BIDS ON BONDS RECEIVED

Envelopes Opened in the Office of the Secretary of the Treasury.

APPLAUSE FOR MR. CARLISLE

Isador Straus and John A. McCall Lead the Ciskee-Varioua Bids Considered—Probably Nothing Short of 111 Will Be Notified.

Washington, Feb. 5.—It was exactly 11:20 o'clock this morning when the brass case leading to Secretary Carlisle's office was opened and those having credentials as bidders for the bonds were allowed to pass the well-guarded doorway and enter the big public office of the secretary of the treasury to watch the opening of the envelopes containing bids. Mr. Van Bendin, the secretary's private secretary, stood guard and saw that only those allowed "by the grace of the secretary" should get in, and he was especially careful not to let any but the bidders enter.

RENEWED APPLAUSE

This announcement brought forth renewed applause, and Mr. Eckels again had to wait for it to subside. Then he added: "We still have to tabulate a number of bids yet to be tabulated, and when this is done it will bring the number of offers up to about 4,000 and increase the subscriptions to at least $75,000,000 more, thus making the total over $45,000,000."

It was a quarter to two o'clock when the committee finished tabulating the bids, and it was found that 450 bids had been received and these aggregated the total subscriptions of $68,269,550.

Of these several were evidently bogus, one being for $10,000 from a player in Michigan, and another of $18,000,000 from Texas. Deducing the $118,000 considered bogus, it leaves the total subscriptions at $68,269,550.

President John A. Stewart, of the United States Trust company, of New York, put in bids on behalf of a large number of banks, banking houses, and individuals amounting in all to $76,000,000 at a fixed price of 110 1/2, which will net about 3 1/2 per cent. to the purchaser and also bids for $10,000,000 at a lower price from bidders who placed restrictions upon Mr. Stewart's action in representing them.

Messrs. R. E. Glendinning & Co., of Philadelphia, bid for $500,000 at 112 1/2; S. H. Emmons, of New York, $1,000,000 at 112 1/2; and the National City Bank of New York, $1,000,000 at 111. Most of the national bank bids were at 110. Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co., of New York, bid for $10,000,000 at 110 1/2, thus establishing a price below which it will be impossible to award any portion of the bonds. This cut out the many big bidders at 110 1/2 who were associated with Mr. Stewart. It is quite possible, however, that even the Morgan syndicate will get bids of the bonds, as Mr. Stewart is quoted as saying that he will be accepted.

The four subscribers to the Morgan syndicate bid in four equal parts and offered to take all or any part of the issue. The bid of Joseph Pulitzer, of New York, for $1,000,000 at 114 had a memorandum attached to it stating that this bid at the highest market price today, is in lieu of the offer to head the list with a subscription of $1,000,000 to a popular loan on the basis, which was not adopted, of an open subscription at a fixed price.

Overwhelmed by Bids. The treasury department was simply overwhelmed by the enormous number of bids received. With fifteen expert clerks at work scheduling the bids at 8 o'clock tonight, they having worked incessantly since this morning, 1,200 bids remained unscheduled. They will be copied tomorrow.

Bids for many millions of dollars coming from New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas, Illinois, Connecticut, Vermont, Maryland, Nebraska, Missouri, North and South Carolina, Indiana, Michigan, Louisiana, Washington (state), Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and in fact nearly every state of the union thrown into the most incongruous state of juxtaposition and quite a number of offers from Canada were received at prices ranging from 100 downwards. The number of small bids was quite remarkable, the 500 offers ran up into the hundreds and fairly good prices and over 1,000 small banks and private individuals whose offers at the highest rates of

DUNRAVEN CHARGES

He Is Advised by the Prince of Wales to Abide by the Findings of the Yaout Club Committee.

London, Feb. 4.—After having made inquiries in various quarters the United Press representative in London has learned definitely that Lord Dunraven, subsequent to his return from New York, stayed at Sandringham for a week, returning to London on the evening of Jan. 21, when he received a copy of the findings of the New York fact club committee in their investigation into the charges made by his lordship against the Defender. The Prince of Wales, who soon after the issuance of the pamphlet by Lord Dunraven containing his allegations against the Defender, expressed his sympathy for the charges to be without proof, has counseled Lord Dunraven to abide by the findings. The Prince of Wales, Sir Charles Hall and George R. Askwith, the lawyer who represented Lord Dunraven at New York, have refused to consider the suggestion of making an apology, and in discussing the findings with his friends, points to the failure of the Yaout Club Committee before the committee which made the investigation as a serious omission. Mr. Askwith was prepared to cross-examine the witnesses and regarding the plans of the American yacht.

Though Lord Dunraven has not yet definitely decided to do so, he will probably make a statement of his position, which he will send to the New York Yaout Club, and then resign his position from that organization. His partners in the ownership of the Valkyrie III, Messrs. Robinson and McCallum, have also stated they will do so. Lord Dunraven may decide to do so. Lord Dunraven is delivering political speeches in Scotland tomorrow, and is also paying a visit to G. L. Watson, the designer of the Valkyrie III, with whom he will consult in reference to a statement it is presumed he will make.

MURDERED HIS FAMILY

A Terrible Crime Committed in a Suburb of Chicago.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Richard Klattke, a Lake View carpenter, killed his mother-in-law, his wife, and three young children, and himself, in a suburb of Chicago. The bodies of the murdered persons and the suicide were discovered early this morning in a brick cottage at 207 Dearborn avenue, two blocks from Custer station, a suburb on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. The discovery was made by Mathew Brown, a saloonkeeper, who went to the cottage to employ Klattke to do some work. He rapped on the door, but there was no answer. Klattke, who lives in a tenement nearby, was early riser, he became suspicious, and called the neighbors. The door of the house was then broken in. The killing was done with a revolver. In each case the bullet penetrated the brain, and death evidently was instantaneous. Beside the body of Klattke were scattered the empty cartridge shells were scattered about the rooms. One peculiar feature was the lack of any indication of a struggle on the part of any of the victims. The door, which appeared to be that of chloroform pervaded the house. From this it was supposed that Klattke had chloroformed his family and then shot them before he killed them. A detail of officers was sent to the scene in a patrol wagon, and a careful examination was made of the premises. There is no doubt that the murders were deliberately planned and executed by Klattke. He had been out of work since Christmas.

THE MANNIX AFFAIR

De Lema's Efforts to Secure Reliable News from Cuba Failed.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Minister Dupuy De Lema, when asked about the expulsion of Correspondent William P. Mannix from Cuba, said: "Mannix came to consult General Balduino, very well introduced, and asked assistance to go to Cuba to send reliable news to a syndicate of newspapers which he agreed to take him money. Under guarantee that he would send unbiased reports, I authorized the consul general to pay his fare Cuba in November and December he wrote back announcing that he was trusted by the rebels and offered his services as a spy to furnish the consul general with confidential reports of insurgent plans. I instructed the consul general to decline the offer most emphatically, which he did, as we had no need for American spies in Cuba. Mannix immediately began to send lies to the papers here and as they were published the authorities in Havana expelled him as they had a perfect right to do. In paying Mannix's fare to Cuba he was not contemplating to induce his reports, as can be shown by his subsequent letters offering rebel information."

ANOTHER STEAMER ASHORE

The Lamington, from Gibraltar, Stranded on Long Island.

HER POSITION IS VERY BAD

The British Steamer Loaded with Oranges and Onions Runs Ashore Near Patchogue—Passengers and Crew Are Rescued.

New York, Feb. 5.—During the thick weather and heavy sea last night, between 7 and 8 o'clock, the British fruit steamer Lamington ran ashore off Blue Point, on the Long Island coast, three miles east of the Lone Hill life saving station near opposite Patchogue, about ten miles east of Fire Island. She was from Greece, via Valencia, and loaded with 225 cases of oranges, 300 cases of onions, 250 cases of lemons, and 1,500 cases of currants. She had two passengers. Captain Duff, her commander, immediately signalled for help, with lights, rockets and whistle. The life saving crew responded at once, under Captain Rourke, but found the sea too high and the fog too thick for them to accomplish anything beyond throwing a line over the stern. It was estimated that the wind from the northeast was not much less than twenty miles an hour, but that he would like to have the life saving crew ready in case of need, stood by until daylight. The other life saving crew was resting easily.

TUGS SENT TO THE SCENE

The rescued men were taken to the life saving station and fed and given dry clothing. Telegrams were sent both to the Chapman and the Merritt companies and tugs were at once dispatched.
