WEST SIDE EVENTS.

Robert Morris Lodge to Organize a Literary Society—debate of St. Brendan Council—other News of the Day.

Robert Morris lodge will establish a literary society. The young men of the lodge are particularly interested in the proposition and plans have been outlined for the consummation of the organization. The next meeting night will determine the success of the movement. St. Brendan council will debate Thursday evening. Other literary features will be enjoyed. The speech of Attorney Michael McGee, one of its members at the Hyde Park Literary society's banquet was considered the most timely toast of the evening. The sentiment was excellent.

The members of the Hyde Park Literary and Debating society will meet this evening to hold a literary session. The success of Monday night's banquet has greatly accelerated the interest in the society. Each member of the society is especially requested to meet this evening.

THEY KISSED AND MADE UP.

Last night two Hungarians pummeled each other in the brick building at the corner of Seventh and Scranton streets. Five blows away the oaths and clash of steel could be heard. Lieutenant Williams and Patrolman Sals came upon the scene just as one Hun was about to exterminate the other. As soon as the bluecoats were in sight the two fighters rushed together, but this time with affection. They kissed and hugged and said nice things of each other. But the bluff was called, and when the police saw a dangerous nine-inch knife being waved near by they took the Huns to the station house.

BLOOD RUNS AT FELTZVILLE.

A wholesale fight was the chief episode of life in Feltzville yesterday. The foreign element of the place celebrated the day in a lively manner. They drank beer. Then as the sun set behind the Holden breaker a general fight began. Sticks in the hands of many men rested with force on many heads. Dr. Griffiths was called to dress one man's wounds. Late in the night the fight stopped.

followed by a sidewalk kiosk for every person and fruit stand, and the plain children on a rainy day can weigh his way through dressed boys, swinging banana bunches, varied by trips to the gutter to avoid hotel chairs and crowds jammed into portico out of the rain.
You intimate a personal hostility to Frothingham on the part of the council. This is an error. I believe on its merits the parties would be resolved in a vote in the council. If you wish to find and disseminate truth, publish a complete list of the owners of the Avenue and ask if the average citizen can discover why this impudent grab of city property has paralyzed the executive, voided the laws, and shaken up the legislative department of the city government and why such a dangerous fire-trap is allowed within the fire limits. You express the belief that many persons desire to see in council men who can rise above personal prejudices. This is good, but I think you will find, in the long run, more persons desire councilmen and executive officers who will make fair laws and enforce them on rich and poor alike without regard to their political or social standing. Men, for instance, who will not only arrest and fine a druggist like myself for a mortar on a hit-and-run, but will arrest the mighty editor of the Tribune himself for placing a big banner on the public walk to advertise his business, may be increased the city revenues twenty-five dollars for this and five dollars extra for every day that he tears off his banner and throws them in the street.

This city has lost its splendid interests in the ten-foot reservation by private greed and public indifference. It will not lose its sidewalks by the select council vote. As far as their power goes the laws will be enforced, and for the good of the town it is to be hoped that some journal in the city will realize that this is no longer a mining camp, but a city, and take off its collar and come to the assistance of its narrow-minded councilmen to enforce and uphold the law for and against all.
