"1492" AT THE ACADEMY. ft Pleased a Large Audience of That Place Last Night.

Place Last Night.

Hice's company produced "1492" at the Academy of Music last night before a large audience that hugely enjoyed the many enjoyable features of the extra vaganza. Walter Jones' old role Ferdinand, King of Spain, was acceptably portrayed by John' Keefe and Mark Smith was seen in the role of Queen Isabella which has made Richard Harlow famous.

During the second act entertaining specialties were introduced by Zelma Rawiston, Canier Behr, Dan Riley, John Keefe and Tom Browne. The latter is one of the best whistlers ever

John Keefe and Tom Browne. The latter is one of the best whistlers ever heard in this city.

The policy of those at the "1492" is to keep it bright and up-to-date and as presented at the Academy last night it has a long career ahead of it. Those who predicted when it was first staged that it would prove short-lived proved bad propnets.
