"DOC" ROBINSON DEAD.

The End Comes This Morning After a Long Illness. At 10 o'clock yesterday morning Thomas Miner Robinson, one of the oldest and best-known residents of this city, passed away at his home, 54 North Fell street. He had been confined to his bed for several months with dropsy and erysipelas and the efforts of the attending physicians could not stay the progress of the diseases. The past few days he had been worse than usual and sank steadily until his death this morning. The end was peaceful.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

Mule Killed, Wagon Demoltshed and Driver Slightly Bruised.

James Hunsinger, of Stull, had a thrilling experience and an almost miraculous escape from death at Mitchell's crossing, near Tunkhannock, l'uesday. He was driving a team along the turnpike and as he was crossing the Harvey's Creek railroad, a train dashed along unperceived by Hunsinger. The locomotive crashed into Hunsinger and his turn-out, killed one mule outright, smashed the rig into smithereens and hurled Hunsinger a distance of twenty-five feet. He was badly bruised, but, strange to relate he did not sustain even one broken bone. The killed mule was one of the famous road mules of that locality and was entered at the recent Wyoning county fair.

FOR A STARVING FAMILY.

Lumber Boys Give of Their Scanty Larnings for Food and Clothes

Mecosta, Mich., March 5.-A terrible scene of destitution was found not far from Hughes' lumber camp, in this county. John Cibbs had been trying to support his large family cutting posts for 75 cents a day, but work has been slack. One of the humber boys, passing Cibbs' house, saw little children huddled together on the old floor, dressed in flour sacks, without shees or stockings. Mrs. Gibbs had hardly enough to cover her nerson, and rags pinned on her feet served as shoes. The children's clothes had to be pinned together, because there was no thread in the house and no money to buy it with. Several of the rough, bighearted lumber boys, themselves earn-ing only 75 cents a day, got up a subscription of $25, filled a wagon with provisions and with clothes for all the family, even the baby. There is a happy family in Mecosta county now.
