticised me for stat-ing that the council should have granted a franchise to the Traction company ed a franchise to the Traction company and writes as if the Traction company objected to the bulk of the restrictions imposed by the Forest City borough council. Now, I do not wish to be un-far, but am only stating the truth in saying that nine-tenths of the people of this borough are anxious to see the road extended to Forest City and are dissatisfied with the council for seeping dissatisfied with the council for keeping it out. It is also a fact which the coun-cil minutes verify, that the company vas willing to agree to all restrictions was willing to agree to an restrictions insisted upon by the borough fathers, save a part of one. The restriction in question provided that the company should build a bridge on which to cross the creek at the southern end of the borough and should also raise and widen the present highway bridge across the same creek. The company contended that as they would not be allowed to use the highway bridge to cross it was unreasonable to ask them to fix it up and that the council might just as well require them to build a bridge across the Lackawanna river. They signified their entire willingness to construct a bridge across the creek for their own use, so as not to interfere with travel across the highway bridge, and also agreed to accept every other restriction which the council imposed. They felt unable to accept the fran-chise solely because they would be com-pelled to do a piece of work that was in no way connected with their pas-sages over the creek above mentioned. The Herald correspondent can not deny that this somewhat peculiar require-ment on the part of the council was the ment on the part of the council was the only thing that stood in the way of the electric road coming into Forest City. At a regular meeting of Enterprise Hose company No. 1, held at the fire rooms Friday evening, the following of-licers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, W. D. nare," meaning to condemn and especially meaning 'to decide as wrong and worthy of punishment." And it is not in the remote days of the earlier and possibly less carefully selecting writers of holy writthat we find the word used in this sense. The scholarly Paul and the cautious Peter alike employ it in predicting the fate of the unbeliever. Thus the man who, appreciating the wickedness of another, uses the expression. "he be damned," or some collateral phrase, is really on all fours with the apostle so far as acknowledging that a full and adequate punishment is the due of the evilly disposed person. The difference, of course, is that wheras Paul simply predicted what would ensue, the modern user of the word assumes to try the culprit and if not pass judgment at least wish him ill, which is wicked and not to be tolerated. to thirty-five.

The word "damn," it may be incidentally said in passing, is obtaining quite a vogue—a sort of renaissance—just now, being assiduously propagated by the villain in the high-class society drama. Who in the last ten years has not been present when the voluminously beshirted and incessantly smoking gentleman of the fine white teeth has bitten his mustache, glanced angrily over his left shoulder, with an utter disregard for tradition concerning the new moon, at the newly returned hero (who has discovered in far Madagascar an old decree of divorce which forever settles him, the villain) and ejucaluated in a gentlemanly tone. "Damn him?" We have all heard this, and so the word has been accepted with respect, if not deference, for society has taken it in.

CONCERNING PROFAMITY.

From the Chicago Record.

This being the season when profanity is habitually abjured, it may not be amiss to dio into some of the drafts and laterals of that intensely interesting study. The basic elements of profanity are scriptural utterance. For instance, when we utter—if we do utter it—the expression "damn it" (or "damn him." as the case may be) we tacitly acknowledge the teachings of the prophets and the ancient scriptural historians to be in part at least true. The word "damn" is from the Latin "dam-
