JAMES HIGGINS BURIED.

Rev. J. J. Griffin Celebrates Requiem High Mass.

Saturday morning at 9.30 the body of James Higgins, who died last Wed-nesday, was placed in its last resting place. Requiem high mass was cele-brated at St. Rose's church, Rev. J. J. Griffin being celebrant.

Father Griffin's sermon was a most eloquent and touching one. He told of the high character of the deceased and the upright Christian life he had led. During his suffering he had been pahis strong faith in the Master giving him strength and courage. He spoke many words of comfort to the sereaved family.

The funeral cortege was very large. and the large auditorium of St. Rose's church was filled with friends of the deceased. Many floral offerings were sent. Those who bore the body to the grave were Thomas Walsh, James Brown, Michael Loftus, John McDon-ald, Patrick Casey and Anthony Walsh.

Midvale Hotel is Not Over. The court room was filled with spec tators yesterday morning, assembled principally to hear the sentence im-posed upon James A. The latter was notified of the theft and went at once to the office of Justice McCwen and swere out a warrant for the arrest of Hoffman and this was placed in the hands of Constable James McManus, who caught Hoffman as he stanced who caught Hoffman as he stepped from the carriage after his work was over. To oblige Hoffman, the constable went with him to his boarding house so that he might change his clothes. Arriving there, the boarding boss and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pokivits, invited McManus into a room to talk matters over while Hoffman was chang-

They were very sociable and made it quite pleasant for the constable. Finally the latter thought he had given his prisoner sufficient time and arose to hunt him up. Going to the kitchen he saw a window raised and a subse-quent search of the house revealed that Ho man had given him the slip. warrant was then sworn out for the arrest of Yorkovits and his wife, and they were taken before Justice Mc-Owen, who fined them $15. At any rate, right of way settlements are being negotiated, and judging from the great number of foreign laborers that are gathering at and near Dallas, the word must have gone out to pre-pare for work. Engineers have been working on the road since mid-winter, says the Dallas Post, and it is said that a satisfactory location has been made, although many engineering problems have been presented.

The Wilkes-Barre and Northern Railroad company is composed largely of Wilkes-Barre men, and the line proposed extends from the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad in Luzerne to the outlet of Harvey's

FOREST CITY.

The verdict of $600 recently rendered in the case of Thomas Clune against the borough of Forest City calls special attention to the fact that the sidewalks attention to the fact that the sidewalks in this place should at once be put in proper repair. We do not propose to enter into the merits of this particular case wherein the borough has been held liable for damages, but putting it aside, the fact remains that the sidewalks are now and have been for two or three years bast in a condition that is not only disgraceful but dangerous. Loose planks and holes have existed and now exist in numerous places and the borough has been liable at any time within several years past to become defendant several years past to become defendant in just such a suit as that which was decided against it recently at Montrose The costs and judgment in the Clune suit would have gone far toward building sidewalks throughout the borough. even had the corporation had to stand the expense of laying them. But an ordinance exists and has for some time been in effect providing that where there is a necessity of a sidewalk or where one already laid needs repairing the clerk of the council shall notify the person whose property the section fronts to either lay or repair the walk as the case may be and if the property owner falls to do this in ten days that the street commissioner shall be in structed to do the work and that the amount shall be charged against the property owner and collected from him. In no case, I think has this ordinance In no case, I think has this ordinance been put into effect, but if it had been faithfully enforced, it is probable the last verdict for damages would never have been given. We do not say this to condemn the councilmen for I believe they have been conscientious and have done good wark generally, but I do think that this incident should impress itself on them in such a manner that a strict enforcement of the sidewalk ordinance shall be made from now on.

A special meeting of the council will be held this (Monday) evening. A number of months ago some of the business men awoke to the fact that a board of trade would be a splendid thing to have. They organized one and the membership included most of the prominent citizens. Meetings were held weekly and much interest was aroused. A bridge across the Lackawanna was agitated and the board succeeded in getting the commissioners of Wayne and Susquehanna counties to come here and see if a bridge was not needed, suggesting to them that the countles ought to do something, as the bridge would connect two county thorough-fares that would make a direct route between Honesdale and Montrose and also suggesting and showing conclusively to the Wayne county men that such a bridge would be a very great accommodation to residents of Pleasant Mount and Clinton townships, who find Forest City the best market for their produce. The counties were not ex-pected to do all. Forest City borough was to bear part of the expense, it was intended to ask the Ontario and Western company to share a part of the burden, as the bridge would connect the borough with its depot, and Superintendent W. A. May, of the Hillside Coal and Iron company, kindly offered to do the filling in that would be necessary in building a structure. The com-missioners looked as wise as they could, promised nothing, admitted nothing, dined in state at the Forest house and departed, leaving the crest-failen board of trade men disconsolate and dejected. Then the board took up the matter of organizing a local company to manufacture mine cars with the Gallagher patent axle box. Enough subscriptions were secured to organize a company and since then the Forest City Car and Manufacturing company has erected works and is turning out the best mine cars in the market, equipped with the only practical self-oiling axle-box. After this piece of good work the board rested on its oars, metaphorically speaking, and has rested there ever since. A meeting has not been held in months and probably many people have forgotten that such an organization ever existed. Mayhap it is not dead, but sicepeth, but the chances are it is as defunct as Pharoah Rameses. Yet had the members kept up the organization and worked as earnestly they did for awhile, who can tell but that they might have accomplished comething of lasting benefit to the tervened since the car company was organized?

An alarm was given before the fire had gained much headway and the Enter-prise Hose company was soon on the ground and had two streams playing on the flames, one from the rear and one in front. Later the Hillside company got a stream turned on the rear of the building. The structure was covered with a tin roof and it was very difficult to get at the flames, which were mostly in the interior of the build-ing on the south, occupied by F. M. Carpenter as a butcher shop and owned Carpenter as a butcher shop and owned by Mrs. J. R. Davis, but did not make much progress before the flames were subdued. It took two hours hard fighting to get the fire under control, but finally its progress was stopped. W. H. Wildenberger and W. J. Maxey owned the building in which the jew-elry store was located. It was entirely gutted by the flames and Mr. Wilden-berger's stock was almost entirely berger's stock was almost entirely ruined.
