Twenty-sixth Letter of Northwestern Travel. Further Facts Concerning Seattle.

Written for The Tribune. In the race for commercial supremacy between Tacoma and Seattle, each city has some strong points and advantages over the other.

Seattle is certainly, from any point of view, on sound or on land, a beautiful city—a city of much promise and if no further disaster befalls it and no check to its business prosperity is encountered, there is no reason why it should not grow into even greater prominence until it rivals the largest influence in our northwestern coast.

A seminary for girls. The University of Seattle is the property of the Baptist Church of Seattle, and is one of the best and most complete schools of art, free reading room, public library and kindergartens.

A Church-going City. Seattle, like Tacoma, is a church-going city, for a western city, remarkably so.

Parks and Pleasure Resorts. In view of the beauty of the natural beauties and lovely scenery in any direction the eye may be apt to turn, the public and private parks and pleasure resorts are so close to each other that they are almost overlooked.

Seattle's School System. A sure index of the character and substantiality of any community is the reputation of its schools and colleges. Seattle has a system of public schools equalled by few cities in the union and second to none in points of equipment, completeness of equipment and thoroughness of organization.

telegraph came, an hour later the wire announced that the battle was over and that the order was given to beat down the colors.

The Dread Result. Panic instantly befell. Bank after bank and merchant after merchant failed. Funds fell to 55. Every attempt was made to meet the situation.

Stripped of our colonies, Canada and the West Indies gone to America. Australia was the only one left that had been destroyed. Gibraltar and Malta were the only ones left that had not been destroyed.

My country, 'tis of thee, My country, 'tis of thee, Of thee I sing. John E. Richmond.

The Plans and Ambitions of Joseph Chamberlain—He Wants to Be Premier.

From the Chicago Times-Herald. For the moment the most conspicuous man in British political life—always excepting Lord Salisbury, the responsible minister of a sovereign who reigns but does not govern—is Joseph Chamberlain.

He aspires to be prime minister. Eleven years ago every radical in England hoped that he would be; today every Tory in England is half afraid that he may be. In the reorganization of parties, which the not distant future will witness, it is not unlikely that he will attain the supreme distinction he covets.

of more actual service to Ireland than many of her avowed English champions. Should he stand out, as it is fully believed he will, against his cabinet colleagues in their reactionary proposal to revise the elementary educational settlement of 1870, he will win the applause of the whole liberal party.

The cardinal maxim of the political methods of Joseph Chamberlain is to begin by insisting on a higher price than he is quite willing to take.

Almost every large city has some one location designed by nature to draw to itself the culture, wealth and taste that seek expression in the form of a monumental structure. In Seattle this is Mount Tabor.

Two Beautiful Lakes. The situation of Seattle is such that it possesses all the essentials to health as well as the advantages of beauty.

Superb Natural Advantages. The city is therefore naturally drained and the character of the soil, which is a sandy loam, makes it a ready ab-

Washington's School Fund. To secure a permanent school fund, the sixteenth annual session of the legislature in the state, are by law dedicated to public schools—in all some two million acres of land; even if sold at a nominal low price it will yield a fund on a substantial basis.

Worthy Benevolent Institutions. Apart from the public schools of the city, are a number of educational and benevolent institutions worthy of special mention.
