Bishop Andrews preached from John iv:24 and emphasized the Irrationality of considering God in any other way than as a spirit. God as a material being, he pointed out, would be as power-less as man, in that the presence and purposes of the Almighty would be apparent and His control over man and His works would be evaded. The statement of the board of trustees was read by the secretary, F. D. Stevens, and was as follows: Building expense, $10,740.38; subscriptions, $4,-207.50; sale of old effects, $223.25; total resource, $4,430.75; amount to be raised, $6,309.63. After this statement had been made, Dr. Hard proceeded in an unique way to obtain pledges for the latter sum. He used a large blackboard which he covered with a large number of figures representing $250, $200, $150, $100, $50, etc., and then called for pledges. As rapidly as the pledges were made Dr. Hard wiped a corresponding sum from the blackboard and in about an hour a little less than $3,000 had been pledged, and in the evening more pledges were publicly and privately made to reduce the building ind-bt-

FOUR DIVORCES GRANTED.

Persons for Whom Marriage Was Failure, Legally Separated

Four divorces were granted yester-day by the court. John Chase was re-leased from the matrimonial bond he contracted with Emily G. Chase in Iowa eight years ago. In 1890 they came to this part of the country and settled in La Plume borough. Mrs. Chase did not like the scenery and wanted to go back; She was informed that she could go alone and acting on the advice she left Chase on July 11, 1892, and has remained away ever since.

Harry S. Bolton and Nellie C. Bolton were divorced. They were married on June 25, 1891, by Rev Charles Lee at Honesdale. On Nov. 10 last Mrs. Bolton absented herself from home and stayed away over night. Her husband learned that she was in male company and that she occupied the same room with another man at Honesdale that he refused to live with her. She now lives at White Mills and he resides in Carbondale.

Amelia Underhill, who was married to Arthur Underhill at Philadelphia in Jan., 1831, was divorced on the ground Jan. 1831, was divorced on the ground of cruelty and desertion. Her home now is in Wilkes-Barre with her mother and he lives in Denver or Chicago. Five years ago her mother took her to Philadelphia on a visit and while there she was led to the aitar by Underhill. GIGANTIC DEAL IS Scranton Capitalists Have Formed a Big Water Company Syndicate.

ABOUT $2,000,000 INVOLVED

. A. Watres, Lemuel Amerman, C. D Simpson, T. H. Watkins, William Connell and E. I., Fuller in the Deal. Pure Water for Wilkes-Barre.

A gigantic water company deal involving nearly $2,000,000, in which well volving hearry $2,000,000, in which well known Scranton capitalists are inter-ested, was given publicity yesterday in a dispatch from Wilkes-Barre to the Philadelphia Press. The main facts in the matter were confirmed by a Tribune reporter yesterday. The Wilkes-Barre dispatch says:

dispatch says: "The water situation has taken a new turn and bids fair to now reach a new turn and bids fair to now reach a speedy termination. Today the fact was made known that a party of Scranton capitalists composed of ex-Lieutenant Governor Louis Wattres,, ex-Congressman Lemuel Amerman, Clarence D. Simpson, Thomas H. Watkins, Edward L. Fuller and William Connell have bought the plant of the Crystal Spring Water company from Crystal Spring Water company from the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal company and the Spring Brook Water company and the Spring Brook Water company, which was owned by Abram Neshit, the heirs of L. D. Shoemaker and Messrs. Watres, Amerman, and the first payment has been made upon this deal. The crice raid is not disclosed, as only a few parties are concerned and the deal has been kept very quiet. The Scranton syndicate also have an option of a majority of the stock of the Wilkes-Barre Water company.

Requires Two Million Dollars. Requires Two Millon Bollars.

"The large amount of money necessary to carry out this deal may be gathered from a statement of the capitalization of these several companies. The Spring Brook company is capitalized at $60,000, with a bonded indebtedness of $300,000, or a total of $900,000. The Wilkes-Barre Water company has a capital stock of $440,000, which at $55 a share would amount to $572,000. To this add $90,000 bonded indebtedness and a floating debt of shout $200,000. this add $50,000 bonded indebtedness and a floating debt of about $200,000, making a total valuation of $52,000 for the latter company. While the sale price of the Crystal Spring company is not disclosed it is probably not less than $250,000, which would make a total purchase price for the three companies in round numbers of $2,000,000.

"The plans of the new consolidation are not fully disclosed; it is doubtful if they themselves have fully determined them. They are said upon good authority to involve new and large reservoirs in the Spring Brook water shed which will furnish a bountiful supply which will furnish a bountiful supply of pure, soft water, which it is believed will prove sufficient for the growth of the valley for many years to come. It is said that the water rates will not be advanced." Plans of the Company

In only one particular is the forego-ing incorrect—neither Mr. Fuller nor Mr. Connell are yet directly interested in the venture, although it is probable that they will be.

The plans of the syndicate have not yet been outlined in detail, but it has been learned that the success to be de-rived from the venture is based on the present impure supply of water furpresent impure supply of water fur-nished Wilkes-Barre and suburbs by the Crystal and Wilkes-Barre companies. It is intended to build large stor-age reservoirs along the waterways of the Spring Brook company and from these reservoirs to run a large main to connect with the pipes of the other two companies in and around Wilkes-Barre. At present the Crystal company fur-nishes water to the elevated territory and the Wilkes-Barre company supplies the localities of less altitude. The three companies now cover the entire valley from Moosic to Kingston.
