JAIL BIRDS' INGENUITY.

Harry Mitchell Nearly Succeeds in Escaping from Mt. Holly Bestile.

Mount Holly, N. J., May 4.—An un-successful attempt was made to break jail here last night by several prisoners who were led by Harry Mitchell. Mit-chell was recently arrested for robbing freight cars on the Amboy division of the Pennsylvania rallroad. With a pen knife the leader had succeeded in cut-ting a large hole in the wall of his cell which he concealed from the keeper by hanging a blanket over it.

There was only one more stone to be removed from the wall and while in the act of doing this the attempt was dis-covered and the participants were locked in a dungeon. Mitchell halls from Worcester, Mass., and is a desper-

Opposition was also made to Mr. Turple's motion as an obstacle to the passage of the appropriation bills; but, nevertheless, the motion was carried by a majority of one—32 to 31—and the Dupont case was taken up. It was, however, laid aside soon afterwards, under the terms of a compromise offered by Mr. Gorman (Dem., Md.) by which the day after the passage of the river and harbor bill, the Dupont case is to be taken up at the close of the routine.

LIFE INSURANCE.—The New York Journal says in the United States alone $3,000,000,000 in life insurance premiums have been collected by the various companies since their organization and about $2,000,000,000 have been paid back to policy holders. The combined assets of all the companies amount to $1,200,000,000 and the apprepriate of insurance. an indication that there is not to be any undue haste in passing appropriation bills and forcing an early adjournment of congress. ENOCH ARDEN REVERSED.

Mrs. Louis Karl, After Twenty-six Years, Finds Her Husband With Another Wife. Identified in an Insane Asylum.

New York, May 4.—If there is a happy woman in the city today, that woman is Mrs. Baette Karl, of 329 West Twenty-sixth street. For, after a separation of twenty-six years, she has found her husband, Louis M. Karl. True, he is in Bloomingdale asylum, but she has obtained a writ of habeas corpus ordering his appearance in court next week, and feels certain that before she is much older they will be reunited. It was war that separated Louis from his wife and her two children. He was an officer in the Uhlan regiment, which left Stuttgart on the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian war. She heard from him at intervals. Then his letters ceased, and he was reported as one of the missing. Then she left Stuttgart and went with her relatives to some friends in the country. Karl, it appears, was stricken with fever while in Paris. On his recovery he went to Stuttmart, but failing to find his wife or any trace of her, came to this country, went into the shoe business and prospered.

Thinking his first wife was dead he married again. A boy and girl have been born to his second wife. When the son of the first wife grew up, he also came to America, and in time sent for his mother. In a newspaper, last Au-gust, Mrs. Karl-No. 1 read that one Louis M. Karl had been committed to Bloomingdale asylum. That being her husband's name, she went to the asylthe sixth and thirteenth instants for the consideration of private pension bills no quorum appeared. um to see the man, but was refused ad-mission, because she was no relative. Then she hunted up wife No. 2, represented herself as a cousin of Louis, and finally persuaded the woman to take her there yesterday.

As Mrs. Karl tells the story:
"I went there yesterday, God thanked. It was my husband. Shall I ever forget his greeting? He saw me standing there, and suddenly he rushed to me. 'Babbette, Babbette! God be thanked that thou hast come to free me,' he cried in German. He fell upon his knees, and we wept with joy at see other again. He is no more mad than I am.

And Mrs. Karl, who is nearly 60 years old, dried her eyes, and smilingly said:
"I have found again that which I thought that I had forever lost The good God has given me back Louis.

in Avenger on the Trail of Gny Lindsley. A Sensational Scene Not Advertised in Othello.

Columbus, Ohio, May 4.—At the close of the third act of "Othello" by the Louis James company at the High street theater Saturday night a woman leaped from one of the boxes to the stage and, before anyone could interfere, was administering a horsewhipping to Guy Lindsley, James' leading man. He was just at the point where Othello (Louis James) in a fit of anger seizes Iago (Lindsley) and, crying out seizes Iago (Lindsiey) and, crying out. "Damnation, more than I can bear," chokes him. Othello had Iago down on the stage, but at the first cut of the the stage, but at the first cut of the whip he let him up and stood dumfounded. Iago stumbled to his feet and stammered to James: "This is Georgia, of St. Louis," Still the woman laid on with the whip without any defense being made by Lindsley until a stage hand rushed on and seized her. A policy. liceman then placed her under arrest and locked her up.

At the station house she said her name was Georgia Kimbali, of St. Lou-is; that Lindsley had paid her atten-tions, but had discarded her at the request of his mother and brother. The Lindsleys are a very aristocratic form-ily of St. Louis. Mr. Lindsley himself is a member of the shoe firm of Otis & Lindsley. His father is dead. He left a large estate. The Kimball woman says he has Ignored her letters and flowers until she became desperate and came direct from St. Louis to this elty to administer the flogging, arriving this afternoon. She rented the box and sat back in it so that Lindsley could not see her. She had picked out the par-ticular point in the particular ticular point in the piay when she should make the assault.

Lindsley says he simply met the wo-man and that she is infamated with him. She has been annoying him by her attentions for a long time and he could not shake her off. She showed a large number of letters from him, how-ever, that tell of the love between them. The play proceeded after her arrest, but the rest of the third net was omit-The curtain was finally rung down ted. The curtain was many rung down on that scene. Interview with Prominent Druggist Upon Two Notable Successes-Public Warned Against Imitations.

There has of late been a kind of moral wave showing its influence among our male population. Many men have realized that they were smoking and tobacco-spitting their lives away, and they have preferred a condition of manly vigor and robust health. Skinny men have cult smoking vile cigats; dried-up-nicotine-soaks have fired their pines; hardened old chaws have their pipes; hardened old chaws have spit out their quids, and pallid cigarette suckers have thrown away the deadly coffin-tack. You can tell them by the new brightness in their eyes, the new clasticity in their step, the fine color in their faces, and the visible increase in their weight, not to speak of a new cheerfulness of disposition which tells that they are enjoying the good things of life, and if you ask one of them what did it, he always says.
