Oliver's Vinduct Ordinance Will Come Before the Common Council on Final Passage at Tonight's Meeting.

Tonight Councilman Joseph Oliver's viaduet ordinance will come up for third and final reading in common council. The measure has already passed the select branch and if no opposition is shown tonight the project will come before the people at the February election, as Mayor Connell has consented to sign the document. A proclamation has been prepared according to the law in such matters which will be posted as soon as possible after the mayor signs it.

The law says that proclamations must be issued at least thirty days before the election. Saturday is the last day that the present ordinance can be proclaimed. The committee appointed by the West Side board of trade to push the viaduet are confident of success. T. Fellows Mason, E. M. Clarke, Hon. John H. Farr. William Farrell, Dr. P. F. Struppler and C. E. Daniels, of this committee, spent yesterday in consultation with the property holders, whose property is to be purchased, according to the provision of the ordinance, and last night they reported that each and every one would ask but a moderate figure in their option, which will be presented to the mayor this morning. The viaduet committee will attend the council meeting tonight.

Franklin Company's Record.

The Franklin Engine company elected officers Tuesday night. The company made twenty-six runs during last year, with an average of seven members at each fire. The steamer was used at only eighteen fires, the trivialness of some of them not warranting the use of an engine. On New Year's eve a still alarm was attended to. At the twenty-six fires 6,800 feet of hose were laid and thirty hours and twelve minutes time was put in at the aggregate. The company wishes to extend thanks to those who served refreshments to the members during the Eynon fire on Dec. 14. All was harmony at the meeting. At the present time the Franklin boys have one of the best equipped hose houses in the city.

The public entertainment and dance given at their rooms in Dr. Manley's hall last evening by Columbus council, Young Men's Institute, brought forth a large audience that filled the hall. It was a success and highly creditable to the members of the Institute. Miss Katle Reardon played an overture on the plano as an opening number and was followed by Miss Annie Fitzhenry, of Minooka, and Miss Katle Donahoe, who sang beautfully a duet. Miss Winifred Durkin was heard in a recitation which involved the evercise of fine clocutionary ability.

Dr. W. F. Connors, of the central city, spoke for thirty minutes to the young men and his talk was cloquent and filled with sage advice. He urged each young man to make a monthly practice of saving and investing something. The press, he declared, is the greatest power for good or evil in the land, and each young man should surround himself with good daily papers and monthly periodicals, and a well-selected library. The young man can do this by joining some good society. Miss Winifred Melvin sang "The Holy City" and she rendered it in excellent style, William Daniels read a paper purporting to be a monthly edition gotten up in the Institute. It contained a running fire of witty allusions to members of the council and was very clever. Miss Anna Scanlan, of Lafayette street, sang "Fiddle and I." and for an encore, "Ben Bolt." She was received with great applause. Miss Agnes Gurrell, also of the West Side, was accompanist. James Folan sang "Oh Promise Me!" and the last number was given by M. J. Coyne, the versatile and talented young comedian. He first gave a monologue cuttiled "Christopher Columbus and the Discovery of America." Secondly, he played a piccolo soio: next he played on a sweet-voiced instruxent of his own making, and, lastly, he sang in his usual tuneful style. A dance followed, at which the music was furnished by Miss Katie Reardon, Attorney M. J. Donahoe was chairman of the entertainment. Group Three of the State Bankers small attendance.

GROUP THREE OF BANKERS

PART OF STATE ASSOCIATION

Elected Permanent Officers and Ad

association, composed of bankers from countles in the northeastern and east-ern sections of the state, met yesterday oon in the board of trade rooms and perfected a permanent organization in response to a call from William Hackett, cashier of the Easton National bank, temporary president, and W. H. Peck, cashler of the Third National bank of Scranton, temporary secretary.
It had been expected that addresses would be delivered by comptroller of the Treasury Eckels, Robert E. Wright, president of the Allentown National bank, and Robert E. James, president of the Easton Trust company, and that the attendance would be much larger than it was, but Mr. Eckels and Mr. Wright sent letters of regret and Mr. James who was suffering from a severe cold spoke only a few moments. The fact that the date for the meeting was during a period when many banks are engaged in annual organization and elec-tion was given as the reason for the Bankers Who Attended. There were present: William Hack-ett, cashier of the Easton National bank; Isaac Post, cashier of the First National bank, of Scranton; A. B. Wil-liams, cashier of the Traders' National bank, of Scranton; John B. Farrerd, treasurer of the Wyoming National bank, of Tunkhannock; R. A. Jadwin, teller of the First National bank, of Carbondale; C. R. Horn, cashier of the National bank of Catasagua: R. E. James, president of the Easton Trust company: William H. Gish, cashier of the National of Slatington; A. B. Ey-non, cashier of the West Side bank of Scranton; H. J. Andrews, president of the Lackawanna Trust and Safe De-posit company, of Scranton: John F. Gwinner, cashler of the First National bank, of Easton: W. H. Peck, cashler of the Third National bank, of Scran-ton; C. W. Gunster, cashler of the Merchants' and Mechanics' bank, of Scran-ton; H. G. Dunham, cashier of the Dime Deposit and Discount bank, of Scranton; C. E. Spencer, cashier of the Miners' and Mechanics' Savings bank, of Carbondale, and a few direct-ors and officers of Scranton banks. Mr. Hackett was temporary chairman. A nominating committee recom-mended the following board of permanent officers who were unanimously elected: Chairman, William Hackett, cashier of the Easton National bank; secretary and treasurer, C. W. Gunster eashier of the Merchants' and Mechan ics' bank of Scranton; executive com-mittee, W. H. Peck, cashier of the Third National banklof Scranton; W. H. Gish, cashier of the National bank of Slatington; N. N. Betts, cashler of the First National bank of Towanda; A. A. Sterling, cashler of the People's bank of Wilkes-Barre, and R. E. James, president of the Easton Trust company. Address of Mr. James.

Mr. James, who was called upon by the chairman to address the meeting, remarked upon the futility of bankers discussing the bond issue, currency question or other matters of national finance so long as the present mistaken policy continues of electing to the national legislative bodies men opposed to endorsing anything that will bene-fit the country. Without a maintained credit, he said, dams of gold may be builded and millions of the metal may be shovelled into a breach that will never close so long as the present arbilegislation exists.

Bankers are as powerless as children in swaddling clothes to reform the fi-nancial problem and must wait until all political parties regardless of personal views join hands and put the gov-ernment out of the banking business. "Until then," he said, "we can only pray."

On motion of Mr. Peck, of Scranton, an assessment of $2 was ordered. On motion of Mr. James, the chair appointed to solicit membership from the 73 banks in Group Three, Isaac Post, of this city, and C. E. Spencer, of Carbondale, and Mr. Mulligan, of Wilkes, Barre

Wilkes-Barre.
The constitution and by-laws adopted by the meeting are those sanctioned by the state association and provide for meetings in January and July. Mr. Gwinner, of Easton, argued against the selected as inconvenient and offered a motion that at the next State meeting Group Three make an effort to have the time for the meetings changed or to leave the selection of dates to the action of the groups. The motion was adopted. Mauch Chunk was selected for the next meeting which occurs Wednesday, July 15, and the meeting adjourned.
