CLASS B ABOLISHED.

Obliged to Pose as Amateurs or Professionals on the Race Tracks.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 12.—In conse-quence of today's action by the League of American Wheelmen convention there are now but two classes of bi-cycling racing men. Class B, generally known as pro-amateurs, is wiped out of existence. There are 573 of this class of riders, all of whom will be given the option either of becoming amateurs or of accepting professional-ism. This definitely settles an agitation that has been in progress among wheelmen for years and has taken a most prominent part in their affairs ever since the sport was known. Class B. which is now abolished, was a middle ground between amateurism and professionalism, and was adopted by the bicyclers' body at the suggestion of Howard B. Raymond, of Brooklyn, then chairman of the national racing board at the convention in Louisville in 1893, at the convention in Louisville in 1893, it having previously been withdrawn at the convention in New York the

at the convention in New York the year previous.

When cycling began to assume its present wide field for profitable investment, competition demanded advertisement. It was found by the makers that if they could get fast racing men to ride their wheels it aided greatly in the ride and a some of the guilless asthe sales, as some of the guildless as-surned that it was the wheel and not the man that won the races. The repu-tation of the great manufacturers of this country and England were builded on that basis. The competition then became keen among the makers for the services of the flyers and the rewards to them reached large propor-tion, and thus started the scandal of bicycling racing which has been wiped out today. There has been growing for years a sentiment to class these men as professionals and today's action is a fruition of that agitation. The immediate result of the action is to re-move the cloak of amateurism from professionals.

The Decision Unexpected. The agitation which led up to the decision was most unexpected. Amendments to the constitution and by-laws were under consideration and several having a bearing upon class B had been adopted without an effort in the direction of abolishing the class. In the discussion of a proposed amendment offered by Chairman Gideon, of the racing board, several amendments to the amendment were made, until finally Albert Mott, of Baltimore, made a motion to strike out all reference to class B and to make a fiew heading in the constitution of "professional." The suggestion was debated with grow-The agitation which led up to the dein the constitution of "professional," The suggestion was debated with growing excitement until the convention was in an uproar. The unanimity of the sentiment in favor of abolishing the B class was unexpectedly pronounced. Cries of "vote" came from all parts of the hall, and Fir. Mott's all parts of the hall, and Fir. tion was carried almost unanimous-Three cheers were given when the result was announced.

PANIC AT A DANCE.

Wild Alarm Is Raised by the Cry of

Pittsburg, Pat, Feb. 12.—Late last night while a dance was in progress in Elsingham hall, at Ranksville, a mining hamlet near Pittsburg, an alarm of fire was raised, and immediately the hall filled with smoke. The hall occupies the second floor of an old frame structure, which at best is a very rickety affair. A panic resulted, and for a time the battle for safety was frightful. In the rush to the windows and doors a number of ladies fainted, while other were knocked down and trampled under foot. Several persons jumped from the windows and the escape of the 200 or more people from a horrible death was narrow.

The flames under the building were soon extinguished, Several people were considerably bruished, but no one sustained serious injury.

Senator Hawley Objects to Making Lincoln's Birthday a Legal Holiday.

THE BIG GUNS ON COINAGE

Senate's Substitute for the House Bond Bill-A Scheme to Survey Alaska's Boundaries.

Washington, Geb. 12.—The birthday of Abraham Lincoln, this 12th day of February, would have been added to the list of American holdays, so far as the action of the senate could do so, had it not been for a single objection.

A bill for that surgeous which had been had it not been for a single objection. A bill for that purpose which had been introduced some time ago by Mr. Hansbrough (Rep., N. D.) was today reported by him from the committee on the library; and just as the senate was on the eve of adjournment, it occurred to Mr. Hale (Rep., Me.) that it would be a fitting and graceful thing to pass the bill today, and he asked unanimous consent to have that done. Mr. Hill (Dem., N. Y.) had contemplated offering an amendment to the bill adding Jackson's birthday (January 8) also to the list of national holidays, but under the peculiar circumstances he said he would withhold such amendment. Mr. Hawley (Rep., Conn.) interposed an objection that there was danger of running to an extreme on this quesrunning to an extreme on this ques-tion, like some countries where there were so many saints' days that the people were seriously deprived of op-portunities to work, Abiliforamemorial bridge across the up and some progress made in it.

Big Guns on Coinage. Several big guns were fired in the financial debate in the house today, and the proceedings were among the most interesting of the protracted discussion. Messrs. Dolliver, (Rep., In.), and McMillin, (Dem., Tenn.), of the committee on ways and means, respectively opposed and advocated the sentate's free colorage substitute for the tively opposed and advocated the sen-ate's free coinage substitute for the house bond bill. Mr. McCleary, (Rep., Minn.), with a series of charts and dia-grams, replied to the argument of his colleague, Mr. Town, in favor of the free coinage of silver, made last Sat-urday. Mr. Brosius, (Rep., Pa.), joined these two in opposition to the senate substitute, while Messrs. Bailey, (Dem., Tex.); Underwood, (Dem., Ala.), and Cox. (Dem., Ten.), joined Mr. Mc-Millin in favor of free coinage. Mr. Brum, (Rep., Pa.), advocated the Morrill amendment, which he said he would offer.

The senate joint resolution appropriating $75,000 to pay the joint ex-penses of the survey of the boundary line between Alaska and the British North American possessions, was re-ported from the committee on appro-priations and passed. A recess was taken until 8 o'clock to further dis-

RAILROAD NOTES.

The head of one of the anthracite coal roads says: "The forthcoming inrestigation of the coal combination by the legislative committee will for one thing show that there would be no reason for an advance in the retail prices even though the tidewater prices of the companies should be advanced at a tor. It is the middlemen who $1 a ton. It is the middlemen who would be responsible for any increase in the cost of coal to actual consumers. The middlemen are the ones who have if they put up the price on consumers the companies will probably combine to wipe them out. With an end to the warfare mong the companies there will be no need for their services in marketing coal."

The east bound shipments from Chicago last week were $0.078 tons, against

The east bound shipments from Chicago last week were 80,078 tons, against 61,522 tons the corresponding week last year. Of the total, the Michigan Central carried 8,463 tons; Wabash, 7,462; Lake Shore, 8,616; Fort Wayne, 8,899; Pan Handle, 5,704; Baltimore and Ohio, 6,815; Chicago and Grand Trunk, 9,472; Nickei Plate, 7,225; Chicago and Erie, 14,206; and the Big Four, 3,466 tons.

The report of the Kansas Railroad commissioners for the year 1895 shows commissioners for the year 1895 makes the total income of the year show a net decrease as compared with the preceding year of nearly $10,000,000, while the operating expenses were reduced less than $6,000,000. Only two of twenty-six roads making reports to the board paid a dividend, and there were very small. Thirteen of the twentysmall. Thirteen of the twenty-when locomotives were first built and began to trundle their small loads up and down the newly and rudely constructed railways of England, the public roads were, for the greatest part, crossed at grade, and the engine driver crossed at grade, and the engine driver had no way of giving warning of his approach except by blowing a tin horn. But this, as may be imagined, was far from being a sufficient warning. One day in the year 1833, so runs a story of the gigin of the locomotive whistle, a farmer of Thornton was crossing the railway track on one of the country roads with a great load of eggs and butter. Just as he came upon the track report of the Fifth anthracite district the folowing statistics are gleaned:

For 1895 there were 59 fatal and 85 non-fatal accidents out of 19,981 employes; average number of employes to each casuality was 139; number of tons of coal mined to each fatal casuality, 124,828; number of tons to each non-fatal accident, 84,292. Ratio of tons of coal to each accident, fatal and non-fatal, 121,350.

Number of tons mined to each employe, 359, total number of tons of coal mined, 184,895. of butter, his 960 eggs, his horse and his wagon. It was regarded as a very serious matter, and straight away a di-rector of the company went to Atton Gragne, where George Stephenson lived, to see if he could not invent something that would give a warning more likely to be heard. Stephenson went to work, and the next day had a contrivance, which, when attached to the engine boiler and the steam turned on, gave out a shrill, discordant sound. The rallway directors, greatly delighted, ordered similar contrivances to be attached to all the locomotives, and from that day to this the voice of the loco-motive whistle has never been silent.
