

50 Choice Garments

We ought to say EXTRA CHOICE, for finer skins of their class, or more carefully finished work, never came to market.

A Plain Statement

We thought several weeks ago that we had finished buying Fur Capes for this season, but the demand kept on and still keeps on. Sizes could not hold out against the heavy inroads made on them daily, and this week we were tempted to buy just fifty more of the handsomest Fur Capes that have come our way this season.

Some are trimmed, some untrimmed, all are in fashion's latest mould, and there isn't one garment that is not strictly high class in every respect.

MR. QUAY IS A CANDIDATE

Will Permit His Name to Go Before the Convention.

IN THE HANDS OF HIS FRIENDS

Reports Verified by The Tribune's Washington Correspondent—How the News Is Received—The Chances of McKinley and Allison.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—"I am in the hands of friends," said Senator Quay tonight to The Tribune's correspondent, when asked if he were a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

The official announcement of the senator that his name would be presented to the St. Louis convention is the one subject discussed by politicians here tonight. The belief that Senator Quay would only be a candidate for the purpose of securing control of the solid Pennsylvania delegation to the convention has given way to the conviction that he is a bona fide candidate and that he is in the fight to win.

Senator Quay has caused a stampede among the supporters of Speaker Reed, who have been depending upon the senator's support for the man from Maine. The McKinley people are also somewhat disconcerted as they, too, had expected to get a portion of Pennsylvania's vote.

The phase of the situation most generally discussed by politicians is Senator Quay's chances for securing the solid delegation from Pennsylvania. The prediction is freely made that in the face of the universal sentiment in the state that those districts heretofore considered as Republican will fall into line and support him.

Tonight Senator Quay had several callers, among them Senator Elkins, of West Virginia. While Senator Elkins refused to be interviewed, it is believed he will regard Senator Quay favorably as a presidential candidate.

THE DECISION REACHED

Booms for Major McKinley and Senator Allison.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—The United Press is able tonight to announce positively that Senator Quay, of Pennsylvania, has consented to permit his name to go before the Republican convention at St. Louis. The senator is now in the hands of his friends, and his prominence in the race will depend upon their efforts. It is understood that the senator has full knowledge of the statement thus made public.

For several days he has been besieged by his friends and the members of the delegation from his state to permit him to be a bona fide candidate but thus far he has declined to give his consent. After considering the matter carefully, that consent was given this afternoon and Mr. Quay's personal friends and political lieutenants throughout the state were doubtless notified of the fact at once. Mr. Quay himself declined tonight to be interviewed.

Major McKinley's Boom.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Milliam McKinley, of Ohio, accompanied by Senator Thurston, of Washington, Senator Fitchard, of North Carolina, Mark Hanna, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Robert C. Alexander, editor of the New York Mail and Express, was a factor in the race which the club's reception committee at South Chicago this morning. When the party reached the city depot, carriages were waiting to convey the guests of the club to the Auditorium annex hotel.

After a brief rest, Major McKinley received about 200 prominent city and county Republicans, who assured him of their support and extended their best wishes for his success at the convention. The Ohio statesman who appeared in a factious and himself, but merely to pay homage to the memory and deeds of Abraham Lincoln.

At the conclusion of the reception, in which Senators Thurston and Fitchard, and Governor Upham, of Wisconsin, participated, Major McKinley and the other banquet orators rested in their parlors and at five o'clock, when a larger and more public reception was held in the hotel parlors. The Ohio man was the center of attraction.

Columbus, Feb. 12.—The state league of Republican clubs in convention here today adopted resolutions strongly endorsing the candidacy of Major McKinley and it was determined to open headquarters at St. Louis during the national Republican convention for the purpose of working for his nomination.

Mr. Harrison's Favorite.

Ottumwa, Ia., Feb. 12.—J. M. Devine, brother-in-law of ex-President Harrison, states that General Harrison, though friendly to all candidates, is particularly friendly to Senator Allison, and that Messrs. Harrison, Michener and New will see to it that Indiana gives a part of its vote to Allison.

FALSEHOOD NAILED

The Fake Story of a New Base Ball Organization Is Denied.

Philadelphia, Feb. 12.—Messrs. Beach and Rogers, of the Philadelphia National League club, when seen today in regard to the story telegraphed from Reading about the formation of a new base ball league in which they were mentioned among the backers of the proposed new organization, denied that they had any idea of entering into the base ball business outside of the National League.

The proposed new association, the dispatch stated, was to include Philadelphia and Reading; but this, on its face, is impossible, as Reading is represented in the State League and Philadelphia in both the National and State leagues, which fact precludes the establishment of another club under the national agreement. President Hough, of the State League, has issued a call for a meeting of that body at the Hotel Hanover, in this city, on Monday next at 2 o'clock.

John Dillon Insinuates That Men in Parliament Are Not Above Suspicion.

London, Feb. 12.—In the course of the debate in the house of commons today on the address in reply to the queen's speech, John Dillon, nationalist, who sits for the east division of County Mayo, demanded that a statement be published showing the allotment of shares of the chartered companies, especially those of the British South African company. He said he made this demand because there was a widespread conviction that members of the press and men of prominence in the financial world and in parliament were not free from suspicion.

Sir Frederick Pollock, professor of jurisprudence in Oxford university, who has for many years been present to assist the preparation of Great Britain's case in the Venezuelan dispute, has completed his task, and the result of his work will be submitted to parliament next week, when concurrent statements intended to define the procedure for a settlement of the Venezuelan dispute will be presented in the house of lords by Lord Salisbury, and in the house of commons by Right Hon. George N. Curzon, parliamentary secretary for foreign affairs.

BOOM FOR PATTISON.

The Ex-Governor Will Receive the Votes of Pennsylvania's Democratic Delegation as Candidate for President.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 12.—There were about fifty persons present at the meeting of the Pennsylvania Democratic Delegation as candidates for President. Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 12.—There were about fifty persons present at the meeting of the Pennsylvania Democratic Delegation as candidates for President. Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 12.—There were about fifty persons present at the meeting of the Pennsylvania Democratic Delegation as candidates for President.

Resolved, That the Democratic state central committee recommend that the Democratic nomination be given to the name of ex-Governor Robert L. Pattison as that of the national convention for the presidency. In character, in ability, in official experience, in the faithful and fearless discharge of duty, in the respect of the people, because of his steadfast adherence to the cause of good government, and in the confidence of the Democratic party, he is the best qualified man for the office.

PROPOSED SLUGGING MATCH

Dugliss in the Show Business Create Anxiety in the States and Mexico While Waiting for Someone to Stop Their Fight.

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 12.—The situation thirty-six hours before the time originally set for the appearance of Fitzsimmons and Maher in the ring in nearly every respect a counterpart of the situation that greeted the meeting of Sullivan and Kilrain at Richburg in July of 1889.

The Texas and federal authorities and those of the adjoining Mexican states are apparently determined to prevent the mill as were the executives of Louisiana and Mississippi, Sunday, April 29, at the latter city, the promoters of the contest are just as cool and collected and going ahead with their arrangements with as much energy as old Bud Remond and his associates at New Orleans. There is no question but that they have carefully laid their plans and that they are confident of their ability to bring off the big fight at least.

Battle Ground Selected.

The battle ground has been finally selected. The arrangements for the transportation of the two pugilists, in detail, including the hour at which the tip is to be given to the ticket holders to rendezvous has been carefully planned and the promoters are confident that to be of the locality selected may be outwitted. As to the remaining details of the carnival everything depends upon the outcome of the fight. The fight managers admit that it will hardly be possible to bring the fight to the usual location and their ability to find safe locations is seriously doubted.

There is talk tonight that an effort would be made to elect the Everhardt-Lewis contest, but the managers would neither deny nor affirm. The prospect of a government renewed confidence to local people and visiting sports and bets are freely offered with no talkers, that the Australian and the Irishman will come together on schedule time.

FIERCE BATTLES IN CUBA.

Armed with Only Machetes the Patriots Rush Upon the Spanish Squares and Try in Vain to Break It—Their Losses Heavy.

Havana, Feb. 12.—A dispatch received here from Santa Clara, capital of the province of that name, from General Oliver, the Spanish commander in this district, announces that a heavy defeat was inflicted on the insurgents, under Soratin Sanchez and Mirabel, in the most important insurgent leaders of the province of Havana. The following details of the engagement have been received here: General Oliver, hearing that Serafin Sanchez and Mirabel, at the head of a numerous force of insurgents, were moving on Canajani, ordered Colonel Lopez, at the head of 800 cavalry and infantry, to leave Remedios, northeast of Canajani, where the troops were in garrison, and to engage them.

The Spanish troops met the advance guard of the insurgents at the head of Pal Prieto. The latter opened fire upon the troops as soon as the soldiers were well within range. For some time the Spaniards did not reply, wishing to get within better shooting distance before engaging the insurgents. When the Spanish column was well in front of the insurgents, Colonel Lopez ordered the attack to commence. This was done with effect, a sharp and well directed fire being kept up by the troops until the insurgents suddenly retreated upon its main body after having replied vigorously.

Harrassed by Sharpshooters.

The Spaniards continued to advance over difficult ground the insurgent sharpshooters kept up a harassing fire as they retreated. But when the troops reached a large open space of territory having high ground to the right they were met by the most deadly fire. The insurgents in strong force to the left and left of the troops and another body of the enemy, after ascending to the crest of a hill, opened a heavy fire, under Leoncio Vidal and Betancourt, moved upon Colonel Lopez's force in the center.

Colonel Lopez was thus in danger of being surrounded by a much superior and well armed force of insurgents. He ordered the troops to form square. This was done, but the enemy, under Leoncio Vidal and Betancourt, moved upon Colonel Lopez's force in the center.

The insurgents charged with the greatest courage, and after firing the troops, waving their machetes in the air and cheering for Cuba. Their first attack was repulsed, but they were not long in returning to the charge with the same gallantry. This time the insurgents reached almost up to the Spanish square. But once more they were driven back, this time in disorder. The insurgent leaders made another attempt to rally their forces and a small body of insurgent cavalry was led to attack for the third time. But when about a dozen of their horses had been shot down, throwing the whole force into confusion, the insurgents retreated for good after an hour's scattering fire which was severe enough to prevent the troops from pursuing the enemy.

When the Firing Closed.

It was not until 5 o'clock in the afternoon that firing ceased and fatigue parties were sent out to gather up the insurgent dead and wounded, while the Spanish cavalry pursued the retreating bodies of the enemy. The soldiers found forty-eight dead insurgents on the field, and it was estimated by fairly accurate count that the enemy carried away 130 wounded men, in addition to a number of their wounded who fell too close to the Spanish square to be taken to the rear.

The Spanish cavalry in pursuing the insurgents captured a number of country people, supposing them to have been engaged in the transport of arms of the enemy. The prisoners, after having been questioned by Colonel Lopez, were released. They say that the insurgents lost in the engagement estimated by the Spanish officers, as they saw a number of dead insurgents, apparently men of importance, being carried off by the insurgent cavalry. The country people also assert that the number of wounded carried off by the enemy was quite 200.

TRAFFIC OF THE SUEZ.

Signs That Great British's Oriental Trade Is Falling Off.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Last year the Suez Canal company's receipts were larger than ever, though the number of ships passing through the canal was eighteen less than during the preceding year. The increase in receipts is explained by the special traffic caused by the China-Japanese war and the Madagascar and Abyssinian campaigns.

As usual, Great Britain was the principal user of the great waterway, but United States Consul General Pentland says it is significant that she had forty-four fewer vessels than in the preceding year, while Germany, making a determined fight for natural trade, had eighty more, and the increase of ninety vessels in the French traffic cannot be explained by wars. Of 3,242 steamers passing through the canal, only four carried the United States flag.

OBSERVING LINCOLN DAY

The Event Celebrated at Chicago and Philadelphia.

SPEECHES FROM M'KINLEY

Ohio's Favorite Son Is Given an Ovation at Chicago—Lincoln's Ideas on Tariff—Celebration in the Quaker City.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Mingled with homage to the great emancipator, Abraham Lincoln, on the occasion of his eighty-seventh birthday anniversary, was a great Republican greeting tonight to the Republican leader from Ohio, William McKinley, at the tenth annual banquet of the Lincoln club, held in the banquet halls of the Auditorium hotel. More than 1,100 prominent Republican citizens of this and other cities listened to the address of the Ohio and Republicanism and made the event a memorable one politically by voicing their pent-up admiration for the Canton citizen as a presidential candidate.

Standing beneath a portrait of the martyred president, flanked and framed with the flag he died to preserve, Major McKinley faced a mass of his fellow Republicans to deliver a patriotic address to the memory of Lincoln, couched in eloquent and fervent language. Distinguished Americans in public life sat to the right and left of the chief orator, whose introduction was made the signal for an overwhelming outburst of applause. Every man before him rose to his feet as if an electric button had caused the movement, every man fluttered a piece of linen in the cigar smoke laden air and every man shouted or clapped his hands until the president's name was mentioned. The president's name was mentioned. The president's name was mentioned.

In his speech Governor McKinley said among other things: "Let me read to you the Lincoln platform on tariff, adopted on May 11, 1860, by the second Republican national convention. Here is what he said:

Resolved, That while proving revenue for the support of the general government by duties on imports is a necessary and laudable policy, it requires such an adjustment of these imports as to encourage the development of the national industry, to secure to our countrymen the most remunerative prices, to mechanics and manufacturers an adequate reward for their labor, and to secure to the nation commercial prosperity and independence.

Hotter protection, no Republican could ask. The Republican party is competent to carry this policy into effect. Wherever there is anything to be done for this country it is to the Republican party we must look to have it done. We are not opposed to any particular tariff law or laws, or for any special schedules or rates, but for the great principle—the American protective policy—the temporary overthrow of which has brought distress and ruin to every part of our beloved country."

Celebration at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Feb. 12.—The anniversary of the birthday of Lincoln was observed here tonight by two Republican organizations—one of the Lincoln club, of the Union League club, which is composed of members of the party of twenty-five years' standing, and the others the Young Republicans of Philadelphia. The observation of the anniversary of the natal day was in the usual form of a dinner and both organizations sat down to crowded tables. At the Union League ex-Congressman Benjamin Butterworth, of Ohio, was the principal speaker, and he responded to the toast of "Lincoln."

The Young Republican dinner was held at the Manufacturers' club, and Congressman W. B. Barrett, of Massachusetts, defined to the evident satisfaction of his auditors "the issues of 1896."

EDISON'S EXPERIMENTS.

New Discoveries Are Made by Aid of the Vacuum Tubes.

Orange, N. J., Feb. 12.—Although Thomas A. Edison is not yet ready to take a photograph of a human brain by means of his newly discovered vacuum tubes, nevertheless he has continued to pursue his experiments with the force in many directions at his laboratory here. Today he tested the distance of penetration of the X rays through a funnel eight feet long. The result was not satisfactory after forty-five minutes exposure, but he says that he will make another attempt at a greater exposure in the near future.

Mr. Edison has discovered the interesting fact that aluminum electrodes after being in use a short time become hardened or tempered, so that while at first they are so soft that they can easily be bent, after a few hours use they become so hard that it is impossible to bend them even with the use of great force. Mr. Edison thinks that the hardening is caused by some part of the material becoming separated from the aluminum and are projected through the interstitial molecular spaces in the glass. He thinks that the discovery may mean that aluminum is not a simple but a compound compound.

Mr. Edison in the course of his experiments today discovered that a tube of low vacuum after being used for some time got a high vacuum, and the process being continued all the residual disappeared. This, he thinks, was caused by decomposition of the molecules in the air, and that the oxygen uniting with the aluminum electrodes, caused hydrogen to be projected through the interstitial molecular spaces of the glass.

Will Attend Mr. Sisson's Funeral.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 12.—The department of agriculture was today notified of the death of A. C. Sisson of Factoryville, a member of the state board of agriculture, whose term would have expired in 1897. Mr. Sisson was an active member of the board and was especially prominent in legislative work. Representatives of the department will attend the funeral.
