An Anonymous letter is Received by Coroner Longstreet.

An anonymous letter intimating that John Bell had died under suspicious circumstances several days ago in Jersey was received by Coroner Longstreet yesterday morning and he went to Jersey to investigate the matter in the afternoon.

The letter stated that Bell carried a large amount of life insurance. Bell, the letter said, died from the effects of a fall down a flight of stairs, and the case invited investigation.

Coroner Longstreet was able to learn but little about the case, beyond the fact that Bell was an aged man, without a family and poor. He died in an hour after the fall. Dr. Slicker, who had attended Bell on two recent occasions, could not be found by the coroner, but word was left for him to communicate his knowledge of the case by letter.

IRELAND'S PATRON SAINT

Manner in Which Irishmen Celebrated the Day in This Vicinity.

PARADE HELD IN THIS CITY

Over Fifteen Hundred Men in Line—Ancient Parades Were Held in Pittston—Banquets and Entertainments Given Hereabouts.

It was far from being an ideal St. Patrick's day yesterday, but the undaunted sons of Erin celebrated, nevertheless, and as if to make some recompense for the miserable condition of the slush-covered streets, the sun shone brightly and cheerfully during the greater part of the day, making the spirits of the paraders light and buoyant, even if it did make the walking just a little worse every hour it shone.

The courage of the men who braved the elements of the day yesterday to do honor to their patron saint is to be commended. The parade was under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Board of Erin, and was a most creditable one. Over 1,500 men were in line. There was plenty of music, and the Stars and Stripes and Sunburst floated proudly on the breeze.

The parades of the members of one of the Carbondale divisions were neckties made of stripes of red, white and blue, to prove that while they ignored the spirit of the parades they had a patron saint, they also honored the land that has been the favorite place of exile for so many of Ireland's gallant sons. Members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Board of America, of the county, held an election during the morning hours, which was followed by a banquet at the Board of Erin, at which Rev. F. P. McNally, of the West Side, delivered an address. Members of the Young Men's Institute also enjoyed an entertainment in their rooms on Lackawanna avenue.

PARADE IN THIS CITY.

Under the Auspices of Ancient Order of Hibernians, Board of Erin.

Thousands of people came to Scranton to view the parade and from 10 o'clock until noon when the word of command was given, the principal thoroughfares of the city were blocked with spectators, young and old, men and women. There was a large attendance, more than on any St. Patrick's day in several years, and it was the general opinion that the parade was highly creditable to the Ancient Order of Hibernians societies under whose auspices it was held, notwithstanding the exceedingly disagreeable weather for marching.

In the line of march were noticed a large percentage of elderly men, whose patriotism was paramount to the inconvenience to which they were subjected in traveling in the city. It is estimated that 1,500 men were in line, and this is one-third of what would participate had the weather not been so unfavorable.

The activities were a little behind time in the morning. Marshals reported to headquarters at the St. Charles hotel and were assigned their places in the procession, and at 12 o'clock the order to march was given by Grand Marshal Miles J. McAndrew. Captain James O'Hara was chief of staff and the aides were O. F. McKenna, of Scranton; Peter J. Lavin and W. F. Malloy, of Carbondale; John E. Barrett, of Jessup, and Captain James Gavvan, of Jessup. They were mounted on horseback and presented a fine appearance in their green and gold plumed headgear of bright colors.

THE INVITED GUESTS.

Then came carriages containing invited guests. Rev. E. J. Melley, of St. John's church, spiritual director of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and Hon. Fred W. Dunne, secretary of the first division. In the second were Mayor-elect James G. Bulley and City Treasurer-elect C. G. Boland. In the third were City Controller-elect Edmund J. Robinson and Attorney George S. Horn. In the fourth were Attorneys T. P. Hogan, M. J. Darr, of Scranton; John P. Quinn, in the fifth were Rev. J. A. O'Reilly and Rev. Sylvester Malone, of the cathedral. In the sixth were Rev. F. Coffey, of Carbondale; Rev. John J. O'Toole, of Providence, and Rev. J. A. McHugh, of the cathedral. In the seventh were Rev. George J. Lucas, D. D., of Archbald; Rev. M. B. Donnan, of Dunmore. In the eighth were Mayor-elect James J. O'Neill, of Carbondale, and ex-Councilman Patrick Golden. In the ninth were C. T. Boland and D. P. Bell, state and national treasurers respectively of the Ancient Order. In the tenth were President James J. O'Hara, of Pittston; Secretary T. J. Early, of Green Ridge, and Treasurer John F. McDonnell, of Carbondale, officers of the "Blossom" Temperance union. In the eleventh division, with local members of the Ancient Order.

Rev. F. Peal, of Carbondale, commanded the first division; his aides were J. J. Burns, of Simpson; Thomas Lavin, of Vandling; John J. Ruddy, of Scranton; M. G. Neary, of Pittston; and John P. Quinn, of Scranton. In the second division, St. John's Total Abstinence and Benevolent society, of the South Side, had the right of line and headed the societies. James Cullen, a pioneer Father Mathew man, was color bearer. The South Side Drum corps furnished the music. The St. Paul's Hittes marched after the other members.

CARBONDALE AND ARCHBALD.

Next were the Carbondale and Archbald Ancient Order societies over 150 strong led by the Archbald Cornet band. The Archbald paraders wore red, white and blue neckties and bouquets of shamrock and evergreens. The Parnell File and Drum corps, of Jessup, led Division No. 8 of that place. These had green sashes in their hats and carried cans.

Division No. 1, of Forest City, was led by the drum corps of that town and they showed up well. Division No. 4, of Jersey, followed them, and the last society of the first division was, No. 5, of Carbondale, led by the Mozart band. M. P. Hooley commanded the second division; his aides were Captain P. J. Homan, who was represented in a bright green uniform and bowing himself in true Sheridan style; M. P. Sheridan, M. G. Langan, Thomas J. Doherty, James P. Lavelle, and T. J. Lanzan, all of this city. After it came Division No. 1, of Hyde Park; and then Excelsior Drum corps, leading Division 9, of Providence. Another band came next, ahead of Division 14, of the South Side, and Division 4, of Minooka. McDonnell's Drum corps led Division 10, of Scranton, and the last society in the line was Division 7, of this city, the strongest in the county. It was led by the Forest band.

The formation of the parade was as follows: The first division made up on Lackawanna avenue, right resting on Franklin avenue. The second division, of the South Side, right resting on Spruce street. The men marched in columns of fours and paraded up Lackawanna avenue, to Adams street, to Washington street, to Linden street, to Franklin, to Lackawanna avenue, where ranks were broken and the societies were dismissed.

PARADE IN PITTSSTON.

Attended by a Large Number of Lutzers County Organizations.

Pittston has the scene of a St. Patrick's Day celebration by the Ancient Order of Hibernians organizations, both the Board of Erin and the Board of America branches of Luzerne county. At early morn there was music in the air and the streets were crowded with spectators awaiting the formation of the procession. The Hibernian societies met at 9 o'clock and moved down Main street to Market, up Market to Broad, down Broad to St. John's church, which they then entered and attended a mass celebrated by Rev. Father Quinnan.

After the services they again paraded the principal streets being joined by visiting organizations. When the junction of Church and William streets was reached the procession was reviewed by the clergy, grand marshals and aides and then orders to break ranks were given. The celebration was held under the auspices of Division No. 3, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Board of Erin, of Pittston, and to them is due the credit of making the day's exercises a grand success.

COUNTY BOARD MEETING.

Officers Elected by the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America.

Lackawanna county divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America sent five delegates each to the county board meeting held yesterday in the rooms of Division 17, in Ancient Order of United Workmen's hall, on Lackawanna avenue. There are nineteen divisions in the county, and the delegates, with the five county officers, made 100 who were present. Besides, there were several visitors.

The meeting was called to order at 10 o'clock by Anthony J. McAndrew and the time until noon was taken up with the transaction of business of the order. At noon the delegates sat down to banquet given by the caterer, M. J. Kelley was the caterer. In the afternoon business was resumed. The January reports showed that there is a membership in the county of about 2,000 and that the respective divisions are in a flourishing condition.

Officers for the ensuing year were chosen as follows: president, William Dawson; vice-president, James P. McAndrew, of Winton; recording secretary, William McAndrew, of Hyde Park; financial secretary, James J. O'Hara, of Dunmore; treasurer, Patrick Jordan, of Scranton. Messrs. Dawson and Jordan were chosen unanimously. A vote of thanks was given to the retiring officers and it was unanimously decided that Anthony J. McAndrew, the retiring president, be chosen as the candidate for state treasurer at the convention which meets in Williamsport in June.

EVENING ENTERTAINMENT.

Rev. T. P. McNally Delivered a Forceful and Fitting Address.

The concluding exercise of the St. Patrick Day's celebration was a literary and musical entertainment under the auspices of various city divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Board of Erin, in St. Patrick's college hall, in the evening. Rev. F. P. McNally, of the St. Paul's cathedral, presided. Here are excerpts from his introduction and peroration:

Ireland! What stories are recalled by that name! What figures of grandeur and lowliness, of grandeur and lowliness, come before our eyes as we contemplate thee! Ireland an anomaly among the nations, her best men, her best women, her very children of grandeur; their names rendered illustrious by their deeds and actions, which proudly stand as monuments to their characters. Exceptional, ingenious, with few equals and no superiors in all the rugged walks of life, laboring hard and under and surmounting difficulties that would have proved insuperable to any other race of men. It is the first appearance upon the stage of time, and particularly for many years after the passing of St. Patrick.

HIS CHARACTER.

Prudent and sagacious in council, eloquent in expression, pure in morals, intensely religious, and devoted to his home, his church, peaceful and devoted to acts of peace, whose peace was honored as the highest of honors. He was a man of peace, in the midst of wrongs, in the defense of his houses a terror of the wrong-doer and a friend to the wronged. The days that are now passing in review before us were indeed the golden days of Irish history, the days of the warrior chief, when Ireland's storied banner, the Sunburst, floated free and unfurled over the hills and valleys, the fair Erin and their deeds and actions were in full play, that save a life and a meaning to the immortal words of Theobald Moore:

"Erin, remember the days of old, Ere her faithless sons betrayed her."

Land of the poet, the sage, the saint, the scholar, the soldier of God! The noble fallen are her fortunes, the memory of those ancient days should prove an incentive to emulate to her children and her children's children the wide world over.

In reviewing the Irishmen in America today and their interest in furthering the material and political social and religious welfare of the country, he said: In the carrying out of this noble work the Irish element must necessarily be a prime moving factor. They are already a strong numerical and influential body in the land and will necessarily multiply and increase rapidly in the future. Then, again, the Irish Catholic is called by the salutary teaching of an unerring church, whose divine mission is to make men virtuous, upright and honorable citizens, promoters and cultivators of every good cause that has the well-being of the republic as its object.

GREAT MORAL POWER.

Enlightened by this principle no far-seeing statesmen can deny the logic of every effort to gain the political and moral power of the Irish people. The Catholic church is the greatest moral power for good in this republic, or that her faithful followers will always be the staunchest bulwarks of the nation's institutions and her devoted and unflinching defenders in the day of the nation's need.

BY Mrs. Schilling, songs by Michael Dunnington, song by Miss McCarthy, and a quartette by Miss Winifred Melvin, Miss L. Coyne, Thomas Needham and James Mangon.

BANQUET AT MINOOKA.

Division No. 9, A. O. H. B. of A., Entered the annual meeting of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, celebrating in magnificent style the memory of Ireland's patron saint. In the morning at 10 o'clock the members of the church division, Division No. 4, of the Board of Erin, and St. Joseph's Total Abstinence Society, received holy communion.

Elaborate preparations had been made by Division 9 for the affair in the evening. There was a large crowd in attendance that two halls were necessary for the accommodation of the members, their wives and daughters and guests. St. Joseph's church, with tables furnished by Caterer M. Kelley, and after it was impossible to seat any more tables were set up in the meeting hall of the division in McDonough's hall.

Rev. John Loughran, pastor of St. Joseph's church, was the guest of honor. He sat at the head of the center table. In all there were about two hundred persons present ranged around the three tables. County President, William Dawson and Senator J. C. Vaughan, president of Division No. 17, were present and occupied prominent places. The first order was the enjoyment of the banquet and each guest was given a remark made by Rev. Father Loughran, Mr. Dawson and Senator Vaughan. The banquet was a success and those who had banqueted in McDonough's hall joined the main gathering and an hour was spent in the singing of vocal and instrumental music. The entertainers were Miss Katie Reardon, Miss Jennie Loughney, Edward Murphy, John D. Gwynne and William J. Burke was presiding officer.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

A rare comedy that is in store for the patrons of the Frothingham in "The Two Scutchions," which will be presented here on tonight and tomorrow night. "The Two Scutchions" was produced at Daly's and the Garden theaters, New York, and made an emphatic success. The plot is light, but the situation is most gripping. The story told in the four acts is that of Mary Foster, the daughter of a Chicago pork packer, who meets and is loved by the son of an aristocratic German baron, while Mary is traveling in Europe, under the care of Mrs. Stevenson, a widow. The baron is opposed to the match. His aristocratic blood boils at the thought of a union between the son of a von Wettingen and the daughter of a tradesman. The fathers of the lovers quarrel and are reconciled, only to quarrel again. In these quarrels the young couple finally become involved. There are also a number of charming scenes between the Chicago widow and a jovial young aristocrat, captain incidental to the action of the play. The full New York cast will be seen in the production here.

AT THE CATHEDRAL.

Rev. Father Malone Preaches the St. Patrick's Day Sermon.

Three masses were celebrated at St. Peter's cathedral in honor of the feast of St. Patrick. A high mass was sung at 8 o'clock at which Rev. Father Malone preached the sermon.

He took as his theme the patron saint of Ireland and told in an eloquent and instructive manner of his great work which this saint accomplished; how he so firmly planted the seeds of Christianity in his chosen field that they have never since been stronger than ever, although during nearly half of this time every effort was made to stamp out the original faith.

ADDRESS ON ST. PATRICK.

Delivered Before Young Men's Institute by Attorney M. A. McGinley.

John Boyle O'Reilly council, Young Men's Institute held an entertainment for members in their rooms on Lackawanna avenue last night in honor of St. Patrick's Day. The leading feature of the entertainment was an address by Attorney M. A. McGinley on the life of St. Patrick. Musical numbers were rendered by the Young Men's Institute. The Edward O'Malley and Peter Snyder.

AN AGREEMENT REACHED.

Plan Outlined by Councilman Koche Will Probably Be Accepted.

Providing that councils do not object, Mr. Roche's scheme for the permanent settlement of the West Market street difficulty will be accepted. At the conference held last evening the Turnpike people subscribed to the Roche plan and arrangements were made to have the deal adjusted.

S. B. Price, the city's special attorney in the case, was selected to represent the committee of councils and W. C. Abington Turnpike company, was chosen as the company's representative. To these two men the matter will be referred so that all the legal points may be considered and if they come to a conclusion satisfactory to the parties concerned, it will be referred to some disinterested arbitrator for review. Then the committee will make its report to councils and ask favorable action on its recommendations.

If the thing goes through a knotty and troublesome question will be settled and a first-class outlet to the country districts to the north of us will be provided. The city and the Turnpike company to keep the road in good repair in consideration of the company, about which the city limits, which was "bought" by this bargain was made it was judged to be a very desirable thing, but as time went on it developed into a very expensive deal. The city could not afford to keep the road in such a condition as would satisfy the Turnpike company and a law suit resulted in which the company recovered what money it had expended in repairing the road. The verdict was not best collected however, as yet. S. B. Price, has the matter before the supreme court and expects to win only secure a reversal of the verdict and a most enjoyable time, very onerous compact, holding that it was illegal for the reason that a municipality cannot enter into a contract for a greater length of time than one year.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE NAMED.

While this affair was being argued in councils, the idea of a special committee to investigate the matter and the result was the appointment of a special committee to gather data and submit recommendations for providing the city with an outlet to the north. Mr. Roche was made chairman of this committee, and as in all things which he undertakes he went at the work in earnest. After a few meetings he has now worked out a plan that he thought would cover the ground and submitted it to the committee. The committee unanimously favored his plan and agreed to be a conference with the Turnpike company to ascertain how they would take to the plan. At the first conference the matter was explained to them, and, having thoroughly considered it, they met with the committee again last night, and came to the agreement above recorded.

Mr. Roche's scheme, which has been explained at length in The Tribune is, in brief, as follows: The company is first of all to release the city from the objectionable contract. Then it is to cut the city seven-eighths of a mile of the road, beginning at the corners, which the city must grade and pave. The company must grade and pave the same distance of the road. This will permanently improve nearly all of the road that lies within the city limits. No toll gate is to be established within the city.

CAN CHARGE AS MUCH TOLL.

As the Turnpike company can charge as much toll for the fraction of a mile as can for a mile, the cutting off of seven-eighths of a mile of its total length will not reduce its earning capacity. Another consideration which, influenced the Turnpike people in looking with favor upon the proposition, was that the increased amount of pleasure driving which the improved road will attract will swell their tolls to no small degree.

Then, again, the possibility, rather the probability, that the Supreme court will decide against the company might have been a factor in the proposition. At all events there are strong hopes that the matter will now be settled amicably between the city and the company.
