From the Medical Record. In an address delivered before the Historical club of Johns Hopkins University Dr. William Osler gives an account of Dr. Thomas Dover, whose name has passed down to posterity in connection with pulvis ipecacuanhae compositus. There are few physicians who have not prescribed Dover powders, but there are, we think, stil fewer who know much about Dr. Dover, and especially, who know that he was at one time a successful buccaneer and discovered Alexander Selkirk of "Rob-

Dr. Dover was born in Warwickshire about 1660, and was probably a student of Sydenham's. After taking his de-gree, he settled in Bristol, and, having made some money, joined with some other merchants in a privateering ex-pedition. Two ships were fitted out, and Dover went as third in command being styled "Captain Dover." He sailed to the Spanish Main, and in 1709 arrived at the island of Juan Fernandez. There Captain Dover went ashore, and discovered the sole occupant of the island to be a Scottish sallor named Alexander Selkirk, who had been left there alone four years and four months there alone four years and four months before. MOOSIC'S DEEP MYSTERY

A Butcher Boy, a Revolver, Highwaymen and Money Pigure in It.

THE STORY THAT SMITH TELLS

It Is Not of a Nature Entirely Satisfactory to the Good People of Moosie and They Are Doing Some Lively Thinking and Questioning.

Moosic has a mystery of a sensational Moosic has a mystery of a sensational nature that is keeping the quiet people of that quiet village doing some very earnest thinking. Herbert Smith, a young butcher, alleges that as he was walking from Avoca to his boarding place in Moosic soon after midnight last Sunday night he was held up by highwaymen, who relieved him of $350 and also numetured his body with a and also punctured his body with a ball from a revolver.

That is not the mysterious part of the affair, however. Mr. Smith came to Moosic some time ago from Centermoreland where his parents reside on a farm. He obtained employment with a Moosic meat dealer and prospered so highly that two months ago he opened a cash meat mar-ket himself. He is an ardent church member, and Sunday night attended services as is his wont. After listening to the expounding of the word he escorted home a young lady of his ac-quaintance, who is also a member of the same church. She resides in the lower part of Moosle and he remained at her home until midnight, when he departed, saying he had to go to Avoca before he turned his steps homeward. The young lady remarked that it was a somewhat unseasonable hour to walk to Avoca, a distance of several miles, but he declared that he had to go and started in that direction

MADE A FLYING TRIP.

It would ordinarily require about half an hour to walk to Avoca, yet Smith says he went and transacted the busisays he went and transacted the business that called him there, returned and was assaulted and robbed, yet reached his boarding house between 12 and 1 o'clock. He sat in his room in his boarding house without telling anyone of his condition until about 2 a. m., when he went to the office of Dr. S. S. Watson and had the wound dressed. He told the physician that he wented He told the physician that he wanted nothing said about the matter.

Monday, when the story of the assault became noised abroad, Smith was asked for particulars of the affair and offers of assistance in running down and capturing the highwaymen were made to him. He evinced a disposition to avoid talking about the matter, and declined to have the authorities inter-ested in the capture of the criminals. It was his desire, he said, never to set eyes on the men again.

The description of the robbers that he has given to different persons do not appear to agree and he has avoided anything like an explanation of the business that called him to Avoca at the witching hour of midnight and seems to be greatly annoyed when ques-tioned by the good townspeople with reference to his exciting experience.

HISTORY OF THE ASSAULT. His story of the assault is that as he was approaching the railroad bridge below the depot, two men sprang in front of him and commanded him to throw up his hands. At the same time one of the men leveled a revolver at his breast. He hit the muzzle of the weapon, knocking it upwards, and at that moment it was discharged, the bullet entering his breast above the heart. The bullet struck a bone and glanced off sideways into his arm. So tributed among them for the benefit performance on April 29.

D. J. Clearwater, of the Meadow Brook store, is ill at his home on Pear street.

The highwaymen then contented Company A. Patriotic Guards, will go to Hyde Park this evening as the guests of Camp 178 of that place. Many of Sunday night, before going to church. Smith took a roll of bills and put it in his pocket, saying he thought it would be safer on his person. He had a re-volver and the next day it was found in his shop with two chambers discharged, evidently quite recently. He denies having had the weapon with him when assaulted, and says that disliking to take it to church with him Sunday

QUESTIONS THEY ARE ASKING. How did the robbers learn he had the money on his person? Why did they not take all his valuables? Why is not an effort made to hunt them down? Where did Smith go Sunday night after Where did saintil go and which was a substitute of the young lady's house? Why did he not raise the alarm immediately after being shot? Did he have a $200 check cashed at Pittston? Did he have the revolver on his person Sunday night?

These are questions the people of Moosic are asking themselves and one another, but at the present writing it appears they will remain unanswered. Mr. Smith is recovering from the effect of the pistol shot wounds and saying nothing.

The Moosic folk are not following his example, however.

In the days that are coming "Who shot Smith?" will be as famous a ques-tion in Moosic, as "Who struck Billy Patterson?" was in some other quar-

Our leader for the spring is a light weight, light colored Covert Cloth Spring Overcoat, made with all the style and all the fit of a cus-
