WEST SIDE EVENTS.

Three Covered Assault and Battery Case Heard Before Alderman Blair.

Origin of the Trouble.

Thomas Stone is a much prosecuted man; so also is James Casey, the man with the "box-car" fender. These two worthies met last Friday and the air immediately became black and blue. So did Casey's optics. Stone pelted Casey and in vain Casey fended the blows. Then Casey came at the bat. He hit Stone a base hit it was, and in a like manner Stone again fell upon Casey and broke his (Casey's) crutch. Casey caused a warrant to be issued and the hearing was held in Alderman Blair's office last evening, after Constable Timothy Jones had picked up Stone, who lives on Luzerne street.

The charge was assault and battery and Casey's charge was $15 for the dismembered crutch. The alderman held Stone in $300 bail to appear before a higher court. But Stone did not yet have his fling. There was another charge against him. It seems that after his success with the "Wizard of Hyde Park" Stone had entered the show requiring show one, Isabel Kull, on Luzerne street and attacked the member of soles. Kull was badly waxed and sought the law and again Stone was charged with assault and battery. The hearing followed the Casey-Stone auditory. Stone was again held in $300 bail. In return he caused the arrest of Kull also on a charge of assault and battery. Kull was held in $500 bail. Stone furnished his bail, but Kull was compelled to go to jail in default.

HAMPTON CHURCH CONCERT.

Mrs. William House has charge of a concert that will be given Thursday evening in the Hampton Street Methodist church. Following is a list of the numbers: Overture, "Alphid de Bagdad," orchestra; "Queen of the Earth," Mr. Wilson; violin and piano, Fantasia, "Robin Adair," W. G. House and Mrs. A. Blackman; recitation, Miss Edith House; "The Art of Angel," Mrs. Randolph Jones; instrumental duet, Mr. Egan and Master G. King; solo, P. Warren; piano selection, "Valse de Bonte," Mrs. A. Blackman; recitation, Miss Edith House; Mrs. R. Jones; "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," Mrs. R. Jones; cornet solo, Master John King; violin and piano, "The Grand Parade," W. G. House and Mrs. A. Blackman; solo, P. Warren; overture, "Diamant," orchestra.

BANQUET IS POSTPONED.

Last night's meeting of the Hyde Park Literary and Debating society was well attended. Vice-President Emerson D. Owen presided in regular session last evening at Fruehan's hall.

A paper on Roentgen X-rays was read by W. A. Price. It explained the recent discovery and was freely discussed afterward by the members. "Politics as a Career" was the main theme of the evening's literary programme. Several spoke on the subject. George O'Neil gave a lengthy explanation of the meaning of a "belligerent state." He told how the term fitted to the Cuban embargo and cited instances of former cases where belligerency was granted. The society decided to postpone its banquet from March 23 to March 30. The affair will probably be held in the central city, as there are no suitable rooms on the West Side. Outsiders will be admitted to the banquet by invitation.

BOARD OF TRADE TONIGHT.

A regular meeting of the West Side board of trade will be held this evening in the directors' room of the West Side bank. As this is the first meeting since the defeat of the viaduct proposition, the members will discuss how the thing happened and where the fault lies. Arrangements will probably be made for the celebration of the board's birthday anniversary. The present meeting of the board will be held at Robinson street by the traction company will also come up for action.

BETTING ON THE RESULT.

Manager of Syracuse Club Backs Up His Opinion with Money—He Thinks He Has a Winner.

Several interesting wagers were made at the recent Eastern league meeting by managers who were particularly loud in proclaiming how their respective teams were going to walk away from their competitors. At every league meeting there are hundreds of talk and bluster, but it doesn't always happen that the talkers back their opinions with the long green. It was different this year.

On Deer Ahe Kuntzsch was willing to bet 10-dollar gold pieces to cigarettes on the Stars, but to please him Draper, of Providence, and Buckley, one of the Rochester big three, accommodated the Syracusean with some equitable wagers which were put in writing, signed and sealed and placed in the position which was based on the fact that the particulars of some of the bets:

Kuntzsch bets $25 to $50 with Draper (Providence) that Syracuse will finish as good as second.

Kuntzsch and Draper bet $25 even on the finish position of their respective teams.

Buckley (Rochester) bets $5 even with Kuntzsch and Draper that Rochester will finish ahead of Syracuse and Providence at the finish.

Rochester and Kuntzsch bet $100 even on the season.

Herr Kuntzsch was the king bee of the betting ring. His anxiety to wager anything from the headlight in his shirt to his pocket watch, was so great that he had secured Reilly, of the Phillies, to play third, and Carey, of Baltimore, to cover first. On this twain Kuntzsch is willing to stake his fortune. The fact that Reilly was a beautiful Philadelphia bench-warmer, and that Carey couldn't come within a mile of hitting the ball for himself and not play for the Syracuse man. So there's bound to be a lovely fuss when Kuntzsch finds that his new egg was one of unredemable value.

While many of the delegates were putting on a big front and making noise at the meeting, a young, quiet and unassuming chap from Scranton and formerly of Fall River, was saying wool. He sawed in quiet but with great industry, and said nothing.

Before the meeting finally adjourned, Kuntzsch was the object of a little scrutiny and comment. He excited the others' curiosity. A manager who said so little, but who spoke so sensibly and wisely in his own mind, and who had the very favorable opinions of those who conversed with him. He went into the meeting a comparative stranger, but he knew his business and would give an account of himself to his fellow players. But when the sessions were finished the other managers concluded he knew his business and would give an account of himself to his fellow players. But when the sessions were finished the other managers concluded he knew his business and would give an account of himself to his fellow players.

THE TWO ESCUTCHEONS.

Sydney Rosenfeld's Play Will Be Given at Fruehan's Hall, March 18 and 19.

Sydney Rosenfeld, the playwright, is a curious fellow. Perhaps no one identified with dramatic writing is better known in New York city. He is so versatile that he never knows in what shape his next literary appearance will be. Just now he is the dramatic sponsor for a legitimate company, which was organized to produce American plays. When congratulated yesterday upon his new move he answered somewhat as follows: "I have been hammering at stage wares for years and have had about as tough a siege of managerial hardship as anyone who has ever had. I am now applying means for the public's entertainment. Now I am at a place where what I do may be given just as I wish it without any hindrance from any body. If I want a certain actor to play a given part, and he is at liberty, I may get him, and if I don't want the same actor to play another part, I can have him. Authors will appreciate keenly what this means. Many a writer for the stage is made blue and mad, and his works are shelved, because of the capriciousness of the necessity of using players who have no recommendation but the favoritism of a manager. The cast of 'The Two Escutcheons' plays composed by individuals elected by me because of their peculiar fitness to the roles assigned. That is enough to satisfy any reasonable mortal, and it gives me the halcyon place of good feeling."

The excellent organization presenting "The Two Escutcheons" is announced at the Fruehan hall, on Pittston street, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, March 18 and 19.

ALABAMA SATURDAY NIGHT.

Augustus Thomas' Drama to Be Produced at the Academy.

It is forty years since "Alabama" was produced at the Madison Square theater, New York, and since that time it has been one continuous success. The author, Augustus Thomas, at that time was unacquainted with the newspaper men, as a brilliant, descriptive writer. If one night he became famous and since then has produced several successful plays, including "Alabama," in which Nat Goodwin has added to his laurels, is the work of Mr. Thomas, as well as "Reckless Temple," "A Man of the World," "The Captive," and the new play "The Captive," about to be produced by James M. Hill at the Standard theater, New York.

"The success of 'Alabama' is not entirely due to the excellence of the play; it is also due to the fact that the high standard of the company has always been maintained. When the play is produced at the Academy of Music Saturday evening, the following well-known and clever people will be seen: Clement Bainbridge, Scott Cooper, George B. Miller, Edward B. Kelly, Dwight Allen, Robert Conness, Charles Moore, Ethel Irving, Zoe Halbert, Adelaide Sawyer and Julia Folland.
