

FIVE ARRESTS WERE MADE

They Are the Outgrowth of the Riot at Dunmore Monday.

RUTHVEN WAS SENT TO JAIL

After Spending a Few Hours There He Was Released, Charles Kaestner Becoming His Bondsman in the Sum of Eight Hundred Dollars.

Four arrests were made at Dunmore yesterday morning by Sheriff John C. Jordan, the other six rioters taken into custody are Christy Walsh, Peter O'Reilly, John Lynch and James Payton, and they were given a preliminary hearing in the afternoon before Alderman Millar, who continued the case for a further hearing on the arrival of the witnesses for the prosecution. Thomas Payton, father of one of the suspects, swore out a warrant for Ruthven on three charges; inciting to riot, carrying concealed weapons and discharging firearms.

The warrant for Ruthven was given to Deputy Thomas J. Jordan of the alderman's office, but a search around town failed to locate the accused. Special Officer Tierney was sent out about 5 o'clock in the afternoon and he went to Ruthven's room at the corner of Spring street and Franklin avenue, where he found him and brought him before Alderman Millar, who asked him if he could furnish $800 bail for his appearance this morning at 11 o'clock. Ruthven could not do this and was sent to the county jail.

Mr. Payton also swore out a warrant for the arrest of Thomas Lewon, Dunmore, on charges of carrying concealed weapons. Special Officer M. Byrne went after the defendant and found him at his home. He was brought to the alderman's office and A. D. Holland entered bail for him for a further hearing at 11 o'clock this morning.

MAKING THE ARRESTS.

The sheriff's posse consisted of Deputy Sheriff F. E. Ryan, Deputy Sheriff T. J. Price, Deputy Sheriff John W. Reese, County Detective Leyshon Patrolman Thomas V. Lewis, W. H. Withers and D. C. Richards. The latter was the one who swore the warrant out and Mr. Withers was along to lend his assistance in apprehending the rioters. They left the city about 1:30 in two rigs and arrived in Dunmore at 2 o'clock in the morning.

After reconnoitering for about fifteen minutes they entered the houses of some of the leaders to see if they could get him. The young man's father and the rest of the family got up and allowed the officers to search the house from cellar to garret, but James was not in. His father said he had not seen him since Monday and was cognizant of his whereabouts.

As they were making their rounds the strains of a piano floated to their ears and they discovered a crowd having a good time. Special Officer Charley Warner was in the crowd and he joined the posse by request. He, Richards and Withers did great service in locating the young man.

They had at much trouble in finding him. Christy Walsh boards with a man named Langin; Peter O'Hearn lives on Bloom street; John Lynch lives two blocks from the Corners, and James Payton lives on Chestnut street. The posse had only two vehicles and one of them was a horse and buggy, and Withers called back and the other five of the posse and the four prisoners piled into the cars and about 5 o'clock in the morning the county jail was reached.

TAKEN FOR A HEARING.

At 11 o'clock the four prisoners were taken from jail to Alderman Millar's office for a hearing. Attorney T. J. Duggan and M. A. McGinnely were present in the interest of the defendants. Attorney John G. McKeon, of Wilkes-Barre, was in the office, but he was acting only temporarily in the absence of Attorney George H. Taylor, who is Richards' attorney, and is out of town. The prosecution asked for a continuance, and the defense asked that the suspects be given a hearing or discharged. Alderman Millar continued the case until 2 P.M. afternoon.

COMMON PLEAS COURT:

Defense Will Be Heard in the Pickering Trespass Suit Today.

When court adjourned yesterday the plaintiff's side of the case in the action for $1000 brought by Elias Pickering of Dunmore, against the Scranton Traction company was closed and Attorney Horace E. Hard made the opening argument to the jury for the defense.

Mr. Hard stated to the jury that he proposed to prove that Mr. Pickering in applications for an increase of pension money had been compelled to reveal to him, set forth the specific complaints in his pension petition that he now wants the Traction company to give him damages for.

Mr. Pickering says he is now suffering from a sore throat, the voluntary exercises of the elementary school and the kidneys. Drs. Burnett, Gander, Wehlan and Brown, of Dunmore, were put on the stand by the plaintiff and they testified that Mr. Pickering would get just as much relief from lying down as from draining his kidneys.

The jury in the trespass suit of William Morley against Dr. F. S. Douglass brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

To an Enclosed Roast Turkey.

Poor bird! You've had work to fill your gizzard.

You've pecked 600 bugs in rain, and grain in gizzard.

You've run for food while you had hope and breath.

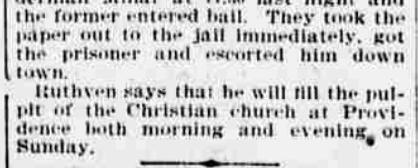

What mockery—this studing after death!

by about noon; the starting time being arranged to enable those using the trains to devote part of the day to business or other affairs before the hour of departure. The day will offer every opportunity for viewing the picturesque scenes which abound along the route, and which have made the Lehigh Valley railroad famous throughout all the country.

In order that these trains may be readily designated by business people and tourists, it is proposed to allow each passenger to have a name which will be suitable and appropriate, and in order that the widest scope may be exercised in the selection of a name, a sum of $25 in gold is offered for suggestion of a name that shall be finally adopted.

CONDITIONS

All communications suggesting a name for these trains must be addressed to "Name Contest," each envelope marked "Name Contest." Each communication to insure attention, should be accompanied by full name and address of the writer, and the name should be in capital letters, and the point, original in application to railroad trains, and one not in use by any railroad at the present time. The name selected will be duly announced through the columns of the daily press together with the name and address of the person who suggested it. The name will be personally notified. In the event of more than one person suggesting the name which is finally adopted, the prize will be awarded to the one whose name is chosen first in the competition open until April 15 inclusive.

THE PRINCESS ROSEBUD.

Charming Musical and Fairy Extravaganza Given in Y. M. C. A. Hall.

A charming juvenile performance entitled "Princess Rosebud" was given in Young Men's Christian Association hall last night for the benefit of the Rescue Fund. It was produced under the auspices of the Zenith Missionary band, and the band will be duly announced through the columns of the daily press together with the name and address of the person who suggested it.

The next play called was that against J. C. Culpeper of Sunbury, charged with using the mails for fraudulent purposes. It was charged that Culpeper, who was in Sunbury in 1872, sent out to him in Sunbury a large quantity of goods which he quickly sold at prices less than their cost and failed to make payment for the same. The action was brought under a United States statute of 1872.

WANTED INDICTMENT QUASHED.

Culpeper was defended by James Scarlett and N. J. Shigman, of Danville, and J. H. Dewitt, of Sunbury. Mr. Culpeper moved that the indictment be quashed as the act under which it was sent out was repealed by an act of 1882. Judge Buffington in dissenting, however, held that Culpeper was guilty and recommended that he be sentenced to prison for one year.

The next case called was that against J. C. Culpeper of Sunbury, charged with using the mails for fraudulent purposes.

The Princess Rosebud is the central figure of the story. She is a wronged princess, whose uncle has usurped her throne, but who, by the intervention of Queen Whitewand, a good fairy, is at last seated on her throne and also joined in happy marriage to Prince Culpeper, who by the way, is the son of the grand princess after the good offices of Fairy Whitewand had seated her on her throne. The story is set to pretty music and brightened by bewitching costumes. It will be produced again tonight.

FAIRIES AND TOTS.

Fairies—Minnie Lange, Ella Walter, Grace Hale, Cora Hallinan, Anna Thompson, Anna Brink, Emily Evans, Edna Miller, Eddie Taft, deceased, a veteran of the War of the Rebellion, and thus attempting to secure pension for Taft's minor children, whose guardian she is. It was admitted by the government that she was entitled to the pension, but it was the mother of his children. It was claimed, however, that she was not legally wedded to him and could not be for the reason that during the time of their cohabitation Taft had a legal wife, then living in the state of New York and from whom he had never been divorced.

REQUEST IN QUIGLEY CASE.

Mrs. Crowell was defended by ex-Assistant United States District Attorney Cameron of Tioga county. At the beginning of the trial, Mr. Cameron moved that the indictment be quashed because it stated that the perjury was committed on a day other than that on which the defendant affixed her signature to the affidavit, the falsity of which constitutes the principal allegation in the indictment. District Attorney Hall denied the error which he said had been caused by the carelessness of his stenographer. He asked that the case be continued until the next term of court when a new indictment would be issued. Mr. Cameron withdrew his motion and the trial proceeded.

Its course throughout the entire afternoon was marked by argument on the part of Mr. Cameron and the admission of evidence and the construction of documents, statements in the record, etc. Just before adjournment Judge Buffington, after hearing brief testimony on behalf of the defendant, directed the jury to find a verdict of not guilty.

District Attorney Hall said last night that he expected to be able to clear the list of all cases by noon today when the session will probably adjourn.

REQUEST IN QUIGLEY CASE.

During an intermission in the Crownell case yesterday afternoon Attorney L. P. Wedeman, of this city, moved before Judge Buffington that the case of Dennis Quigley against the Western Ohio Manufacturing Co. of Canton, Ohio, be remanded to the court of common pleas of Lackawanna county, for trial. The case is an action brought by Quigley against the bridge company for damages. Quigley was injured in a fall from the steel shaft at William H. Richmon's colliery in Richmonde, this county. He suffered serious injury, he alleges, through the negligence of the defendant's agents. The case was instituted in the common pleas court of Williamsburg, but was removed to the United States circuit court by Judge Quigley, attorney for the defendant. Judge Buffington opposed the motion before Judge Buffington who reserved decision pending the submission of briefs by counsel for both parties to the trial.
