DEATH OF JOHN M. STARK.

An Old and Respected Resident of Wyoming Suddenly Called to Liternal Rest.

The sudden and unexpected death of John M. Stark, at his home in Wyo-ming, Saturday moraling, removes from the walks of life a man of prominence and one well known in northeastern Pennsylvania. Mr. Stark retired to rest at about his usual hour for retiring, and in better health than he had been for several days past, and in the morning was found dead in his bed by a member of his family. Death came to him peace-fully as he slept. Deceased was a just man, and his life had always been an upright and honorable one. The subject of this sketch was the son of James and Mary Stark and was born in Plains township, this county, Feb. 23, 1819, a lineal descendant of the Stark family referred to in Bradsby's history of Luzerne county. OLYPHANT.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Seymour, of Hill street, were held Saturday afternoon, and was attended by many friends. The inter-

The Pennsylvania railroad officials are considering the advisability of placing between Philadelphia and New York faster trains, but up to last night nothing had been determined upon. On Monday the Reading Railroad company will begin running a new train, which is scheduled to cover the distance be-tween Philadelphia and New York in 105 minutes, which is fifteen minutes faster than the quickest schedule now

There is as yet no sign of an abate-ment of the Colorado passenger rate war. The passenger department of the Culf road denies the report telegraphed from Chicago that rates were restored after the former reduction at its suc-cial request, and that it was forced to take its tickets off the market at considerable loss. The Gulf road officials also deny that brokers are now supplied with large stocks of cut rate tickets and say they are being sold only over the counters of the company.

D. B. Hatch, of New York, and C. E. Jackson, of Middletown, Conn., members of the executive committee of the board of directors of theChicago, Peoris and St. Louis railroad, who have returned from an inspection of the line, state positively that the road is not for sale. They say they consider it a good property and abundantly able to earn its charges and leave a handsome surplus, and that it is the settled pur se of the directors to operate it abso lutely independently. The Pennsylvania company has buil 25 ble

60,000 cars through the instrumentality of car trusts. That system was insti-tuted when the credit of the company was not cuite as good as it is today but the system has been dropped for th present, and the necessity will probably have used and the researching to that method hereafter. The 60,000 cars in the trust have involved an outlay of about $21, 000,000 all of which has been paid off but $5,500,000 and when that amount is paid off the remaining 27,500 cars will come into the direct ewnership of the company or its allied lines.

Up to this time the Pennsylvania Railroad company has not made any change in its New York schedule, and as one of the vice-presidents said yester-day, it may not, as the officials do not think a reduction in time is warranted. The Reading company intends to haul only three cars, but if the Pennsylvania Railroad company decides to meet the Reading's reduction in time It will have a much larger train. It is contended by officials of the greater corporation that their locomotives cannot be surpassed as they can haul an average train at a very high rate of speed. It is said that the Pennsylvania Railroad company is contendating putting on two faster trains, which will more than compete with the Reading's.

ELECTRICITY IN WAR.

Devices Whereby Inventor Edison Would Not bown on Enemy as if It Were p Field of Wheat Death bealing Elec

From the Chicago Record.

Warnes.

On being asked what part electricity would probably play in the work of death-dealing devices in case of war between America and a hostile power. Edison has replied that it required but the impetus of whe to develop such a flood of electrical destructive applianes as would astonish the world. Edison claims to have invented a machine by means of which a bandful of men can mow down a large array. Water, which can be made more deadly than bullets, is to be hurled a great distance, while being charged with a 5,000-volt current. and the opposing hosts are to be swept away like chaif. During the recent British campaign in the Chitral country a wire charged with current was drawn around the camp every night, and whenever the eacmy tried to steal in for glunder or other reasons they touched the whe and an alarm was in-stantly sounded at various points. It is said that Edison has carried this is said that following the same set of the set of the same somewhat further, and invested caules to be drawn around a besieged eity, which would deal death to any one who tried to cross them, and so oncealed that they could not be dis-overed until too late to save the intruders from destruction. Various other devices for offensive and defensive purposes have been sug-gested by the great inventor. Among them are electric chains, to be fired into an advancing army with the effect of destroying whole columns of soldiers; an aerial infernal inacchine, which can be taken to the spot where it is to be used and timed to explode at a given moment after it is cut loose from the car of a balloon. A few of these ma-chines each containing, say, 500 pounds of dynamite, would aunlihilate a whole navy. The system of water torpedoes can be improved. An endless cable, working around a wheel, may be laid at the bottom of a chained at the entrance of one of our harbors and be kept in motion with the torpedoes attached. The cable could be run out the distance if necessary, when a submarine torpedo. them are electric chains, to be fired into

if necessary, when a submarine torpedo, reclased at the right moment, would float to the surface and explode. A few such cables, laid at different points, would make a harbor a mine of death. Such cables as these could be laid down

Such cables as these could be hild down at once, if necessary. Another of Edison's war inventions is a gun for the firing of dynamite. It is, in reality, four cannon in one, each within the other, so that the muzzles form a series of concentric circles. These are loaded and fired together. The compression of the outer three can-nons will enable the center one to resist the expansion of the dynamite charge. Another subject of his experiments is a double cannon throwing a shell twen-ty-four miles. Edison is of the opinion that the dynamite gun can be quickly perfected, and can be made more power-ful than any gun in existence.

From the Forum. Courting among the Boers is a novel proceeding. A young man, having, of course, asked permission of his father to court the hand and heart of some neighboring damsel-by neighboring 1 mean anywhere within fifty miles-pr ceeds to purchase the most loudly col-ored and decorated saddle et th for his house that he can possibly find. He will spend large sums on this article or equine adornment, and one knowing the wantry can never mistake a young Boer going out courting. Mounted on his most solvited steed, he approaches the house of the father of his lady love. Unlike the youth of more civilized life, he avoids the lady and seeks her father, from whom he reverentially asks permission to court his daughter. The old man returns no answer, but consults his yrou, and the youth joins the young folks. No more notice is taken of him during the day, but if his require to agreeable to the parents. when the hour for retiring comes the which the hold for returning comes the moth is relevantly approaches the young man and makien with a long tallow candle in her hand. ELECTRIC SPOOKS.

Spiritualists Who Were Dessived by Telephonic Noises.

At the house of a well-known elec-trician, in London, where some believers in solutionalism were spending an evening, one of them began to play the planoforte accompaniment of a hymn sung at spiritualistic demonstrations, when the room was mysteriously filled with a voice singing the words. There were many other manifestations, which the spiritualists present looked upon as confirming the genuineness of their communication with the soirit world: portraits sung in the natural voice of their originals, who were not in the room; questions were maswered and sometimes the reply was given by sometimes the reply was given by voice as well as by raps. The enthusiasm produced by these phenomena was somewhat damped when it was pointed out that telephone receivers, which were plated inside the plano and behind the pletures, were connected with a loud-speaking trans-mitter in a distant part of the house. Auchor transmitter, fixed near the mitter in a distant part of the house. Another transmitter, fixed near the plano was connected with a receiver at the ear of a distant "operating spirit," who was thereby enabled to keep time and tune and to hear everything said in the room. The raps were given by using the armature of an electric bell,
