to Make Returns.

The board of health is again after the clergymen and magistrates who neglect to make returns of marriages.

It is very important to the board of health for many reasons that a fairly accurate account be kept of the marriages which take place in the city. Those who have the power of performing these marriages evidently regard it of no consequence, for with but few exceptions the clergymen and aldermen totally disregard the law or obey it when the humor suits them.

Kelly is a shiftless fellow, who, according to the story of Mrs. Duggan, agent of the board, works about one day out of every 365. His wife is dead, and his oldest boy, aged 17, is sickly. SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY.

Lewis, Reilly & Davies Pass Another Milestone of Prosperity. Lewis, Reilly & Davies, the well-known shoe firm, celebrated the seventh anniversary of their partnership yesterday. The growth of this popular firm has been in accord with the enterprise of the Electric city. From a modest single store on Wyoming avenue the firm has been obliged by increased trade to double their store room and now occupy two handsome. The bicycle fad, although in this case it seems to be entitled to some more substantial name than "fad." has among the hill's society folk assumed extensive proportions and this fact is one which militated much in inducing the gentlemen mentioned to take the steps they have in establishing an open air club. A very large number of young ladies and young men, and not a few of the younger married set, have taken to the wheel. The number became so great that a bicycle club was proposed and the idea was carried out Thursday evening at the home of James Archbald on Jeferson avenue. About sixty persons were present. their prosperity.

As usual the firm will continue to keep a full assortment of the finest shoes for ladies, gentlemen and children, and their store will be among the model shoe emporiums in Scranton.

The club proposes to take regularly scheduled, as impromptu, runs during the season. This bleycle set and tennis people will be the controlling element of the proposed country club. While the latter seem to be in the minority nearly all of them have taken to the wheel, which indicates that the new club idea, the bleycle craze and the tennis party will all combine toward the country club scheme. It certainly seems bound to be brought to an affirmative issue. F. E. Clark, who will lecture next Thursday in the Frothingham theater, will meet this evening in the Young Men's Christian association building and perfect final arrangements. Dr. Clark is expected to arrive on the 2.55 p. m. Jersey Central train. The committee will accompany the lecturer to the Hotel Jermyn and show him about the city during the afternoon. In the evening after the lecture he will be tendered a public reception in the Young Men's Christian association building.

BULLET WAS IN HIS HEAD

James Mangan Carried It About for Twelve Years.

MISSILE IS NOW RECOVERED

Vas Shot by Sexton Thomas Rell, of the Hyde Park Catholic Cemetery. With a Flobert Rifle on Sept. 3, 1883.

Twelve years ago James Mangan was shot in the head with a No. 1 bullet from a Flohert rifle; he carried the missile inside his head ever since until last Sunday, when he felt an itching sensation attended with not a little pain in the left nostril. He picked at the spot and was rewarded by extracting a substance as large as a marble The outer tissue was of a hard, cartilaginous substance, and inside it was the bullet flattened into an oblong shape.

After the bullet came out, blood flowed from his nose for a quarter of an hour, but it stopped then and has not started since, and now he feels much relieved physically and mentally from the absence of the messenger of death that kept him company so long. He has the builett and will keep it as long as he lives, as a memento. Speaking to a Tribune reporter last night he said that he had always worried greatly that as long as the bullet was in his head, he was in danger of dropping dead without warning.

On Sept. 3, 1883, Mr. Mangan was strolling in the neighborhood of the Hyde Park Catholic cemetery in company with a young woman. Thomas Riel, sexton of the grave yard, was out shooting sparrows with a Flobert gun. and he shot Mr. Mangan. The bullet penetrated the left side of the head at the point of the ear and entered the skull between the temporal and parietal

BEREFT OF REASON.

For several weeks Mr. Mangan hov-ered between life and death, and when his condition passed the danger point and he convalesced, his reason was de-throned. For two years his mind was affected, but at the end of that time he began to recover and after the lapse of two years he became restored as well as ever, and was able to remember in-cidents in his life up to the time of the accident. Everything for two years after it, however, was, and is now,

The right side of his body is partially paralyzed. He walks with a halting step and his right arm is almost poweriess, but he is not devoid of feeling altogether on that side. The paralysis does not extend above the shoulder and has not affected the muscles of the neck or face. When the accident happened he was a young man about attaining his majority. He is now stout and muscular, and though he is not as tall as medium height he weighs nearly 170 pounds, and enjoys very good health. He has been engaged for two years and six months past conducting a confectionery and cigar store at 401 Stone avenue in the Twelfth ward.

COURSE OF THE BULLET. Mr. Mangan said last night that for years he was frequently troubled with pains in his head and earaches. Buzzing noises annoyed him very often and sometimes he became almost deaf. He ascribed it all to the presence of the bullet. The doctors had made no effort to probe for it for fear of injuring the

He has not talked of the case to many and felt averse to raking up the facts connected with the accident.

IT WAS AN INDIAN SONG. Sexton Riel was tried in court for the sexton free was tried in court for the shooting and was acquitted. He claimed that he heard a woman scream and believing her to be in need of as-sistance rushed to defend her and shot Mangan. The woman was a witness in the case and she testified that what Mr. Riel mistook for a scream from her was nothing more than an Indian song she was chanting. He was not familiar with such melody, or this story would never have been written.

ACCIDENT TO A CORPSE.

Candle Was Upset and Set Fire to the Canopy. Mary Smith, a young Polish woman of Parker street, died at her home Thursday morning, and Undertaker

Jones was sent for to prepare the re-mains for burial. The body was wrapped in a shroud and placed on an indertaker's board in the front room of the house. The board was covered with a canopy and at the head stood a small table, on which was a candle in a bottle. The bottle burst and the candle set fire to the tablecloth and from that the shroud caught, but before the fire had left any traces on the body, except a slight scorch on one of the fingers and an other on thehead, it was extinguished The circulated report that Undertaker lones was in the room at the time and that the body narrowly escaped incinration was grossly exaggerated.

Ward.

Constable Patrick Roach, of the Seventh ward, went to the house of Marion and Rose Monzilora at 316 Raymond court Thursday to serve a warrant which charged them with assault and battery on Louis Johnson.

When the door was opened in response to the constable's knock Monzilora stood in the entrance with a self-cocking 33-caliber revolver in his hand. The constable strode backwards a few steps, showed his star and induced Manzilora to lower his shooting iron.

He then placed his man under arrest. Alderman De Lacy held him in $200 bail on the charge of assault and battery and $300 on a charge of attempting to shoot an officer. Monzilora was not able to furnish bail and was committed to jail.

WALKER WHITESIDE'S HAMLET.

WALKER WHITESIDE'S HAMLET.

Walker Whiteside was seen at the Frothingham last evening in "Hamlet." With Edwin Booth's Hamlet still a vivid reality in the minds of theater-goers it is difficult for any other actor to win a warm place in the regard of the public in that role, more especially if the one who attempts so to do is a very young man, as is Mr. Whiteside. It requires no little hardihood for a young man to essay the metancholy prince and the explanation for Mr. Whiteside's action may be found in the fact that he comes from the west, where ambition and confidence are as boundless as its practices.

Not a few in the rather small audience that saw him last night expected to see a Hamlet that would do violence to the best traditions. They expected a modernized Hamlet, but they were disappointed. Mr. Whiteside's conception of the character does not differ radically from that of the great actors who have been his predecessors in it. The modernizing consists of presenting it in accordance with the ideas of stage aft that prevail today.

Mr. Whiteside is not only a young man, but a rather small one in stature as well; somewhat of the height of Edwin Hooth, but with less breadth of shoulders. In appearance he is a good counterfeit of the accepted Hamlet. His voice is not robust, but possesses an intense quality that imparts force and carnestness to his lines. His facial expressin is too studied, but he has a good stage present, and in manner is free and unconscious of self. One of his greatest defects is his enunciation, which, in the more excited passages, leaves his hearers in a maze of doubt as to what he is saying.

The Hamilet of this young man deserves to be taken seriously. It is not a master effort, but it shows hard, painstaking study and talent of more than an ordinary nature. Time should improve it.

His support was not what it might have been, although there were several rather clover persons in the company. Miss Lelia Wolston is a rather corpulent Ophelia and not quite the ideal of theater-goers for

What a silly thing it is to attempt to conduct any business, be it millinery, clothing, real estate or any line of legitimate trade upon the assumption that your patrons, whose trade you solicit, are to be creatures entirely bereft of interest. You can depend upon it when cheap prices are advertised the articles so advertised are cheap or out of date. Perhaps such advertising "pays," but that is not the kind we do. We are selling millinery upon the basis of a permanent and constantly increasing trade—to make it an advertising medium by itself, and as we stated in our first "ad," which was our bow to the public—and we state it again.
