WEST SIDE EVENTS.

Marriage of Miss Amanda Dorsey of Meridian Street to James G. Watkins by Rev. W. H. Pearce, D. D.

Miss Amanda Dorsey, of 314 Meridian street, and James G. Watkins, of this side, were married at 8.30 o'clock last evening at the bride's home by Rev. evening at the bride's home by Rev. W. H. Pearce, D. D., of the Eim Park church. The wedding was witnessed by many friends of the young people. Miss Myrtle Dorsey and Miss Sarah Brace acted as bridesmalds and Roland Thomas and Charles Thorn stood up for the groom. The bride was attired in navy blue with garnet trimmings and carried roses. Pink and blue were the dresses of the maids. Miss Etta Dunkerly played Lohengrin's wedding march as the bridal party entered the front parlor, where, under an arch of front parlor, where, under an arch of green, the ceremony was performed.
A reception was held afterward, at wich the friends enjoyed themselves.
M, and Mrs. Watkins will reside at 227
B omley avenue.

Leap Year Social Last Night.

A leap year social, which developed some highly entertaining features, was conducted last evening in the Plymouth Congregational church. Here is the novel part: A sheet of canvass was stretched across the stage like a curtain. On this canvass was printed a musical scale with a full octave of notes. In place of the heavy part of each particular note there was a small opening and from these openings peeped the faces of eight of the young ladles of the church. Mrs. J. Davis explained the scale in a clever way. Then several songs were sung, the different young ladies singing their respective notes in the piece. It was a novel and unusually good entertainment.

For the Miners' Hospital.

It has been suggested that the enterprising young people of this side, who contributed so much toward the suc-cess of the Fete Champetre, should ar-range a similar benefit for the West Side. hospital. A meeting of those interested will be held next week. The nature of the benefit has not been decided upon but it will probably be of a dramatic nature and will be given in the latter part of March.

BASE BALL GOSSIP.

It is rumored that "Kid" Leewe is to be released by Buffalo. The final practice game of the Bostons will be with the Springfields. Two Louisville pitchers, McFarland and Hermann, have been farmed out Rochester,

The local club will have no dearth of pitching material this year, as seven pitchers are under contract, as follows: McPartian, Dinnen, Dunn, Dean, Moran, Barrett and Staley.

Barrett and Staley.

The champion season of the Atlantic base hall league will begin on Saturday. April 18, and consist of 120 games, sixty to be played at home and sixty abroad. This will necessitate four trips, each club playing three games on each trip.

quets and theater parties follow each other in rapid succession, and the player, surfelled with pleasure, at last breaks down and purs his signature to the contract. This has been the plan adopted by Hanlon in the case of Doyle, and by Irwin in the case of Gleuson. Those two graceful bluffers, Kid Gleason and Jack Doyle, have laid down their hands. Gleason has accepted the New Yorw terms and Doyle is now an Oriole.

is now an Oriole.

The Syracuse Courier man rises to remark that "Wilkes-Barre and Scranton are apparently flirting with farmers while golden time flies by" and that "good players have not been signed by either of the Pennsylvania teams." It is unfortunate that the Syracuse man is not able to glorify his own town by some kind of roseate information. Any baseball writer who considers himself sufficiently competent to dub as "formers" a team of players of which he knows nothing is very near an unmitigated ass. Scranton's owners have spared neither time, trouble nor money in getting together the best lot of young players possible, and it seems a little premature to call them "farmers." When Vondunierbilized Kun'zsch's and the other teams of the leavue show themselves capable of leading Scranton in the race, it will be time to talk of "farmers," and as far an Wilkes-Barre is cancerned, it would be well for the Syracuse man to scratch his head and think of the season of 1997. scratch his head and think of the sea tie Hughes rendered a recitation and the orchestra played another selection. The members of the division in full uniform took the floor then and under command of Captain Brown executed some fine drill work, receiving frequent applause for the showing made. Just as the inspection was about to begin, O. S. Ridgeway made the presentation of the sword. It was received with heartfelt remarks by the captain.

Dancing was the order of exercises until 2 a. m. Music was furnished by heartfallings, a cochestra, with Professor. Berghauser's orchestra with Professor Karl Rudolf Saft at the plane. The committee in charge consisted of O. S. Ridgeway, Charles De Wight, C. Robin-son, C. H. Weber, and George Shafer.

THE MODERN SAMSON.

Wonderful Feats of Strength of Sandow at the Frothingham.

The great Sandow, the marvel of the age, gave one of his wonderful exhibitions at the Frothingham last night. How so much strength can be stored in such a comparatively small form is past understanding. Last night San-dow toyed with 56-pound dumb bells. Bited 99-pound balls with his little fitted 30-bound talls with his little ingers and shoved a 200-bound bell up with one hand. He concluded his ex-hibition by sustaining a weight of 2,000 bounds on his chest. Before lifting any of the weights Sandow stripped to the waist, was placed under a strong light which enabled the audience to see the wonderful development of muscles in his back, arms, shoulders and chest. Sandow was not the only good fea-ture of the entertainment. He was preceded by Drame, the juggler, Kaufman, the king of trick bicycle riders; the inimitable Billy Van, in dialogue; the two Bostons, eccentric comedians, and the Lucifers. Perhaps the greatest exhibition of high kicking ever seen in the city was given by Mr. Lucifer. He also did some very clever acrobatic

The information on which the war-rant was issued was made by John T. Porter, president of the bank. It re-cites that A. B. Williams was eashier of the bank for five years and particu-larly during the year 1895 and one month of 1896, during which time he, wrongfully and without the knowledge or consent of the directors or officials of the bank converted to his own use of the bank, converted to his own use or embezzled $25,000 of the bank's funds. The directorate of the bank gives out the statement that the arrest was made simply to punish the embezzling cashier and not because it is expected to aid them in any way to secure a reimburse-ment of the bank's lose. On that score there is no uneasiners, as the Fidelity and Casualty company of New York, which is on Williams' bond, must make good the defalcation. The directors consulted and took outside counsel on the matter and come to the conselsion the matter and came to the conclusion that they were morally obligated to in-stitute criminal proceedings against the Suit Between Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co. and Spring Brook Lumber Co Attorney Charles L. Hawley, before whom as master in chancery, the equity suit of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company against the Spring Brook Lumber company was heard, has filed a report which has been excepted to by Attorneys Warren and Knam, for the Attorneys Warren and Knapp for the complainant and Attorney S. B. Price for the defendant. The suit was about a mortgage of $15,000 that, with interest amounted to $19,336.78. The mortgage was given in 1874 by the Spring Brook Railroad company to the complainant, and in 1882 the latter was about to foreclose it. To restrain the foreclosure of the mortgage the injunction was applied for.

Mr. Hawley decides that the Lehigh company should be restrained from selling out the road to collect the mortgage and his computations concerning the account of indebtedness set forth that the Spring Brook Lumber company is indebted to the Lehigh company up to Jan. 1, 1892, only in the sum of $11,217. 34. He makes allowance for freight hauled over the road by the mortgage to reduce the original debt. The road over which the dispute is is ten miles long and runs from Moosic to the lumber region south.
