ABLE ADDRESS BY DR. GROFF

He Would Eliminate the Study of Physi ology and Anatomy from the Schools and Substitute Instruction in Hygiene-Professor Taylor's Paper.

The second semi-annual convention of the associated boards of health of Lackawanna county took place yester-day in the Scranton board of health rooms in city hall. Sanitarians from all over the county were present, represent-ing the health boards of Scranton, Dun-Members of the Scranton lodge of Elks and their friends to the number more, Taylor, Jermyn, Blakely, Win-ton, Dickson and Elmhurst. Dr. Geo. of about 150 attended an unusually enloyable social session in the lodge rooms last night. Beginning at 10 o'clock a C. The convention was opened at 2 o'clock by Dr. J. K. Bentley, president of the associated boards, who in a brief manner reviewed the work of the past man of the evening. The programme and other features of the event were arranged by the following committee: F. W. Martin, W. J. Welchel, F. C. Hand and W. S. Gould. Music was furnished by Eauer's orchestra. The professional artists were Messrs. Plunkett, Brennan, Russell and Goss, of the "Madame Sans Gene" company, and Professor Zera, Mr. Kelly and George Ott, of the Carrie Louis company. Among the other performers were the Vail brothers, mandolin and guitar; D. E. Vail, recitations; Fred Smith, of the Wilkes-Barre lodge, vocal soloist; Colonel J. gentlemen of the Associated Boards of Health:—The duty of making visitors feel that they are welcome is one that is most pleasant, most graitfying. If all my labors were of so light a nature, the office of mayor would be a sinecure from which I would be most unwilling to depart at the expiration of my term. It gives me particularly great pleasure to welcome those who are associated for purposes affecting the public welfare. I know of no other association of so much real good to a community as that of a board of health. The establishment of these bodies, although of recent date, has already performed wonders in the way of sanitation. As I said in my inaugural message to the councils of Scranton, I am in favor of widening the scope of sanitary legislation and of increasing the powers of those entrusted with the execution of such laws and ordinances. I understand that the chief object of your organization is the accomplishment of a uniformity in sanitary regulations throughout Lackawanna county. This is at once Isudable and practical. Legislation to be of the greatest good to a community should be uniform. The several sections of this county are so united in interest that we should not be hampered by numerous, perplexing and widely differing laws I also heart. By approve of the other objects of your organization and promise you that I will render you every assistance which it may be in my power to afford. Once again, gentlemen, I, on behalf of the citizens of Scranton, give you a hearty welcome.

Miss Agnes Young, Miss Beatrice Howe, Miss Dora Goldwiate, Charles D. Odlyn, Robert Drouet, Alvin Drehle, Carroll Fleming and Manager I. Newton. The party was accompanied by Arthur Frothingham and P. A. Barrett.

A special car was provided by the Traction company which conveyed the party from the theater to the West Side. After the visit to the mine the special car was run to Dunmore over PROFESSOR TAYLOR'S TALK. PROFESSOR TAYLOR'S TALK.

Professor J. C. Taylor gave an interesting address on "Sanitary Condition of Schools," presenting some interesting data gleaned from his visits to the various schools of this county. He spoke encouragingly of the greater regard for proper sanitation and hygiene that is being manifested by the school boards and teachers. Out of the 253 school rooms visited by him only thirty could be found fault with in the matter fo lighting and ventilation and only twelve schools in the county are lo-fo lighting and ventilation and only twelve schools in the county are located on sites that could not be entirely approved of.

The subject of Dr. Groff's address was "School Hyglene." He treated it in a thoroughly practical and exhaustive manner and commanded the individual attention of the convention during the hour and thirty minutes taken up by his treatment of the subject. He addressed himself first to the parents then to the teachers, then to the school boards and finally to the boards of health, giving them in a practical and concise form the benefits of his twenty years of observation and study of the subject of caring for children during their school years. In the presence of a number of friends Miss Agnes Burke, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Burke, of Ninth street, was married at 5.30 o'clock last evening to William Sullivan, of Capouse avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. B. Whelan. Miss Burke was attired in a modish gown of old blue with trimmings of chiffon. She carried an ivory bound prayer book. Her maid was her sister. their school years.

He dwelt at some length on the idea, of which he is the recognized champion, and which he is frequently called upon to advance or defend in medical and school journals, that the study of anatomy and physiology should be eliminated from the schools and instruction in hygiene substituted, this instruction to be given by medical men. In discussing this subject afterwards Dr. A. E. Allen, health officer of this city, agreed with Dr. Groff in his contention that a knowledge of anatomy and physiology was not as necessary tention that a knowledge of analomy and physiology was not as necessary to the young pupil as a knowledge of the laws of hygicae. In his opinion physiology and anatomy were not only unnecessary but detrimental to the

DISCUSSING THE PAPERS. Dr. J. R. Murphy, of Dunmore, of-fered the suggestion that teachers should be instructed in hygiene. Dr. Bentley, Dr. Heath, Dr. Van Sickle, Dr. Bateson and several others also entered into the discussion provoked by the papers of Professor Taylor and by the papers of Professor Taylor and Dr. Groff. A vote of thanks was tendered the essayists and it was decided to have both papers printed and circulated throughout the state.

The report of the executive committee was then made by its chairman, Dr. S. D. Davis, of Jermyn. Dr. Davis reported that the executive commit-tee had visited the various boards of health throughout the county for the purpose of inducing those not connected with the organization to join and met with very great success. The boards of Archbald, Taylor, Jermyn, Scranton, Blakely, Winton, Elmhurst and Dickson have been enrolled during the year, and have paid their dues Mayfield has also joined. Carbondale and Dunmore have also promised to come in. Throop, Dalton, La Plume, Olyphant and Waverly have organized boards but have not as yet become af-fillated with the association. There are no boards organized in Gouldsboro and Glenburn boroughs.

The question as to whether a layman can act as health officer was discussed at length and the conclusion arrived at was that there was nothing in the law to prevent it, but it was not to be advised. Ex-Mayor Powderly, the organizer of the Scranton board of health, was introduced and told of how it was accomplished. In 1878, when the agitatroduced and told of now it was accomplished. In 1878, when the agitation for the organization of board was started, the state even did not realize the necessity of boards of bealth. The law read "a city of the third class may organize a board of health." There was yearly a "should" or "should" or "should" or "should it. was no "should" or "shall" about it. A recommendation sent to councils by the mayor that a board of health be organized was regarded by the city legislators as sort of a huge joke. Mr. Powderly made a visit to the councils and personally impressed upon them the necessity of such a move.

The additional offices that would be The additional offices that would be created rather than the councilmen's bellef that a board of health was a necessity finally brought about the establishment. A set of rules and regulations were drafted by Mr. Powderly and Doctor Allen, and active operations were begun. The people did not take kindly to the sanitary officers and about the only nulsance complained of was the board of health itself.

During the course of his remarks, Mr.

During the course of his remarks, Mr. Powderly advanced the suggestion that the associated boards of health should petition the legislature to dredge the Lackawanna, and also commended to the association the consideration of the system for the disposition of sewage and garbage adopted in Berlin, Los Angeles, Pullman, Me., and other places where the sewage is piped to waste land and transformed into fertilizing material. He also spoke about unsan-itary burials, advising against metalic caskets, which preserve the bodies in-stead of allowing them to return to the dust, whence they came, and suggest-ing the isolation of bodies of persons who die from communicable diseases.

who die from communicable diseases, to prevent the possibility of these bodies being disinterred when other graves are being dug, which has been proven to be dangerous to health.

Judge Edwards made a stirring speech, the burden of which was an arraignment of councils for their disregard of boards of health. The laws regulating the health of the public, he contended, are just as important as the laws for the protection of persons and property. The law is a thing of slow growth and formation, and the health laws, as compared with the other laws, are yet in their infancy. They, like the are yet in their infancy. They, like the others, will grow and in the near future, if not in this century then in the early part of the next, will receive pro-portionately the consideration due

TREATMENT OF THE BOARD. He was thankful, he said, that he invited to address the vention if for no other reason than that it had opened his eyes to the shameful treatment which the board of health of this city receives at the hands of the councils. The eminent councils in their wisdom, prudence and sagacity, had appropriated this year $50,000 for protection, $36,000 for fire protec-$48,000 for electric lights; the police tion, county, last year, spent $21,000 caring for prisoners who were criminals pri-marily because of their diregard, the laws of health, and the expenses of the court house for the dispensing of justice were $57,000. The board of health this year received an appropriation of $6,650, just enough to decently take care of the pig pens. "I am glad to be here," he continued, with an earnestness that could not be mistaken, "that I may personally and as a representative of the bench of Lackawanna county, raise my voice to wake up the conscience of the people against this lamentable condition and to rouse their interest in the gospel of health." A burst of hearty applause followed the judge's words, and both he and Mr. Powderly were tendered a vote of thanks.

Short addresses were also delivered by Dr. H. D. Gardner, president of the Lackawanna County Medical society; Dr. P. F. Gunster and Dr. L. S. Barnes. Dr. Van Sickle read an interesting paper on the history of the sanitary movement in the state and this county, which showed him to be thoroughly conversant with the subject. Adjournment was made until the second Tuesday in October.

In response to a call from friends of the supposed small-pox patients at Jessup and also from a number of leading citizens of the town Dr. John O'Malley, of this city, yesterday made an investigation of the cases. After a thorough examination ho unhesitatingly announced that there was not the slightest indication of small-pox and that parties supposed to be affected are in perfect heaith.

This will doubtless be a great relief to the people of town who have been flurried by the scare during the past few days, many men being unable to go to work and children being kept from the schools. The health authorities of Jessup were prompted to quarantine the people and placard their house through a telegram from Dr. Benjamin Lee, secretary of the state board of health, who merely notified them that there was a case of varaloid on the steamer which these emigrants came on and that they should be watched for a time so as to make sure that they had not contracted the disease.

The possibilities of trade are simply wonderful when such novelties and values are represented. All new goods, no old stock, with our facilities for buying it would be worse than folly to deal in trash. That's when good management shows itself, and no day without something newer and more tempting. That's why this store will always lead.

We have twice over what any other store in Scranton can show, and we question whether any stock anywhere represents better values for the money.
