HELPFUL DAY AT INSTITUTE

Many Addresses Which Aroused the Interest of the Teachers.

LAST SESSION THIS MORNING

Institute Will Adjourn Finally at Noon. Afternoon's Topics Reached the Fundamental Principles of Scientific and Successful Instruction.

Yesterday was the last day but one of the teachers' institute. The morning session opened with an invocation by Rev. Hugh Davis, of the Welsh Calvinistic Methodist church, of the West Side. Dr. Brumbaugh was the first speaker and he began with a humorous story which was not soon forgotten but seemed to keep the teachers very much interested in the session. His topic was "Geographical Concepts." Dr. Brumbaugh began by a comprehensive reference to the position New York city occupied as an international, a world-wide mart. He described its imports and exports, its great money exchange and then compared it with Liverpool and London. The English cities suggested English shipping interests and caused the speaker to deplore the lack of it in this country which is better equipped to build vessels of all kinds and to maintain the greatest navy in the world than any other nation. He drew a commercial lesson from the great consumption of food supplies in London.

Soon after 11 o'clock the primary teachers retired to the main parlor of the building where they were addressed by Miss McMillan on "Each pupil his own discoverer." She advocated permitting the young mind to be given reasonable scope in its peculiar child imagination.

Meanwhile in the hall Professor John U. Wagner, of the Scranton High school, discussed "Electricity." He elaborated on two points, the battery principle and the X rays. "Thought Getting" was the subject of Superintendent Coughlin, of Wilkes-Barre. His subject matter was practically an introduction to his afternoon address which appears in substance below. He emphasized the necessity of placing the child under the proper mental conditions with the same precision and thoroughness that a piece of delicate machinery is prepared for work peculiar to itself. Pupils, especially the young, must be in harmony with their work.

DR. WINSHIP'S TOPIC.
Dr. Winship's topic was "History." It was a subject dry and devoid of interest to a greater number than it fascinated, consequently the teacher's aim should be to make the study attractive. "Evangelism" was a history poem, but the history was concealed in such a subtle and masterful way by Longfellow that its benefits were received by the reader without being conscious of the concealment. Instructors cannot be Longfellow but in teaching history they can make the dry, but nevertheless important event, the pivot about which interesting and connecting but unimportant matters cluster. Thus the scholar's enthusiasm would be appealed to. Being an epoch, the hubs of accurate history scholars and they should be surrounded by some fascinating feature of historical study which will move the date as well as the feature of the scholar's mind.

The afternoon session was distinguished for the subject matter and the addresses of three addresses which merited and probably received more attention and careful consideration than has been suggested by any similar number of lectures during the institute. Apparently the afternoon's subjects were planned with the idea of presenting in theory the substantial facts which in fact are the basis of the teacher's vocation. Superintendent Coughlin's lecture toward making the teacher's vocation easier for her and more valuable to pupils.

The lectures were Dr. Brumbaugh, Superintendent Coughlin, of Wilkes-Barre, and Dr. Winship, and their respective topics were "Geographical Concepts," a continuation of the morning lecture, "Tests of Knowledge" and "The Teacher's Reading." The former was of a nature of geographical information and comparison, and the other addressed served respectively to make the fundamental principles of the subject and the object of proper reading.

DR. BRUMBAUGH'S METHOD.
What Dr. Brumbaugh said was not of more importance than his ingenious way of saying it. He gave a fund of valuable information about China, Japan and the South American countries, facts suggested by most correct knowledge of geography, but which are not generally known among the teachers and of which the latter are wholly ignorant. He explained many facts and things peculiarly distinctive of the countries under consideration, and made himself clearly understood as a method of comparison. Inventions and modern ideas, he said, were working rapid changes in everything and absolute reliance could not be rested upon any geography except in its information as to area and topography.

Superintendent Coughlin's lecture served to show that correct recitations do not consist in mere correct knowledge. Knowing what words mean is one of the most essential elements of study and thought. This knowledge, if only half obtained, will bring about a relation between the definition and the thought expressed. A selection committed to memory is useless unless the person has a knowledge of the thought. Giving correct answers is not getting correct education. In this connection the successful teacher is one who detects what the child does not know, but ought to know. Children may commit to memory, may recite to you correctly, but may not have knowledge. A knowledge of what words mean is the foundation of thought and knowledge itself. You may drill and drill a child on bank discount, but what is the gain if the little ones do not know what "bank discount" means. In geometry, for instance, it may be learned almost as easily from the proper understanding of the proposition and diagram as from the actual figures.

MEANING OF WORDS.
Knowing what words mean is an absolutely necessary fundamental knowledge to any kind of study. The young should be educated to see and think accurately. The foundation in the concrete is careful observation; then comes comparison which does more to impress a fact on the mind and make it thoroughly understood than the mechanical and arbitrary working out of the thing. Analysis is the next step. A proposition which is understood in only a portion of its parts will be by the chain of parts and facts bring about a knowledge of the whole. The whole, perhaps, is forgotten; then will be found the importance of analysis. The defective memory will recall one or more of the parts which will themselves suggest the whole.

Dr. Winship had only twenty minutes at his command, but in that time he succeeded in impressing many important hints as to the proper kind and method of reading for a teacher. Each profession and class of people have their peculiar reading manner and matter, the kind suitable for them. The lawyer reads precedent; the doctor reads new things in his profession; the minister reads everything and with undue combativeness or sympathy according to his and the author's views; the editor reads for the present and future and fortifies himself to assume a policy or position on momentous questions at a day's notice. The teacher should, as a basis, read for information concerning present and past methods of teaching.

The teacher's reading should be along

CITY ENGINEER'S REPORT

It Contains Some Very Excellent Recommendations.

AN INTERESTING DOCUMENT

Mr. Phillips Advances a New Idea in Sewer Contracts and Advises That a New City Map Be Completed. Work of the Fiscal Year.

City Engineer Joseph P. Phillips' annual report for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1895, was last night submitted to council. Summarized, it is as follows: I have the honor to submit my third annual report for the fiscal year just completed. The past year has been an unusually busy one for this department, due in a measure to the construction of two large bridges of unusual size and importance, the work of which has extended over a period of about eighteen months. The following is a general statement of the estimated cost of the different improvements, classified under their different heads for which the department prepared plans, specifications and estimates of cost, as directed by some eight-four or more concurrent resolutions served upon us during the year:

TWO CASES SETTLED.
Amicable Adjustment of Actions to Recover Damages.
Attorneys M. W. Lowry and George D. Taylor for the plaintiff, and Hon. W. W. Watson and W. S. Dehl, esq., for the defendant, in the trespass suit of John T. Schaeffer against the Most Jealous Coal company, held a conference yesterday morning and agreed upon a settlement. The plaintiff sued for $1,000, and by the terms of the settlement received $300.

The trespass suit of James McGinnis against the Scranton Stone works for personal injuries received was settled by mutual agreement. The defendant will pay the plaintiff the sum of $250 and will settle all the costs. When this case was disposed of court in the main room adjourned for the remainder of the day.

In No. 2 before Judge Archbald, the damages suit for $5,000 of Peter Kelley, executor of James Kelley, against Anthony O'Hara, was on trial all day and will take up today also. The evidence on the plaintiff's side was to show that a stone wall had been built between the two properties by the plaintiff to prevent the water after rains and thaws from flooding his premises and that O'Hara took the trouble of filling up and on his side of the wall so as to make the level of the lot even with the top of the wall and thereby made the wall useless. It was also a part of the plaintiff's case that damages were sustained for the reason that he could get no tenant to inhabit his houses, there being three of them on the lot, on account of the unsanitary condition from the stagnant water in the cellar.

FENCE POST TROUBLE.

North Abington Neighbors Deeply Entangled in the Law.

Action for $2,000 damages was begun in the city office of Prothonotary Frey yesterday by Andrew S. Meyers against William P. Litts. Attorney C. H. Soper represents the plaintiff. The parties live in Abington and on April 25, 1895, Mr. Litts had a warrant sworn out before Justice of the peace A. A. Nichols for Mr. Meyers on the charge of stealing fence posts.

A hearing on the warrant was given Mr. Meyers two days later and in default of bail he was sent to the county jail, where he remained until the next day when he gave bail in the sum of $300 before Judge Archbald. When the case was called before the grand jury Mr. Litts did not appear and the bill was ignored. He is charged with having expressed in the presence of several persons the satisfaction of having sent Mr. Meyers to jail for thirty hours.

The latter claims that it was a case of malicious prosecution and trumped up only for the purpose of ruining him in his business. He is a farmer and sells milk which yields him a revenue of $1,000 a year. His business, he says, has suffered from the charge made against him.

Boys for Adoption.

Summer or permanent homes are wanted for a number of healthy boys who are now inmates of the Home for the Friendless. Inquiries should be addressed to Mrs. E. H. Rippe or to the Home, on Adams avenue.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

At the Academy of Music this evening "Rice's" company will be seen in "1892." Good scenic effects and elaborate costumes predominate in the production. New faces will be seen in many of the characters, but in no case will the individual excellence be permitted to disfigure from the standard by which Mr. Rice has heretofore gained the hearty approbation of the public from Maine to California.

No more successful opera has ever been written than "Robin Hood." It has stood the test of years and still possesses the same charm and potency as when first presented. The humor of Barnabas as the Sheriff of Nottingham, the splendid song of "Brown October Ale," as sung by McDonald; the uproarious singing in the swelling tones of Eugene Cowley; that delicious romance, "Oh Promise Me," in all its power and pathos, and most charmingly sung by Jessie Bartlett Davis, together with the serenade by "Robin Hood" and the bird song of Mald Marion, in which Helen Bertram Henley has no peer, are features not to be easily discounted by those who love pretentious and at the same time popular and pleasing melody. This great company will be the attraction at the Academy of Music Saturday night.

There will be a grand concert at College hall, Wyoming avenue, Tuesday evening, April 14, at 8 o'clock, under the direction of Professor Pennington, organist Elm Park church, assisted by talented artists. Tickets on sale at Conrad's, 305 Lackawanna avenue, and F. P. Christian's, Spruce street.

THE PEOPLE BELIEVE that they read about Hood's Sarsaparilla. They know that it is an honest medicine, and that it cures disease. That is why you should only get Hood's.

HOOD'S PILLS cure all liver ills, relieve constipation and assist digestion.

was that a new map of the city be made. The present map is far from being accurate, as it was made from a collection of property maps which are often contradictory and never too reliable, as the majority of them were made when surveyors in this region were not overly particular, as a rod of land in those days was not of as much account as a foot of land is now; and, besides, the science of surveying was at the best crude as compared with modern surveying.

Accompanying the report are twenty tables showing in detail the work of the department during the year, including four pages of a report of cement tests. With the exception of the paragraph relating to himself, P. W. Costello penned the report. To say that it is a model of neat penmanship is superfluous.

THE BEST RECOMMENDATION.
What is admittedly the best recommendation contained in the report was that when contracts are awarded for sewerage that they be made to include house connections as far as the curb and the efficacy of which is readily apparent. There are at present, according to the report, 140.82 miles of traveled street in the city, and only 20.08 miles of sewers, so it can be seen it is not too late to adopt the suggestion.

DO YOU NEED NEW DISHES AND OVERCOATS

If so, it won't pay you to shop around, buy odd pieces here and there, foot up what you have paid and you find it cost you more for a job lot than you would have to pay us for a neat, decorated, open stock pattern that you can match at any time. You don't have to buy the whole set at one time. A few pieces now, a few pieces another time and you have a complete set at no extra cost. Others find it pays; you will if you try it.
