Treasurer M. J. Stone of Defunct Olyphant Trust Co., on Trial.

BANK EXAMINERS TESTIFY

louk Failed Jan. 28, 1895, and the Treas urer Is Accused of Forging Notes. Verdicts of Guilty Against Trustees of Workingmon's Hall.

Trensurer M. J. Stone, of the defunct Olyphant Trust Co., which was closed on January 28, 1895, was put on trial yesterday morning on the charge of forgery, before Judge Archbald in the main court room. District Attorney John R. Jones represented the commonwealth and Attorneys George S. Horn and C. Comegys are for the defendant.

Stone's mother, wife and little daughter were seated all day within the bar enclosure, directly behind him, and there was an air of anxiety and yearning about them that was touching. Trensurer M. J. Stone, of the defunc

The crime with which he is charged is very grave, but it is said that, though his management of the affairs of the bank appears to have been crooked, yet the defense hopes to be able to prove to the satisfaction of the jury that it was nothing worse be able to prove to the satisfaction of the jury that it was nothing worse than an error of judgment.

Attorneys Horn and Comegys are putting up a stiff legal battle to save their client. When the case was called at 9 o'clock they moved to quash the indictment for the reason that there were five counts in it, the first, third, fifth, seventh and ninth, which charge no substantive crime or offense. The motion was overruled.

Plea of Abatement Entered. A plea in abatement was next entered by Mr. Horn as to the charges against the defendant. Then another motion to quash the indictment was made on to quash the indictment was made on the ground that the defendant's name is not Myron J. Stone, but his name is Martyn J. Stone and as such he has been known since his nativity. Judge Archbaid again overruled the motion to quash and allowed the motion of the district atternay for an amendment Archald again overture the motion of the district attorney for an amendment that wherever the name Myron J. Stone appears in the indictment, it shall be changed to read Martyn J. Stone.

The attorneys for the defense then refused to enter any plea and stood mute. The court thereupon ordered and directed that a plea of not guilty be entered upon record. It was 10 o'clock when the case opened. The certificate of incorporation of the trust commany was offered in evidence.

The first witness called by the commonwealth was Ira Schaffer, of Lock Haven, assistant state bank examiner. He paid a visit to the Olyphant institution in the latter part of January a year ago and he found an entry of $23,000 on the individual deposit ledger, which was accounted for by notes diswhich was accounted for by notes dis-counted. Mr. Schaffer asked to have a look at the notes and when they were handed to him, he told Mr. Stone the signatures were all made by one per-son. Mr. Stone tried to tear up the notes but the witness succeeded in hin-dering him and the papers were afterwards patched up with mucilage Mr Schaffer then charged Mr. Stone with

The notes were as follows. One in the sum of $5,000, purporting to be signed by C. W. McHale; one for $5,000 with the signature "L. R. Baker." E. N. Martin, of Brookville, Pa., an-other assistant state bank examiner, testified next. He swore that Mr. Stone admitted to him on January 26, two days before the bank's business was suspended, that he had signed the aforementioned notes. They were drawn on December 24, 1894, and he signed them on January 25, 1895, the day before the bank examiner came Wanted Case Taken from Jury. At 3.30 Attorney Comegys stepped before the bar and asked the court to take the case from the jury on more than one ground. First the charter of the company did not warrant it in doing the company did not warrant it in doing a banking business, and it was as a bank the entries were made upon which the forged notes are based. Again, the commonwealth had not shown that by the notes or the entries made the bank at any time gained or lost a cent. The at any time gained or lost a cent. The notes were to cover up some past action and no harm resulted from their issuance. Judge Archbald decided that the case should go to the jury and Mr. Horn made the opening address for the defense. The testimony offered until adjournment was for the purpose of proving the good character of Mr. Stone previous to the failure of the bank.

Those who testified to the defendant's uprightness were: E. J. Lynett, Dr. L. M. Gates, George D. Brown, Luther Keller, Frank Hallstead, Miss S. C. Krigbaum, John Lillibridge, Attorney Thomas F. Tried in Court Room No. 2. In court room No. 2 before Judge Gunster the jury in the case of Fred Stackel and August Yobs, tried Monday for selling llauor without a license, selling on Sunday and selling to minors, brought in a verdict yesterday morning finding the defendants guilty of the first two charges, acquitting them of the third and placing the costs in the third case on the county. a club for the mutual benefit of the members.

The two defendants have some official capacity in the organization and they were brought before the court on what they allege is a spite action, because they furnished beer at balls conducted under the auspices of the club. No money was paid ber glass, but a person would have to pay a certain price for admission and drink was furnished at stated intervals as a part of the festivity. Attorney Scragg, who defended the men, asked Judge Gunster to direct a verdict of not guilty on the ground that the law allows any club to have intoxicating beverages to supply to its members if they so desire. The court did not take this view of the law and instructed the jury to find a verdict of guilty. The defendants did not deny that they furnished beer to those who were admitted to the hall. Mr. Scragg intends to appeal for a new trial and cites a case where Judge Pennypacker, of Philadelphia, directed a jury to find one James Tierney, of Philadelphia, guilty of violating the liquor laws. The circumstances of the case were similar to the present one. Tierfiey was president of a club that furnished liquor to its members and to all who were admitted on certain occasions where money was charged at the door. The case came before the Supreme court and the lower court was sustained, but it was on the ground that the club of which Tierney was president, was organized to cheat the license laws and had no other purpose in existing.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

In "A Summer Shower," E. J. Dellinger's scenic masterpiece, the old grist mill in operation will be introduced in the third act. The scene as presented gives the full interior of the old grist mill, showing in the background a twenty-toot water wheel propelled by tons of falling water. In the last act a shower of real water is presented, making as pretty and natural picture as was ever presented. Arthur C. It will be seen at that house on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

and Saturday of this week.

A. Y. Pearson's company in "Land of the Midnight Sun" will be the attraction at the Academy next Friday evening. The play is said to be one of the most fascinating and romantic produced in many years. It is a story of Iceland, introducing chareters representing a race of stalwart people we seldom see upon the stage. Giants of physique and passion, rugged in love and barbaric in war. The company is a large one, embracing many excellent players, among the rest being the author of the piece, Mr. Barbour, who assumes the role of the old sea dog. Captain Jodlyweather. Among the other members of the company can be mentioned George W. Walters, Wilton Taylor, Paul Menifee, David Hanchett, Edward Hume, J. F. Watson, E. Franklin, Jessie Lester, Belle Stoddard, Ada Lytton, Mrs. George W. Walters, Lulu Barbour, J. W. Marston, Eugene Epson, George Carleton and Herbert Dorman.

There will be presented at the Academy There will be presented at the Academy Saturday evening a somewhat unique entertainment that is a combination of farce, specialty performance and spectacular, entitled "Rush City," and written by Gus Heege. Its production is one of the several pretentious enterprises of Thomas H. Davis and William T. Keogh. It is in three acts and deals with the efforts of a breezy personage named John J. Rush to boom a-town in Oklahoma, of which he is proprietor, mayor and entire municipal government. His citizens rebel and confine him in a cyclone-cellar A cyclone carries away the town and Rush is the only person not damged by it. The cyclone has a very realistic representation.

VERSATILE FRANK BUSH. In Entertained a Large Audience at the Academy of Music.

Frank Bush is a great entertainer. He proved it last night by his work in "Girl Wanted" at the Academy of Music for he kept the large audience amused from the beginning to the end amused from the beginning to the end of the performance. There is no plot to the skit in which Bush and his company appeared for a plot would be really an encumbrance. There is merely a faint suggestion of a plot which gives Mr. Bush an excuse as the evening progresses of appearing as a Rube from Vermont, a tough Bowery waiter, a German girl, a Hebrew, an Irishman and a prima donna. This wide range of characters requires the greatest versatility to reproduce and that Mr. Bush was able last night to represent each correctly speaks vol-

There was dancing by a trio of pretty young women.

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY.

Recognition of an Important Event in the Nation's History.

The anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln will fall upon Feb. 12. The occasion will be taken advantage of by the Philadelphia Sunday Press of Feb. 9 to spread abroad a lesson in patriotism which cannot fail to be wholesome. On that day the Press will publish much interesting matter concerning the life of the Great Emancipator that has not hitherto been printed. Speaker Reed has lent his aid and will contribute an estimate of Lincoln's character which is certain to be entertaining and instructive. Each reader of the Sunday Press of Feb. 12 will also receive a splendid portrait of Lincoln done in oil.

Following out the same idea, all readers of the Sunday Press on Feb. 16 will receive a picture of "Washington Crossing the Delaware" and on Feb. 23 a picture of the new battle ship, "Philadelphia." The pictures for Feb. 16 and 22 will be on early so pressived that the 23 will be on cards so arranged that the figures can be cut out. The effect will be an actual portrayal of Washington's famous adventure and an exact model of the "Philadelphia" as she appears cleared for action.

MORE REVENUE NECESSARY

Hard Problem That Now Confronts the Estimates Committee.

VALUATION IS MADE TOO LOW

That is the Reason Given by City Officials Why the City Has Not Got Sufficient Revenue - Comparisons with Other Cities.

The dilemma which confronts the estimates committee was the main topic of discussion in city hall yesterday. How the committee will make ends meet was a question often propounded, but never answered. The cause of the present condition was also argued pro and con and as a general rule the conclusion arrived at was that the deconclusion arrived at was that the deconclusion arrived at was that the demands are not exhorbitant, but rather the revenues are extremely low.

One little knot of city officers spent some time with pencil and paper during the afternoon, and after a little figuring and a great deal of talk it was almost unanimously agreed that this almost unanimously agreed that this city does not provide anything like a sufficient revenue to carry on its afsumcient revenue to carry on its at-fairs. By comparisons it was shown that Scranton is a veritable cheap John city as compared with any of the other leading cities of the commonwealth, leaving out Philadelphia and Pittszurg, which can hardly enter into the com-parison. Our valuation, according to the assessment just completed is a the assessment just completed, is a trifle over $20,000,000, and we raise only $272,313 to pay the city's way during the year. Reading, with a population much smaller than Scranton, has a valuation of $80,000,000 and raises twice as much revenue. Erie, a town of six wards, according to its report for 1893, has a valuation of $15,376,964. On this valuation $223,413.41 was raised. Altoona, a still smaller town, has a valuation of $15,152,370, and collects $205,605 in taxes. System Is All Wrong.

The fault with us, the investigators claim, lies in the system adopted by the board of assessors in placing a valuation on property. Land is assessed at one-third of its value and improvements at one-half, and, worst of all, these proportions are based on ridiculously low values in many cases.

Land and improvements, they hold, should be assessed alike, and the assessment should be made on one-half the actual value and not one-half the estimated amount it would bring at forced sale. The law directs that properties shall be valued at what they will bring at a forced sale and the assessors have fixed the above proportions as their estimate upon which this idea should be carried out: but it appears that they have assessed the properties at one-half or one-third of the forced sale value, thus making a double cut into the city's valuation.

The time has come when more taxes the testing to make the city's re-The fault with us, the investigators

The time has come when more taxes must be levied to meet the city's re-quirements, and the only way to do this is to raise the valuation as the levy is at present at the limit which the law allows, ten mills.

Something Must Be Done The spectacle of a city trying to meet demands for over $500,000 with $272,313 is ridiculous. The estimates committee failed, at its meeting Monday night, to show that any great amount of these demands were for unnecessaries, consuently it is argued something has got o be done to raise money and that comething soon.

The Resolutions Adopted.

Again we are called upon to mourn the loss of a distinguished member of this bar. Aretus H. Winton, who for more than a quarter of a century has been prominently associated with us in the various duties incident to our profession, has been cut down in the prime of manhood. Gifted with a marvelous intellect, a natural legal mind and to which was added a thorough and comprehensive education, he came to the bar fully equipped for the great duties imposed upon him. How well he acquitted himself comes vividly to our recollection as we recall his many logical and eloquent pleas before the court and jury; and it is to be regretted that private business relations and physical disability induced him, comparatively, to retire from active practice.

As a puble servant when officiating in behalf of the poor he showed his goodness of heart. As a political speaker he had few equals, and we can never forget his active, able and unremitting efforts in behalf of the establishment of the county of Lackawanna. In his social relations he stood pre-eminent as one of the most amiable, genial and hospital of men. Therefore be it

Resolved, First, that the members of this association attend his funeral in a body; second, that we extend to his family our sincere sympathy in this, their sad bereavement, and hope that God, in His infinite mercy, will comfort, watch over and protect them.
