lept enterprises. The speaker characterized these churches as training schools for in-mortality. The benefits of this work cannot be fully measured in this life Sunday and revival work and the high summary and everyal work and the loss esst types of soul culture. The last ad-firess of the evening was by Rev Man-ley S. Hard, on the subject "Methods in Projecting Influence." The follow-ing is a brief summary of the doctor's remarks;

REV. MANLEY HARD'S ADDRESS. "That which has consumed enough of energy and thought to take on the form of an idea will formulate itself into some methods so that it may perfect its inducace. A barn in a near city was so costly and elaborate that it remains the measurent of the main who reared it. His father did better, who reared it. His latter find before, In the same city he put a college for women. "Bill" Nye, under contract, wrote yards of funny things every week and yet has projected his influence solely by his droll, quaint wit. Now and then influence is projected, that on the one side is strong, sincere, incisive, yet on the other is base, the worthy, belittling and impious. Mr. Parnell was the groat loader of home Mr, rule, yet he broke down a home with his treacherous ways, Daniel Websie has no peer in interperating constitutional law, yet he got much of his in-spiration from the glass before him,

"Gambetta was the brilliant French statesman, yet was a reputed duelist, in the conference, Others have projected pure and worthy influences. Joseph, under his tempta-tions; Luther, at the church council that condemned him: Faul on the way to prison, said he, had fought a good fight. The doctor also said that there must be a country before there could be lasting influences projected by the church. To formulate it Crant never blundered into Richmond; Sherman was no straggler, when he left Atlanta to find the sea; Sheridan and Shenandoah have a history. Jesus must needs children, bidding them to comfort the grief-stricken mother. The hymn, "Peace, Peace, Wonderful Peace," was sung by Revs. J. H. Race. Stephen Jay and J. L. Thomas, after which Eishop Vincent said that he classed the decensed as one who lived in a refined world of lofty ideals and Christian manhood. The departed is always before than the best thought we New York, April 1.-Operators at the Stock Exchange were waiting all day for the action of the directors of the Ameri-can Tobacco company on the dividend matter. The presiding eld-ers occupied seats inside of the altar, while in the center of the platform sat, Bishop Vincent, on the right Dr. Sprague, and on the left Rev. Austin Griffin. The sad services began with the singing, the congregation uniting in the old and favorite hymn, "My Lord Thy Will be Done," read by Presiding Elder Eckman

READING OF THE PSALMS. Presiding Elder Van Cleft read the thirty-eighth pealm, after which Pre-siding Elder Thorpe read the ninetieth psaim. This was followed by Presiding Elder Forsyth, who read a portion of I Corinthians, xv. Bishop Vincent announced as the next hymn "Nearer My God to Thee." Remarks were made upon the memory of the deceased brother by President Sprague. He said that the work of My Woodm & hea head that the work of Mr. Woodruff has been finish d, and it would seem to be a plan that appeals to our Christian under standing that this warrior should be taken at this time. We cannot understand why death comes, but we mus remember that God is the author of this dispensation. Although dead, he did not believe Mr. Woodruff had gone, but that his spirit was present and would influence the lives of those that re-
