REGISTERED TAX SALE

Another Attempt is Going to be Made to Have One Held.

THE PROVISIONS OF THE LAW

Sets Forth Why and in What Manner the Sales Shall be Conducted—Attempt to Have a Sale Last Year Was Unsuccessful.

Another attempt to order a registered tax sale is about to be made. Inquiries into this matter have been made by councilmen who have taken the affair in hand, and yesterday a report of the condition of this account was completed.

As a great many people, especially those who always promptly pay their taxes never have occasion to learn the provisions of the law which govern the sale of real estate, it is well to explain them.

TO AVOID A SALE.

The other way is by request of the property owner and consent of councilmen. This method is resorted to by people who wish to avoid a sale.

How some people have profited by this registration business is best attested by the statement that there has not been a general treasurer's sale since 1872.

FAILED LAST YEAR.

An attempt was made last year to order a general sale, but it failed through the unwillingness of the councilmen to be party to such an unpopular move.
