CONGRESSIONAL FORECAST

Report on Cuban Resolutions to Be Pushed to a Vote.

THE NAVAL APPROPRIATIONS

Responses to the Ways and Means Reciprocity Sub-Committee's Investigation—Commended as a Sound Business Principle.

Washington, March 22.—The failure of the senate thus far to act upon the questions involved in the Dupont case and on the conference report on the Cuban resolutions remains in limbo as unfinished business for the coming week. The senate's attitude toward the Cuban resolutions has been materially affected by the joint resolution offered at the close of Friday night's session by Mr. Morgan. It is understood that he will press his joint resolution to a vote if he has no other purpose than to put the senate on record. The legislative and judicial appropriation bill, which is in charge of Mr. Culion, will be called up at the first opportunity. The provision changing the compensation of United States marshals and district attorneys from fees to salaries will doubtless cause debate, but otherwise there is little in the bill that should precipitate discussion. The bill to approve the compromise made between the United States and the state of Arkansas holds its place as the unfinished business, but Mr. Berry has not pressed it.

Beyond tomorrow, which under the rules is to be devoted to the consideration of business reported by the committee on affairs of the District of Columbia, there is no programme of business arranged for the next day. Representatives this week Chairman Balboe says he will not have enough business to engage the attention of the house for an hour and a half. Under some wholly unexpected opposition to some one of the matters on the calendar of the committee should develop.

NAVAL APPROPRIATION. The naval appropriation bill owing to deficiencies in the committee having it in charge mainly over the appropriations for battleships and for dry docks, has not been fully completed, and it is not expected to be reported before the latter end of the week. That had been dependant on the managers to occupy most of the time beginning Tuesday, and they have nothing of large importance to take this week. Two minor pension bills of a general nature are on the calendar, and an opportunity will doubtless be offered to press them to passage.

ON RECIPROCITY. One of the most important responses to the ways and means reciprocity sub-committee's investigation of the attitude of manufacturers and exporters came from the national association of manufacturers of Philadelphia. The conclusions reached are as follows: "To business men who have given the subject careful consideration reciprocity commends itself as a sound and judicious business principle."

As applied under the act of 1890 reciprocity is not an objectionable principle inasmuch as it provided for the protection of our commercial interests not only at home but abroad.

The practical application of reciprocity under the act of 1890 demonstrates beyond question the ability to extend our foreign trade under exceedingly favorable conditions.

From a protectionist standpoint, reciprocity is not open to objection as it involves no sacrifice of the principles of protection; the treaties which were negotiated under the act of 1890 adding nothing to our trade which have not already been placed there by the law itself.

Those who advocate free trade ought not to object to reciprocal commercial treaties, as their whole effect is to lessen the restrictions upon international trade.

know you are a foreigner by naturalization," said the Kaiser, "but Germany is proud of you nevertheless. For if I am not mistaken, you were born in Bonn."

MR. M'ILLAN'S JOKE

It illustrates the Republican Situation in the Senate. From the Washington Post.

Congressman Benton McMillin tells a story which illustrates, he says, the dilemma in which the Republicans of the senate find themselves with the tariff bill.

THE PRECISE MAN

Advices His Son as to the Manner of Putting on a Stamp.

"When you put a postage stamp on an envelope," said a precise man to his son, "you should put it on square and true, in the upper right-hand corner. You should put it as near as possible to the corner, so that the cancelling stamp will be less likely to deface, and so perhaps to obscure the address on the envelope."

THE WORLD OF BUSINESS

Wall Street Review

New York, March 21.—The stock market today, as of late, was wholly professional. At the opening the tendency of prices was downward principally, on account of selling by 250,000 shares.

The Philadelphia Inquirer, in its weekly review of the anthracite trade, says: "The continued restriction of the output to the merchant navies of the United States and Germany was sought, the Germans, therefore, have made a large increase in their total tonnage as compared with the merchant navies of the United States and Germany."

The important event of last week was an announcement of the fidelity of the railroads. It is estimated that the railroads will receive $3,000,000 more from the operating of this year than last, this sum to be divided up between the seven roads shipping to New York.

The Philadelphia Inquirer, in its weekly review of the anthracite trade, says: "The continued restriction of the output to the merchant navies of the United States and Germany was sought, the Germans, therefore, have made a large increase in their total tonnage as compared with the merchant navies of the United States and Germany."
