SKELETONS IN A MINE.

The Bones of Three Men Said to Have Been Found Near Wilkes-Barre.

Wilkes-Barre, Jan. 20.-A rumor was started today to the effect that three skeletons had been discovered in the old workings of the Diamond mines formerly operated by the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal company, though idle for the past ten years. Superintendent Morgan was seen this afternoon and said that he had heard of the rumor, but was unable to confirm it. He will tomorrow send a party of miners into the old workings and an earnest search will be made, and if the skeletons are found they will be brought to the surface.

The rumor started from a statement made by Peter Wassil, who is now in prison for shooting Krupsgave at Georgetown last week, in which he claims that he had killed a man some months before and hurled his dead body down the deep shaft of the Dia mond mine. If the skeletons should be found they are probably those of foreigners who were murdered for their savings and their bodies hidden in the dark recesses of the mine. The sensational story of the finding of the skeletons has caused no little excitement in the neighborhood of the mine. For a ong time past men have been missing after having accumulated sums of money and it is now thought that an organized band of thugs are at the bottom of these mysterious disappearances and conceal their bloody work in the inner workings of abandoned

District Attorney Fell has been notified and with the aid of the county detective the matter is to be thoroughly sifted.

Wilbur Hammond, the Belvidere Farmer Boy Trance Doctor

Belvidere, Ill., Jan. 20.-Wilbur Hammond, the individual who is causing so much excitement at Sycamore, Rockford and other towns within easy reach of this city, is a well known young man living on a farm near here. So far as known he never evinced any particular inclination for books or study, much less for medical lore, and yet some of his reported cures can only be explained in either one or two ways. He must have some peculiar aptitude for prescribing for the sick, or under a mask of so-called spiritualism, or of faith cure, he is able to exercise some beneficial hypnotic influence upon the sick. Certain it is that he works for good, so far as his patient is concerned and instances of people who maintain either a cure or beneficial treatment at his hands are rapidly accumulating. He makes no charge for such service as he is able to give, and is gracious enough to devote all the time he can to the good work. It is his custom to deliver short discourses upon spiritualism, in which he proclaims profound belief, and to speak tenderly and assuringly to his patient, after which he lapses into an alleged trance state. His manner then becomes entirely changed, and he rattles of a volume of German gutturals and prescribes for the patient. He emphatically denies that he is an imitator of Schlatter. and claims to have been in the business long before the Denver worker was heard of.

People here are divided in their opinions of young Hammond. A few whom he has treated have firm belief in his powers, and a number of others are willing to believe that he exercises hypnotic or supernatural influence over his patients, and is thus enabled to doctor them. But the unbelievers have no faith in him, and are waiting to see him develop into the old-time spiritualistic cabinet worker, or perhaps into a professor ready to manufacture mediums at $100 or more per medium.

Hamound is rather modest and unassuming, and seems wholly disinclined to take any notice of his critics, or to attract too great attention to himself or his methods. He sometimes talks of abandoning the work he has been doing for the past six months. He is 23 years old, of rather slight build, dark mustache and full dark eyes, with a peculiar dreamy expression in them. There is considerable interest here in the healing work he has undertaken among the sick at the Sycamore and Belvidere, where he is not so well known and where he is les likely to 527 Adams ave. know anything in advance abaut his
