ERRING ONES CAPTURED.

J. A. Stanton and Miss Rena Cook Arrested and Jailed at Honesdale.

The Belmont citizens have been much exercised of late about the conduct of James A. Stanton, a well known cartoonist, residing in the district. He is a married man, and has a nice little family. Some months have elapsed since it was noticed that he had formed an attachment to Miss Rena Cook, a beautiful girl of 17 years of age. This attachment caused trouble in the Stanton home, and a separation followed. Stanton and his fair one disappeared in a cutter, and it's some days ere they again made their appearance. Mr. Cook went before Alderman Bunnell and swore out a warrant for Stanton's arrest, charging him with exercising undue influence over Rena. They fled for parts unknown before Constable Gilby could serve the summons. Gilby started last Tuesday afternoon in company with S. Sears in hot pursuit. When they reached Honesdale they had a clue, but he did not succeed in securing them. They were described and the city of police, McAndrew, of this city, received a telegram stating they had placed under arrest a man and lady answering the descriptions and asking for instructions. He was empowered by Alderman Bunnell to go to Honesdale yesterday morning, and bring back the fugitives. They were given a hearing at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Evidence was tendered that they had stayed over Sunday night in the home of Mrs. Hohenburg, as husband and wife. Stanton, when before the alderman, pleaded not guilty of adultery, but Rena pleaded guilty of fornication on the Sunday night, March 22. The alderman committed both to jail, Stanton on the charges of adultery and desertion, Rena on fornication. Bail was placed for Stanton for $500 in each case and Rena for $100. They left by the 4 o'clock for Scranton jail.

Can't Eat Breakfast.

a failing altogether too common with Americans. Due generally to excesses of some sort, whether over-work or dissipation the result is the same "The candle is being burnt at both ends." The man who begins the day in this way is living on vital forces that should be husbanded. If you can't eat in the morning as you should, take a glass of milk containing a tablespoonful of

Bovinine

The effect is marvelous. You will have taken a food stimulant that nourishes, makes new blood, new bone, new flesh and nerve tissue, and one that has no reaction. Every vital organ of the body will be kept in a normal condition and will be enabled to throw off disease. Bovinine is a powerful concentration of the life-maintaining elements of lean beef, all of which are preserved by the special cold process employed in its manufacture. Doctors everywhere will commend it, and druggists sell it.

THEY ARE KINSMEN.

McKinley and Allison Are Distantly Related, It Is Said. Wellman, in the Times-Herald.

Governor McKinley and Senator Allison are kinsmen, inasmuch as these two names are generally believed to be the leading candidates for the Republican presidential nomination, it may be said the competition for that honor is, in a sense, "all in the family." How close the relationship between McKinley and Allison is no one is able to say at this writing, but that they are kin seems pretty well settled. Governor McKinley's mother was Nancy Campbell Allison. The Allisons came originally from Great Britain, and had first settled in Virginia. This branch of the family emigrated to Green county, Pennsylvania, where was born Abner Allison, the grandfather of William McKinley, Jr. Abner married Ann Campbell, of a Scotch-German family, and early in this century migrated from Pennsylvania to Columbiana county, Ohio. Mrs. Allison riding the whole distance on horseback, holding in front of her on the horse her youngest child. They settled on a farm near New Lisbon, and there was born, in 1809, Nancy Allison, who married William McKinley, Sr., in 1829, and who is the mother of Governor McKinley. She is still living in good health at Canton, and is a most lovable old lady. Many of her friends who know Senator Allison have noted what they regard as a family resemblance between them. Senator Allison said today he had often been asked if Nancy Allison McKinley was of his family, and while he had never been able to determine just what the relationship was, he had no doubt they were kin. The senator said his own immediate branch of the Allison family were from County Monaghan, Ireland, and were Scotch-Irish. They had settled in Centre county, Pennsylvania. William McKinley, Sr., the governor's father was born in 1807, in Myer county, Pennsylvania. Senator Allison was himself born in Wayne county, Ohio, which was for one or two terms represented in congress by Governor McKinley.

Worn Out Women

Should read this letter. It shows the wonderful building-up powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier.

"I wish I could stand in some public place and cry to alluring humanity, 'Hear this, ye people, what wonderful things Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me and my family.' I cannot express what I suffered. Only one of my sex knows what a woman can suffer in my condition. I was prostrate with nervousness and weakness. The least noise would drive me frantic. I decided to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am overjoyed to say that I am now well, hearty, rosy and plump."

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine for those suffering as I have suffered." Mrs. C. C. KIRKPATRICK, Pine Grove, Penn. $1; six for $6.
