FIERCE FOREST FIRES.

Raging About Richmondale and Along the Gravity Road. The extended dry weather which we have experienced lately has dried up the woods to such a state that the forest fires that have been burning in the vicinity have reached a dangerous plight. This especially true near Richmondale and Vandling just above the city, where already property has been damaged to quite an extent, and much more loss is threatened. Never before more loss is threatened. Never before have the fires raged with such fierce fury, and done so much damage. Sev-eral buildings have been barned by the fire, despite the frantic efforts made to save them, and constant watch has to be kept that others do not cach.

They reatest effort is being made to extinguish the fire but as it covers so large a territory, all attempts have been in vain, and it still continues to gather headway and fury. Men from the mining companies are out in full force and we destrice brackly for it is still surgeds. are fighting bravely for if it still spreads it will be a serious loss to them, for the breakers will be consumed and the mines in which they are employed will be obliged to shut down. Men and wo-men are also fighting for their homes, which are constantly threatened. Already many have removed their house-hold goods to places of safety. The fight is made harder by the fact that water facilities are very poor, and nothing but buckets can be used. Sticks are employed by many by which the blaze is whipped out. Many of the workers have sustained bad burns, but do not give up the fight.

The smoke which is caused by the burning forest is terrible and causes the men who are fighting the flames to nearly sufficiate. This may cause the street car line to shut down in that sec-tion as it is nearly impossible to ride through the dense smoke.

The forest fires in the woods near No. 5 plane have also reached serious proportions, and much property is threat-ened. The fire gained so fast on Sat-urday that an alarm was sounded from No. 5 and a large force of the com-pany's men are now on the scene and will soon have the fire under control.
