The music element of the city and especially the Welsh and estedifodol element are anticipating with a great deal of fervor today's estedifodol in the Frothingham.

Professor David Davis, of Cincinnati, the adjudicator, reached here yesterday afternoon at 3.45 o'clock on a Lackawanna train and was met by David J. Davis and W. R. Lewis. S. YOUNG KRESGE MISSING.

Ten Dollars Belonging to His Employer Is O'Boyle Non-Grate.

Livermore W. Bellis is looking for one of his drivers, Robert Kresge, who suddenly and mysteriously disappeared on Wednesday last, and has not since been heard from. It is not known whether the driver is the driver that Mr. Bellis seeks him, but for the reason that he made away with $10 of Mr. Bellis' good money.

Kresge was sent out with a drummer on Wednesday night on a young man in the evening told his employer that he had not been paid for the day's work, all of which was proven to be false when Mr. Bellis sought out the drummer to collect his bill. The fact that Kresge disappeared that night also goes to show that he was not telling the whole truth, by at least $10.

Kresge is described as a young man not over 21, five feet seven inches in height, and would weigh about 150 pounds; he has a smooth face, dark brown hair, and would never be mistaken for anything but a Pennsylvania Dutchman. His home is in Hazleton, and thither Chief Simpson has sent a description and order for his arrest.

THE SPECULATOR.

Seabrooke and Company Seen to Good Advantage in That Comedy.

Thomas Q. Seabrooke and company played a return engagement at the Academy of Music last night, presenting George H. Broadhurst's comedy in three acts, "The Speculator," which the company has produced on the former night in Scranton this season. Then the piece was new to the company and did not move as smoothly as it did last night.

Seabrooke's reputation was made in light opera and he seems somewhat out of place in comedy, but he nevertheless does good work as John Fullerton, a Chicago board of trade speculator. Other members of the company who did very clever work were Sydney Booth, Atkins Lawrence, Prince Lloyd, Ray Fairchild, Ethel Winthrop, Blanche Moulton, Jeannette Lowrie and Marion Young.

MINE STRIKE SETTLED.

Dissatisfied Dickson Miners Return to Work Yesterday.

The miners in the China vein of the Dickson mine, who stopped work Saturday, because of a disagreement with the docking boss, returned to work yesterday. The difference was settled, as indicated in yesterday's Tribune, by Superintendent Vandling, of the Delaware and Hudson company.

The men to the number of nearly one hundred had complained to the outside foreman, but on being unable to come to an agreement they chose a deputa-tion to confer with Mr. Vandling with the result that the matter was amicably adjusted and the men yesterday returned to work.

ROAST FOR THE COMPANY

Traction Company Is Scored by the Board of Trade.

FOUR DISTINCT COMPLAINTS

Inefficient Cars, Flat Wheels, Inconvenient Routes and Drunken Passengers Are Alleged—Mr. Dickson Said Things—Other Business.

A regular monthly meeting of the board of trade was held last night. Aside from a report of the public safety committee, criticizing the Scranton Traction company, there were four distinct local interest were acted upon, although a volume of general business kept the meeting in session an hour. During the meeting it was found that there are several objections raised, not large. Following is the report of the public safety committee:

First, an insufficient number of cars on all lines between the hours of 6 a. m. and 9 a. m. and 4 and 7 in the evening.

Second, the large number of cars in use with flat wheels, which are a serious menace to weak and delicate women.

Third, the crowding of passengers on the Greenfield People's and Providence lines in a part of the city remote from offices, stores, business and public places.

Fourth, the allowing of drunken persons on the cars, and permitting indecent language to be used by many patrons.

We would therefore most respectfully suggest to the officials of the company the following resolutions, which the committee believe if adopted will be to the best interests of the company and insure contentment and satisfaction to its patrons.

SOME CHANGES RECOMMENDED.

First, an increase in the number of cars, on all lines, between the hours of 6 and 9 a. m. and 4 and 7 p. m.

Second, the use of flat wheels under the several cars with perfect ones.

Third, instead of running Green Ridge and Providence cars down Mulberry and Spruce streets to Franklin, run them up Mulberry to Wyoming, down Wyoming to Spruce, and then to Franklin. An track on all of the street change could be made with very little cost to the company, and would certainly be a great accommodation to the residents of the North.

Fourth, the making and strict enforcement of a law not only under any circumstances to allow drunken persons on a car. The enactment of such a rule would be a great benefit to the company and a great accommodation to the residents of the North.

We would therefore respectfully call the attention of the officials of the company to the foregoing, and sincerely believe that if they are adopted they will promote their own interests, but will receive the hearty approval of the board of trade.

Respectfully submitted,
R. W. Luce, Chairman.

RUTHVEN'S LECTURES.

Secured a hearing in Beer's Hall on the West Side.

The ex-priest, Ruthven, succeeded in giving two lectures in Beer's hall, on the West Side, yesterday, one in the afternoon for ladies only, and one in the evening for ladies and gentlemen. The hall was crowded at both lectures, and in the evening there was a big crowd outside the hall as well as within. Nothing, however, was done in the way of an outbreak, and the lecture was a success. Chief Simpson expected trouble, and was prepared to quell any disturbance. The five regular men on the West Side force were dispatched under Lieutenant W. H. Burke to the hall and the street in front. Captain Edwards, with ten men from the day and central city forces were held in reserve in the West Side house. About the time the lecture was over these latter officers strung themselves out along Main avenue between Lafayette and Jackson streets, the route over which the lecturer had to travel to reach the hall. As Ruthven came down the street he had a body guard of about fifteen of his sympathizers and sixteen policemen.

At about 400 men and boys, including the latter, surrounded this group and accompanied it to the corner of Jackson street, where the curious crowd formed in a circle about the none too comfortable lecturer, and enjoyed a good look at him during the five minutes that he was compelled to wait for a car. When the first car came along Ruthven and his retainers and four or five policemen boarded it and were carried away without a hiss or anything of the kind being heard. It is no doubt the most peaceable lecture night that Ruthven has ever experienced.

Of the lectures themselves, it must be confessed that they were a great success. The lecturer, in the face of an audience is to be taken as a criterion. The women, in the afternoon, listened with evident pleasure to what he had to say, and in the evening there wasn't a man in a dozen men in the hall who did not applaud the arguments and conclusions, which, it must be admitted, were cleverly and entertainingly connected together by Ruthven.

WILL STAY SOME TIME.

He announced that he had the offer of a couple of churches and had probably be here all next summer. If he had not been denied the privilege of speaking in the armory, he said he would have been gone from here long ago, and he is intended to stay here and save this "home-ruled city."

He said that Rome had made many mistakes of late, but one of its greatest was in the matter of the pope. He said that he had no objection to all of which he said without a blush.

At the conclusion of the lecture he invited all present to join the great army of America, and the association of statesmen who are saving the republic. "You may think you have no great number of A. P. A's among you, but I don't know. Who they are I will not tell you. If you are a member of one, and if you want to join, give me your name. Then you will hear something about the order. If we find you are the right kind of a man we will tell you more."

Ruthven evidently has a poor opinion of the mathematical ability of his friends, for he himself attended to the taking in of the money and making the change at the door until he went on the platform, which was when the hall was filled and but few more were expected.

VARIETY SHOW AT DAVIS.

Entertainment Given by the Smith Brothers and Family.

An old wonderland show was the attraction at Davis' theater yesterday. Manager Davis stated at the opening performance that the comedy element of the show had not arrived in the city, and the performance was by this handicapped. In spite of the fact, however, the entertainment was a pleasing and successful one. The wonderful Smith brothers gave an astounding exhibition of strength. They toyed with heavy weights as a small boy does with marbles. They were very sensational singers, gave a pretty variety of songs. The Bates duo contributed towards much of the enjoyment. They sang, play many musical instruments, and are assisted by a sweet child singer.

PARADE WILL BE HELD.

Stormy Weather Not to Interfere with the St. Patrick's Day Celebration.

In view of the heavy fall of snow during the last two days a meeting of the committee of the Ancient Order societies was held last evening to discuss the question of parade. It was decided that the parade will be held in spite of the weather, but the line of march will be shortened.

The societies sent word to the grand marshal that they will be on the parade. The parade will start promptly at 11 o'clock this morning.

ABT CONCERT LAST NIGHT.

Five Programs Rendered at the Y. M. C. Hall.

It is not often that a concert is given in which the mandolin is the premier instrument, but such was the case last evening at the Young Men's Christian association hall, where Valentine Abt, the celebrated mandolin virtuoso, assisted by the Philharmonic String quartette, George Carr, banjoist, and Alfred Wooder, tenor, delightfully entertained an audience that about half filled the hall.

Abt was down on the programme for four numbers, but was obliged to respond to so many encores that he appeared double that number of times. While playing he is in a standing position, which does not detract at all from his grace and ease of movement, but enhances these very desirable qualities. He fingers the strings of his favorite instrument with the same confidence that characterizes an author's command of his pen, and the technique required in the playing of masterpieces seems to call for no special effort on his part. A "Grand Valse brillante," a composition of his own, was his first and last number, and was sufficient to show to his audience capabilities of the player and the instrument.

An "Adante op. 64, Concerto," by Mendelssohn, "Impromptu," by Paganini, and a "Flower Song," were the remaining numbers on the programme, which he gave. The feature of the Abt performance was his rendition of the ever favorite Holmes' "Picnic-inn" march, played by George Carr and Miss Gertrude Sage, banjoists, accompanied by the piano by Miss Lillian C. H. Harding, first String quartette composed of A. E. Morse, first mandolin; P. G. Schappert, second mandolin; R. W. Neubauer, mandolin, and George Carr, banjo.

The entertainment with E. Mario Cellis' "Pensiere Frigida," and concluded with a "Valse Romantique," another of Abt's compositions.

Abt's solo's tenor voice was heard to good effect in two songs, the first entitled "Dreams," and the other a "Cradle Song," by Loesch. Richard F. Lindsay was the accompanist.

THE TRUE MEDICINE FOR LOST NERVOUS STRENGTH.

Without an Equal in Purifying and Enriching the Blood.

Great Cures Effected by Palne's Celery Compound.

What Scientific Research Has Accomplished.

Proved by Success Where All Else Has Failed.

There is one true specific for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system, and that is the Palne's Celery Compound so generally prescribed by physicians. It is the most remarkable remedy the scientific research of this century has produced. Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth college, first prescribed what is now known the world over as Palne's Celery Compound, a positive cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism, and kidney troubles. For the latter Palne's Celery Compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.

Sufferers from neuralgia, neuralgic headaches and rheumatism should stop short their morphine, quinine and such pain-killing drugs. No cure can be hoped for until nature is restored. There is one way of getting rid forever of the causes of all this suffering; that is by taking Palne's Celery Compound. In this great modern remedy the real means to health is attended to; also, it is made sound and refreshing, the appetite improves and the nerves stop complaining, because they get the nutrition that nature requires. This is the fundamental, rational way that Palne's Celery Compound takes to be able to cope successfully with diseases of the liver, kidneys and stomach, and to guarantee a complete return of sound sleep, good digestion and a quiet, well regulated nervous system.
