VALUABLE HORSES BURNED. Animals Owned by Alonzo McDonald Perish in Flames.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 5.—Fire at the driving stable last night destroyed valuable horses owned by Alonzo McDonald, the well-known trainer, and twenty valuable horses were burned to death. The fire was caused by the explosion of an oil stove in one of the cleaners' rooms.

There were thirty horses in McDonald's string, most of which arrived last Thursday from the State of Ohio. C. J. Hamlin and were valued at $10,000. The losses on the horses is estimated at about $75,000.

The horses were burned by a fire that started in the stable at about 11 o'clock. The fire spread rapidly and the horses were unable to escape. The loss is a crushing one to McDonald, as there was not a dollar of insurance on any of his property. So far as known the horses burned were all without insurance.

FOR REFORM IN BANKING

Recommendations in Report of the State Commissioner.

PLAN TO TAX FOREIGN SCHEMES

Commissioner Suggests That Fees Should Be Increased to Make the Banking Department Self-Sustaining--Other Suggestions

Harrisburg, Pa., April 5.—The first annual report of the state banking commissioner will be issued in a few days. It gives the condition of the various banking institutions throughout the state, and shows the advantages that have accrued to these and the business world through the reorganization of the banking department a year ago.

Over a thousand associations have thus far reported to the department. The Commissioner, Gilkeson, thinks the foreign associations should be compelled to pay larger fees for the privilege of doing business in the state, and he suggests that the next legislature should take hold of the subject of building and loan associations vigorously.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS. The following is a summary of the commissioner's recommendations: First.—That the applications for charter of trust companies and other financial institutions should be submitted to the commissioner for his approval.

Second.—That no institution should be permitted to make loans upon the security of the individual capacity of directors of trust companies and other financial institutions should, unless named in the act, be incorporated in the same, be fixed by law.

Fourth.—That a fixed percentage of cash or proportion of deposits should be required to be kept in the vaults of banks, trust companies, etc., and called the reserve.

Seventh.—That all corporations having power to receive and administer trusts should be required to invest permanently a definite percentage of each dividend declared as a reserve for the benefit of the trust committed to their custody.

Eighth.—That foreign corporations conducting business in this state should be required to file in the department and applying for authority to transact business within the state should file in their individual capacities for banking for his approval.

Ninth.—That no individual, firm or institution should be permitted to act in the conduct of banking business any name, sign or device resembling in any way that of a bank or other financial institution.

Tenth.—That a uniform rule for all institutions be established, requiring that any interest remains unpaid should be permitted to be carried as an available asset.

Eleventh.—In addition to the examination of the books of directors in this department, there should be a general license imposed for the privilege of doing business in their individual capacities.

Twelfth.—That all building and loan associations should be required to register under the supervision of the banking department and the names and postoffice addresses of the officers thereof, and that when such a change of officers occurs, a full list should be filed in this department stating that fact.

M'KINLEY'S CLAIMS. The Boomers Calculate That He Can Rally 450 Delegates by May 1st.

Washington, April 5.—General Grosvenor, of Ohio, tonight recapitulated the statistics of the boomers who are contending for the nomination of McKinley at the St. Louis convention whom he claimed for Major McKinley.

The table is as follows: Alabama, 12; Arizona, 16; Florida, 2; Georgia, 17; Illinois, 8; Indiana, 26; Kansas, 20; Louisiana, 8; Minnesota, 18; Mississippi, 18; Missouri, 19; Nebraska, 2; New Jersey, 2; New York, 4; Ohio, 46; Pennsylvania, 2; South Carolina, 2; South Dakota, 8; Texas, 12; Virginia, 2; West Virginia, 2; Wisconsin, 24; Indian Territory, 2; New Mexico, 4; Oklahoma, 4; total, 275.

"I continued," said General Grosvenor, "to count the unselected delegates in Ohio and Indiana, which recouped the difference between the New York Tribune's figures and mine by the addition of twenty-four. My claims in Texas, Oklahoma and South Carolina are based on those of the boomers, and will be little under the actual result.

The present week will not be an interesting one as far as state conventions are concerned, as only one is to be held being those of South Carolina, Oregon and Rhode Island, but during the remainder of April there will be at least 17 delegates elected from McKinley, and the list of May will see the number of McKinley delegates easily 450. There will be elected thereafter delegates, so McKinley will receive quite a large per cent. of the reserve force. The pleasant feature of this whole business is the fact that these delegates already elected in a large part come from states who will furnish electoral votes to the Republican ticket."

BLAZE AT HONESDALE.

The Hennigan Block Consumed by Fire. Lewis Manger, a Fireman, Received Serious Injuries--Estimate of Losses.

Honesdale, Pa., April 5.—This place was visited by another disastrous fire on Saturday night at 12 o'clock. The Hennigan block on lower Main street, nearly opposite the Coyne house, the block was an enormous wood structure which was occupied by a merchant tailor; Chris Knehr, boots and shoes; James Soutman, restaurant; Charles Loercher, furniture; Joseph Knapp, clothing; Frank Crombach, grocery; William Kain, saloon, and Clark & Co., of Scranton, were temporarily in possession of one store with Easter plants. The second store of a portion of the block were occupied as residences.

Owing to the partial drawing off of the water in the canal basin, some difficulty was experienced in getting water. Lewis Manger, a fireman, was knocked down into the fire by a falling timber and his clothing catching fire he was seriously and perhaps fatally burned.

The losses will probably reach $150,000 and are partly covered by insurance, as follows: The Citizens' Fire Insurance Co., $100,000; Krantz, $10,000; Loercher, $10,000; Moll, $10,000; Croghan, $500; Kain, $500. The buildings on the opposite side of the street were badly scorched.

BUSH'S SHOCKING FATE.

A Young Man Impaled by the Limb of a Falling Tree.

Montrose, April 5.—On Friday afternoon Harrison Darrow, a farmer living about two miles east of Montrose, was killed by a falling tree. He was surprised and horror when in trimming the smaller branches to find a man named Bush, son of Caleb Bush, who he employed, impaled by a broken limb. Darrow cut away the branches as soon as possible and brought Bush to Montrose where Dr. Gardner, after a careful examination, pronounced him dead. It is supposed that death was instantaneous. Bush had been engaged in other work about the farm and Darrow did not know of his presence when the tree fell.

The fact that Bush was very deaf prevented him from hearing the creaking of the tree as it was about to fall, otherwise he would have had an opportunity to escape. The accident is beyond description.

MYSTERIES OF HYPNOTISM

Professor Baldwin on the Fakes of the Occult Science.

SOMNOMANCY AND MESMERISM

The White Mahatmas Create Lively Interest in Rochester--Why Baldwin Does Not Get Rich by Means of Mrs. Baldwin's Gift.

Rochester, April 5.—Professor Saml S. Baldwin and his wife, self-styled the "White Mahatmas," have been enlightening Rochester for a week and the great curiosity has been aroused by their performances. To a Democrat and Chronicle reporter Baldwin said: "Mrs. Baldwin is really in the hypnotic state when she gives the answers to the questions and the descriptions that seem to you so marvelous."

Professor Baldwin explained that he has no religious faith further than a belief in an all-prevailing force which he calls the life-spirit, and positively disclaims any belief in supernatural or spiritualistic manifestations. He claims simply to be a clever deceiver, with the right to resort to any trickery or chicanery to delude his spectators. He is, however, a firm believer in hypnotism and the startling results that may be attained by it. On the other hand he was yesterday free to confess that even after years of careful study of mesmerism, hypnotism, clairvoyance and kindred subjects, he was unable to grasp the principles, that he observed many phenomena for which he was at a loss to account. Then continuing with a laugh he said:

"So you didn't know where 'you were at' during the performance? There are a good many hundred thousand people in different parts of the globe that have shared the same delusion. The results that I attain are brought about through deception and sleight-of-hand, but not all. I utterly disclaim any faith in spiritualism whatever, nor that it is not real, but because in the course of my forty years of experience which has brought me into contact with many of the prominent so-called mediums of the last half century, I have never seen a manifestation that could not be duplicated by the skillful use of purely natural agencies. The most of the most miraculous feats of the eastern Mahatmas, the Indian Yogis and Gouros, the Gompas of Thibet, the Kenniths of Borneo, the fakirs, the Zulu witch doctors, and the Zulus know what not, and can now with the proper apparatus, I think, perform them again; at any rate I know how they are done."

MME. BLAVATSKY. "Then there is—or was—Madame Blavatsky. Almost every day of my life I am asked for my opinion of her. But why I should say this to a stranger I don't know, for, really, from a financial point of view—and I am a financial point of view—and I find that it is not wise to commit myself, for many believers in spiritualism and scoffers at hypnotism who are not so much, and who know what not, and can now with the proper apparatus, I think, perform them again; at any rate I know how they are done."

"But, to return to Madame Blavatsky, I hesitate to express myself strongly lest I be misunderstood and it be said that I am attacking her because she has passed into another state long since, and can not refute my declarations. I have no wish to vilify her. On the contrary, I have the greatest admiration for her genius and ability were so un doubted that no one could come in contact with her without being struck by her power, but she was from birth an enigma to herself and her friends. To me personally Madame Blavatsky was a most complex character. I feel quite sure that within her own mind she deemed herself absolutely honest. I am quite sure also that she thoroughly believed in theosophical doctrine about which she wrote so much, and which she sought to convert the world. I am fully convinced that she possessed absolute clairvoyant, mesmeric and magnetic powers, and that she believed she possessed far greater powers than she really did. I believe that many of her clairvoyant and hypo-magnetic manifestations were genuine. But I am not at all sure that her physical manifestations, such as the precipitation of letters and the production of astral bodies, were genuine phenomena. She was a self-devised deceiver. It is difficult to say that I believe whatever she did do to deceive her friends was not done from noble motives, nor did she deceive deliberately. But I believe that Madame Blavatsky was an enthusiast and in her own particular subject perhaps a monomaniac. Her work was done simply for the purpose of getting money. I am sure she believed and she believed the indirect means justifiable, though in later years, when many of the tricks were shown up, she regretted having resorted to this method."

THE HYPNOTIC STATE. "That is all very interesting. Professor Baldwin, but aren't you wandering from the point? What I would like to know, is how the hypnotic state is produced, and the results that you obtain from the subject are secured? Again the performer laughed and went on: "No, I'll get there in a little while. The longest way round is the shortest way home, so I may as well know. There are many side wires that have to be pulled to make what little I know of the subject clear. Perhaps I am in danger of being a little ahead of a time, though. I am so full of the subject that I could talk all night."

"It is only a few years ago, not more than twenty-five or thirty, at the most, when almost every one entered at mesmerism and hypnotism as being merely terms expressing a peculiar kind, or class, of humbug. Now almost every person, any intelligence, and even the existence of hypnotism and mesmeric forces. It is only a few years ago that nine hundred and ninety-nine medical and scientific men out of every thousand scoffed at these forces, as being purely hypothetical and fancied powers, which some misguided cranks imagined that they possessed. Now they are seriously admitted the reality of hypnotic and mesmeric powers and conditions. No one but an arrogant ignoramus will pretend that this day that cynicism is a fake. Hypnotism and mesmerism are not identical, though they have many points in common—but if I go into that, you will never get an answer to your question."

FOUR DEGREES.

"There are four stages or degrees of the mesmeric control. First the partial degree, in which the subject is imperfectly under the power of the operator. In this stage most of the mental faculties retain all or a great portion of their activity. Of the physical senses, the vision is unusually weakened or impaired. The eye is no longer under the control of the subject. Sometimes the sense of hearing also is affected. In the second, or deep stage, the mesmeric control is complete as far as
