COYNE ENTERED A PROTEST

laimed That as Forn's Election as Supervisor Was Contested IIe IIad No Right to Act-Matter Will Bo Called to Attention of Court-

When the auditors of Lackawanna township assembled yesterday afternoon to organize for the present year and to swear in two new supervisors, Patrick Coyne was present to insist against the qualification of William H.
Fern, pending the contest which has been instituted in court, and notice of which was served upon the auditors which was served upon the auditors by Constable Michael Thornton.

Mr. Coyne was one of the outgoing supervisors and he was defeated for resupervisors and he was detected for re-election by Mr. Fern, by six votes, but as stated, the election has been con-tested. Attorneys C. C. Donovan and M. J. Donahoe, who represent Mr. Coyne, hold that while a contest is pending, the incumbent holds over, ex-cept in offices commissioned by the gov-

The board of auditors as it is now made up consists of Michael Hogan, Eugene Driscoll and Michael Cusick. M. J. Engan is township clerk. Cusick and Driscoll were present at 3 o'clock, the time fixed for the meeting, but Hogan was absent. The two supervisors-clect, James Ward and Mr. Fern, were present, the latter being represented by Attorney Charles E. Olver, of this city.

NEW MEMBER OF THE BOARD. Mr. Driscoll is a new member of the board, succeeding P. J. Foley, of Green-wood, and he was in favor of waiting until Hogan put in an appearance. Cusick wanted to go on, there being a majority of the board present, but Mr. Eagan, the clerk, advised a continuance until Hogan came at 7 o'clock in the evening. He had sent word that he ould not be around before then.

Attorney Olver was given the floor and argued that Mr. Fern should be ewern in, that he had his certificate of tion and his bonds and was right ully entitled to the seat. Cusick took he law into his own hands and admin-stered the eath to Ward and Fern, despite the protest of Messrs, Driscoll and Eagan. He went on and received the bonds. Messrs, Driscoll and Egan refused to take any hand in the proceed-ing at all. Mr. Egan refused to take any minutes and thus ended the mat-

INSPECTING

Major W. S. Millar Has Entered Upon His Big Task.

BEGAN WITH THE THIRTEENTH

Companies A and B Were Reviewed and Examined by Inspecting Officer Last Night-Companies C. and D Will Go Through Their Paces Tonight

In the armory on Adams avenue last night a large crowd witnessed the in-spection of companies A and B. Thirteenth regiment, by Major W. S. Mil-lar, inspector of the Third brigade, which, in addition to the Thirteenth. includes the Fourth, Eighth, Ninth and Twelfth regiments. It was the first of the annual spring inspections and was attended by an apparent proficiency which must have gratified Colonel H. A. Coursen, commander of the regi-ment, who, with his staff, witnessed the affair.

Since the winter drill season opened the officers and men have been filled with the purpose of so perfecting them-selves that the bast enviable rank of the regiment would at least be maintained and possibly bettered. This spirit was so prevalent that from the colonel down to the rawest of raw recruits the regiment was as a unit. Week before last the preliminary, or regimental inspections, were finished and everything pointed toward splendid results from the ordeal which began with Companies A and B last night.

PRELIMINARIES OF INSPECTION. The orders directed the company ommanders to have their men in readiness at 7.30 o'clock, but it was fully a half-hour later before Major Millar. accompanied by his orderly, First Ser-geant Scott, of Company B, finished participating in a transfer of papers and other formalities in the headquar-ters room. Company A was in readiness when the headquarters party reached the drill floor and was the cynosure of maybe fifty ladies in the gailery and three times that many of men on the drill floor. Attending Colonel Coursen were the following of the field and staff: Lieutenant Colonel C. held and staff: Lieutenant Colonel C.
C. Mattes, Major Barnard, of the Second battalion; Lieutenant L. T. Mattes, regimental adjutant; Lieutenant Tracy, quartermaster; Lieutenant R. M. Stratton, adjutant of the Second battalion; Sergeant Major Rice, Second battalion; Chief Musician Edward D. Richards, Sergeant Major Harry Coursess and Headquarters, Clerk Joseph sen and Headquarters Clerk Joseph Davis. The colonel and party took no part in the inspection other than as witnesses.

In command of Company A were Captain F. W. Stillwell, First Lieutenant James O. Dimmick and Second Lieutenant S. S. Derman. The roll call revealed a 100 per cent, attendance. What followed in drill, marching, setting-up exercises, etc., gave the spector his material for judging the company in school of the soldier, school of the company, extended order, guard duty, condition of arms, equipment and fit of clothing. Much of the detail work such as accounting for knapsacks, overcoats, canteens and the like was performed by the inspector's orderly. What the men had to undergo may be imagined from the fact that for an hour each company was kept steadily at work, and ordered to do pretty near everything from gymnastic exercises to guard duty and all else that would serve as a test of knowledge and ef-

COMPANY B'S INSPECTION. Company B was in command of Cap-tain J. W. Kamback and First Lieutenant John Sample, and was inspected beginning at 9 o'clock. Heretofore the spring inspection has included headquarters, and the field and staff, but these will hereafter be inspected in camp teenth will be inspected as follows:

Companies C and D. tonight; Company E. Wednesday at Honesdale; Company H. Thursday in the Providence armory; 'ompany G. Friday at Montrose; Com company G. Friday at Montrose; Com-pany F. Saturday on the West Side. Then Major Millar will tour down the state and inspect in turn the Fourth regiment, headquarters at Allentown; the Ninth, headquarters at Harrisburg, and the Twelfth, headquarters at Williamsport.

TO AMEND THE LAWS.

Scranton Will Be Represented at the Municipal Convention in Reading. Mayor Connell yesterday approved the resolution accepting the invitation to the convention of cities of the third class to be held in Reading next week, beginning March 11. This convention proposes to bring together representa-tives of the cities of this class in Penn-sylvania and to draft amendments to the act of 1889, or to frame an entirely new act for presentation to the next ses-sion of the legislature. H. H. Hammer, city clerk of Reading, who has the ar-rangements for the convention in charge, announces that twenty-five cities will be represented, and that 100 or more delegates will be in attend-

This city intends to send six delegates, and will select them next Thursday night at a joint session of councils, which will precede the separate meet-ings of the two branches scheduled for that night. It is likely that the mayor, city solicitor and city clerk with three councilmen will represent this city.

WEATHER IN FEBRUARY. Contained the Warmest and Coldest Day in Five Years. The February report of Local Weather Observer H. E. Paine records the curious fact that the month contained the coldest day in any February for five years back and one of the warmest February days on record.

On the seventeenth the thermometer registered 14 degrees below zero and on one day was 52 degrees above, the average for the month being 27 degrees. The rain and melted snow combined amounted to four inches or double that of January. This is in part explained by the 11% inches of snowfall which was three times the amount in uary. The greatest rainfall in any times the amount in Janday was 14 inches on the sixth of the

WORKING FOR THE MISSION.

Executive Committee Heard Encouraging Reports at Monthly Meeting. The regular monthly meeting of the Rescue mission executive committee was held yesterday afternoon in the mission building on Franklin avenue. The report of W. J. Hand, treasurer, showed that the current bills are paid to do to and that the reported is bright. to date and that the prospect is bright for at least keeping up with the expenses and of possibly reducing the de-ficiency of last year.

Letters indorsing the mission and its work were read from many city pas-tors, among whom were the following: Revs. Foster U. Gift, G. L. Aldrich, G. T. Price, G. E. Guild, Dr. James Mc-Leod, Dr. W. H. Pearce and Dr. C. E.

The Man Who Was Injured Last Friday

at the Lender Annex. James Leonard, of Ninth street, who was dangerously injured last Friday afternoon in the basement of the addition to the Leader building, is pro-gressing very well at the Lackawana. hospital, where the operation on him proved successful, it is hoped, by the doctors.

He was injured by a heavy load o bricks and timber falling on him. At first it was thought his spinal column was fractured, but a later diagnosis re-venled that the vertebrae were only dis-located, and he is now resting comfortably. The doctors think that he will recover completely, but it may take a long time, as such cases are slow.

EVIDENCE PILING UP.

Many Persons Want to Give Testimony Against the Constables The warrants for the arrest of Deputy Constable P. F. Ryan and James Clark were not served yesterday, as the at-torney who is to prosecute the case for the Smith woman asked to have the hearing delayed in order that he might have time to get his evidence in shape. Fresh evidence to support the charge of extortion against the men came to light yesterday, and some of the new evidence implicates two other con-stables. When it became known about town that the prosecution of Ryan and Clark was on, a whole flock of people who claim to have had dealings with them, came forward to offer themselves as witnesses.

One woman who appeared before Alderman Miliar yesterday stated that one of the officers visited her place about three weeks ago and tried to in-timidate her, but she drove him out with an axe. Lottie Smith also told that the second time she was arrested. the warrant was served by Constable Hennigan, of the Fifth ward. He want-ed to take her to Alderman Millett's court, but she refused to go, claiming the privilege of going anywhere she desired to enter bail. After much reluct-ance the constable agreed to accom-oany her to Alderman Millar's office On the way thither she told Hennigan that she knew it was only a case of blackmall that was being attempted upon her, and claims she su buying the warrant for $3 and secured her liberty. Other constables and a private detective are also mixed up in the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir:—Allow me space in your columns to say that the statement made in your issue of March 2 is not true in all its details. I did have a warrant issued for Lotta Smith and gave it to Constable Hemigan to serve, something he did not do. I never was hired by any sood-looking man to receiver $117 and defy any one on earth to say so. After all that has been said in the newspapers, I defy one of the class mentioned to say they paid me one dollar illegitimately. How Oysters Grow. llow Orsters Grow.

Dr. Shucorn says that the oyster, at the commencement of its career, is so small that 2,000,000 million would only occupy a cubic lach. In six months each separate oyster is large enough to cover half a dollar, and in twelve months a sliver dollar. It bears its age upon its back, and it is as easy to tell the age of an oyster by looking at its shell as 't is that of horses by looking at their teet's.

MR. COYNE WAS SATISFIED

Learned That Fenders Are Not Constructed Entirely of Rubber.

HE MADE A PRACTICAL TEST

To Decide a Wager He Stood on the Track and Allowed an Electric Car to kun Him Down with Painful Results.

Michael Coyne, of Minooka, is certainly a brave man. He resides on a back street of the place, but there are many Michael Coynes in Minook: that it is necessary to explain who this particular person is. He is below the usual height, but is well built and has every appearance of being solid and A few days ago Mr. Coyne and several friends were partaking of some good cheer in a hotel in Minooka. The conversation was first on this subject and then that; but it eventually drifted around to an argument as to the practicability of the street car fenders in lowering the death rate among that class of persons who take chances on crossing the tracks ahead of an apreaching car.

Mr. Coyne argued in favor of the fender; he said it was a good thing and the man who invented it is entitled to a granite shaft above his grave when he dies. He did not maintain that it was an ornament on the car, but with much emphasis he contended that it was a life and limb saver.

SAID IT WAS RUBBER. Among other things he said it was made of rubber. Issue was taken with him on this assertion, but he was willing to back up what he said, and he laid down a government note for any one in the crowd to cover; any person who was willing to bet that the fenders were not made of rubber. He was told to put his money in his pocket, but he kept on insisting that he was correct, until finally some one laid down an amount equal to the hote and the money was given to a stakeholder.

The next question was to agree on some one to decide. Coyne said he'd decide it. They asked him how and he shook his head knowingly. "Never mind," he said, "leave it to me."

THE WAY HE DID IT. He walked out on the street, looked up and down the track, and then beckoned them to come out. They came and they saw a street car wheeling along at the rate of fifteen miles an hour. Before they knew what Coyne was up to, he stepped to the middle of the track, it was too late for the motor-man to reduce the speed, and the fender struck the scientist such a terrific stroke that the impact drove him of the length of a lot. When they picked him up his face was furrowed with cuts deep and long, but he admitted that the fender was not made of rubber. THANKS FOR DONATIONS.
