VERY QUEER GAME.

Russell Jones Shoots a Mink on the River It is rather queer to find mink and other animals which were supposed to have disappeared from this vicinity years ago living in a wild state in the very heart of the city. Nevertheless, there are many muskrats and at least one mink, which up to yesterday lived and prospered on the banks of the Lackawanna, between the Salem avenue and Sixth avenue bridges.

Yesterday morning Russell Jones discovered a small animal running along covered a small animal running along the bank of the river back of Frank Walsh's barn, and at once set out after it with a rifle. He managed to get a shot at it and soon ended its career. Upon examination it proved to be a mink. It is about a foot long, and seems to have lived well. Mr. Jones is quite proud of his capture and will have the animal stuffed.

JERMYN. Thursday morning, a little before 2 o'clock, the nlarm of fire was sounded by the Delaware and Hudson whistle and in a very short time Crystal Hose company responded and located the fire as being in the general hardware store of Erk brothers on Main street. Two streams of water were turned upon the building and after a hard struggle the flames were extinguished. The inside of the store was badly charred and blackened and the stock intured by blackened and the stock injured by water and the flames. The building and stock were insured. The origin of the fire is a mystery although those familiar with the facts claim it to be the work of incendiaries. Mr. Erk, who lives in rooms above the store, was awakened by the explosion of gun-powder, which he kept in stock, and found the flames breaking into the apartments upstairs. This was the first discovery of the fire. The building is owned by J. B. Neilson, of Honesdale, and is stituted in the senter of alarm. and is situated in the center of a large block, which would have made a very disastrous fire but for the timely arrival and efficient work of the fire com-pany. Work will be commenced at once to repair the building and in a short time will be opened for business.

To the prompt discovery of her mistake and the immediate measures of physicians, is due the fact that Miss S.

A. Santee, of 30 West Market street, was among the living last evening. Miss Santee and her sister occupy a fast at the number mentioned. About 12.30 both were about to sit down to dinner when Miss Santee remembered that she should take a teaspoonful of exlixir of gentian, and going to a side-board, she poured out the required quantity and swallowed it. The medicine tasted differently to that she had been taking and glancing at the label on the bottle, was herrified to discover that instead of clixir of gentian she had swallowed a teaspoonful of Fowler's solution of arsenic. She hurrledly ran out of the house and down to Dr. Taylor's office on Franklin street, where emetics were administered and she was sent home in a cab. Here Dr. Barney continued treatment and by hard work saved the young lady's life.

Big Crowd Disappointed at Not Seeing the Airing of Dirty Linen There was a jam in court room No. 1, Judge Lynch presiding, yesterday morning to hear the testimony in the rank Cartright bawdy house case. There was such a crowd of attorneys present that Judge Lynch ordered Court Crier Barnes to go to some furniture store and procure enough chairs to accommodate them. John F. Shea, esq., who appeared for Cartright, then stepped before the court and said his client wished to withdraw his pien of not guilty and enter a pien of guilty. Two minutes after this Barnes' work was not needed as the crowd vanished and half of the chairs in the enclosure and half of the chairs in the enclosure were empty. Such is human curiosity. Cartright was allowed to go on his bail and will be sentenced today.
