WILL BE ENFORCED.

Streets to be Kept Free from Papers and Sidewalks Free from Bicyclists.

The resolution against sweeping refuse onto paved streets was yesterday signed by Mayor Bailey. It is his intention to have this measure strictly enforced, as the street commissioner complains that he cannot keep the streets in presentable shape if after he spends the night cleaning them, store-keepers will in the early morning lit-ter them with papers and other sweep-ings.

The ordinance against bicycling on sidewalks will also be more carefully enforced hereafter. So many complaints come in against this nutsance that the mayor is compelled to take some steps to prevent it.

BANDLEY'S

Relatives Have Begun Proceedings to Break It.

REASON FOR THEIR ACTION

They Say Part of It at Least is Vold for Uncertainty - Names of the Alleged Heirs-Say They Are First Cousins.

Ever since the will of the late ex-Judge John Handley was admitted to probate by Register of Wills Hopkins Judge John Handley was admitted to probate by Register of Wills Hopkins there has been talk of a contest to have the will set aside. The contest materialized yesterday, when action was begun in behalf of the following, who claim to be first cousins of the late judge: Patrick Murphy, Togue, Me.; Henry Handley, Tacoma, Wash.; Martin Handley and Margaret McCullagh, Savannah, N. Y.; Henry Handley, South Butler, N. Y.; Margaret Colborn, John Handley, Eliza Sinnet, Bridget Handley, Anastatia Handley, County Wexford, Ireland; Eliza Sanders, Burkenhead, and John Handley, of the Isle of Wight, England.

J. H. Hubbell, of J. H. Hubbell & Co., of 399 Broadway, New York, is attorney for the heirs and next of kin of the late judge, and has retained Colonel George H. Starr, of New York city, and Jessups & Hand, of this city, to represent them in what promises to be a lengthy and important litigation, to determine their rights under the last will of the late Judge Handley.

The attorneys yesterday afternoon filed with Clerk Colborn, of the United States circuit court a bill in equity against General H. W. Palmer, Hon.

States circuit court a bill in equity against General H. W. Palmer, Hon. Lemuel Amerman and John T. Richards, as executors under the last will and testament of Judge Handley, asking that the will be declared void as to certain portions, and a decree be made that the heirs at law are entitled to the bulk of the property left by Judge

GROUNDS FOR CONTEST. They claim that the legacies of $25,-000 to the House of the Good Shepherd, $50,000 to St. Patrick's Orphan asylum, and $250,000 to the city of Winchester and some of the other smaller legacies are the only ones, if any, that can possibly stand, and that the rest of the property should go to the heirs at

The value of the personal property alone, as appraised by H. E. Paine, state appraiser for collateral inheritance tax, is more than sufficient to pay all of these legacies and all of the debts of the estate, and that all of the real estate and rentals of coal property should go to the heirs at law. They claim that the residuary clause in the will and the residuar to the city of Winchester for the purpose of erecting school houses for the education of the children of the poor is void for uncer-tainty and is invalid under the laws of the states of Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, where the real estate applicable to this clause is sit-estate applicable to this clause is sit-uated.

They claim there is no power in the city of Winchester to act as trustee for the purposes named in the will, and that the will is uncertain and contra-dictory in other respects. That if the provisions of the will are carried out it would give to the city of Winchester, a place of five thousand inhabitants. it would give to the city of Winchester, a place of five thousand inhabitants, a sum which at the time it would be paid over to the city of Winchester, namely in 1916, would amount, with accumulations, to about $1,800,000. That this sum under the terms of the will

FOR OTHER PURPOSES. The will expressly provides that this money shall be used for no other purpose and this would show conclusively that Judge Handley did not intend to appropriate any such amount for thi purpose. The heirs are also satisfied that there was no intention on the part of Judge Handley to disinherit them but that it was his intention to in-clude them as beneficiaries in schedule "A" which, for some cause, he failed to out with the names of the bene ciaries. Our readers remember that each item of Judge Handley's will was written on a separate sheet of paper and that schedule "A" was found detached from the other portions of the will, which itself was fastened loosely with red tape such as is generally used in law offices. The estate as shown by the appraisal made by Mr. Paine amounts a bout $1 400,000.

to about $1,400,000.

This bill involves the title to the Wyoming house and the Handley block on corner of Wyoming avenue and Spruce street in this city, lots on Penn avenue, coal lands in Blakely and Lackawanna townships, a tract of 15,000 acres of coal and timber lands in West Vir-ginia, a hotel at Winchester, Virginia, nd other property.

FUNERAL OF MRS. SMITH.

Remains Were Laid at Rost in the Com-Mrs. Catharine Smith, mother of Hon. P. P. Smith, was buried yesterday afternoon in Honesdale. The funeral services were conducted at St. Paul's church, in Green Ridge, in the morning. A colemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. John Griffin, of Carbondale. Rev. Father Griffin is a brother of Mrs. P. P. Smith. Rev. M. B. Donlan, of Dunmore, was deacon of the mass; Rev. J. I. Dunn, of Green Ridge, sub-deacon, and Rev. T. F. Coffey, of Carbondale, acted as master of ceremonies. Rev. T. J. Comerford, of Archbald, was in attendance also within the sanctuary. tery at Honesdale.

After the mass Rev. P. J. McManus, pastor of St. Paul's church, of which the deceased was a member, preached a beautiful sermon from the text of St.

Paul to Timothy, and took occasion to eulogize the character of the deceased, whom he deciared to be a pioneer in the sustenance of the gospel in this re-gion and reared a family that imbibed from her true ideas of Christianity.

The remains were taken on the 12 o'clock Delaware and Hudson train to Honesdale and were accompanied by many friends from this city, Honesdale, Carbondale, Pittston and Plymouth. The pall-bearers were: Edward Kelly, Patrick Griffin and Charles B. O'Neill, of Honesdale; T. J. Kelly, P. H. Con-ger and P. J. Messett, of Scranton.

DEATH OF JOHN FADDEN.

Was One of the Prominment Residents of O'vphant.

The funeral of the late John Fadden, of Olyphant, whose death was briefly noted in yesterday's Tribune, will take place from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Dennis Lawler, on Monday morning. A high mass of requiem will be sung in St. Patrick's church at 10 o'clock and interment will be in the Catholic cemetery in Dunmore. Mr. Fadden was born in the parish of Killmeany, County Mayo, Ireland, six-ty-eight years ago. He came to Ameri-ca in 1848 and settled in this valley. He assisted in the construction of the Delaware and Hudson and North branch canal and had charge of a force of men on the Delaware, Lackawanna branch canal and had charge of a force of men on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad until an explosion which permanently ruined his eyesight, forced him to quit work. Ex-Mayor John H. Fellows Presents a Sum of Money to the City.

IT WAS IN BANK THREE YEARS

When Mr. Fellows Went Out of Office There Wes $322.20 More in Bank to His Credit Than the Books Charged Ilim With.

Ex-Mayor John H. Fellows sent a check for $322.20 to City Treasurer C. G. Boland yesterday. The reason for so doing is explained in a letter which accompanied the check. The amount had lain in the Third National bank since Mr. Fellows went out of office as mayor of Scranton three years ago, and after diligent search in the dockets he has been unable to discover any record to account for the money.

He is not sure but his individual acrecord to account for the money.

He is not sure but his individual account may have not been enriched at some time or another when a like sum was deposited, and that it may have been credited to his account as mayor. Whether or not, he has decided to turn the money over to the city. The letter that came with the check is as follows:

lows:

Scranton, Pa., April 27, 1895.

C. G. Boland, City Treasurer.

Dear Sir:—When I retired from the office of mayor I found I had deposited to my credit as said mayor in the Third National bank of this city a balance-amounting to the sum of $22.20. I knew not how or from whence the balance came, as it was a surplus, and I, of course, did not want to touch the same until I could, if possible satisfy myself who the sum belonged to. I have waited for some time and have had the hearing docket examined without becoming any wiser.

Now, not knowing that the sum is mine, or not being certain that it is, I have concluded that if I have mixed my funds erroneously with the city's I must be the sufferer, so I herewith inclose you my check for the sum of $22.20 the said balance.

Over one hundred persons were denied admission to the entertainment of the Literary association of the Scranton Business college last night. These had to wait until the programme was over and then they enjoyed the social over the sum of $7.82.

Check for the sum of $2.22.

I can account for it in but two ways, one of which is that I might have inadvertently mixed my individual funds with the official fund, and the other is that there may have been paid in fines to the officers in my absence and not entered upon the hearing docket, but the same was put in the till and deposited in the bank to my credit as mayor.
