

Lorenz & Koempel's PHARMACISTS 501 Linden Street.

SHORT SKETCH OF WILSON COLLEGE

In that beautiful, fertile and far-famed valley of the mountains almost hidden in a grove of stately pines, Wilson College is situated.

Usually the new girl at Wilson—or perhaps I should say the "new woman"—during the first few weeks of her sojourn here at work or severe exertion to that grievous malady called homesickness, a disease which neither allopathic, homoeopathic, hydropathic, or any other pathic treatment will cure.

One of the first and most useful lessons taught is the importance and preservation of good health, and while the enlightenment of the mind is the great and ultimate aim of college life, the improvement of the body is not neglected.

There are many pleasant events to which the student at Wilson looks forward, but none she anticipates with keener enjoyment than the celebration on Thanksgiving Day.

While her brother is absorbed in one of the great football matches played on that day she, too, enjoys in her own way the great holiday.

There are many pleasant events to which the student at Wilson looks forward, but none she anticipates with keener enjoyment than the celebration on Thanksgiving Day.

While her brother is absorbed in one of the great football matches played on that day she, too, enjoys in her own way the great holiday.

There are many pleasant events to which the student at Wilson looks forward, but none she anticipates with keener enjoyment than the celebration on Thanksgiving Day.

While her brother is absorbed in one of the great football matches played on that day she, too, enjoys in her own way the great holiday.

There are many pleasant events to which the student at Wilson looks forward, but none she anticipates with keener enjoyment than the celebration on Thanksgiving Day.

While her brother is absorbed in one of the great football matches played on that day she, too, enjoys in her own way the great holiday.

There are many pleasant events to which the student at Wilson looks forward, but none she anticipates with keener enjoyment than the celebration on Thanksgiving Day.

While her brother is absorbed in one of the great football matches played on that day she, too, enjoys in her own way the great holiday.

There are many pleasant events to which the student at Wilson looks forward, but none she anticipates with keener enjoyment than the celebration on Thanksgiving Day.

VASSAR COLLEGE. (By a Student of Today.)

Vassar College has now completed her third decade and has proved that the founder was wise in the embodiment of the best of the best of the education of women. The college is overflowing with students, and many who applied for entrance last year were turned away because of the lack of accommodations.

The more modern feature of college life at Vassar is the athletic interest. Since the reconstruction of the gymnasium, with its improved appointments, in 1883, the students have taken greater pleasure in physical exercise and training.

The athletic contests are organized in the spring of 1885, has instituted fall and spring field days, when the chief events are hurdle runs, vaulting, running leaps, and various contests in football and basketball.

Philathletics, a dramatic and literary society, give four half plays during the year and often the students exhibit great dramatic talents. This year the plays have been "The Merchant of Venice," "A. J. Cassin, Honorary," "The Heir-at-Law" and "The Amazons."

The greatest advance, however, is in the educational line. In 1883 the first class, in which the whole college of the Freshman year, by which the prescribed mathematics cover only the first year, instead of, as formerly, the first two years.

There are many pleasant events to which the student at Wilson looks forward, but none she anticipates with keener enjoyment than the celebration on Thanksgiving Day.

While her brother is absorbed in one of the great football matches played on that day she, too, enjoys in her own way the great holiday.

There are many pleasant events to which the student at Wilson looks forward, but none she anticipates with keener enjoyment than the celebration on Thanksgiving Day.

While her brother is absorbed in one of the great football matches played on that day she, too, enjoys in her own way the great holiday.

There are many pleasant events to which the student at Wilson looks forward, but none she anticipates with keener enjoyment than the celebration on Thanksgiving Day.

While her brother is absorbed in one of the great football matches played on that day she, too, enjoys in her own way the great holiday.

There are many pleasant events to which the student at Wilson looks forward, but none she anticipates with keener enjoyment than the celebration on Thanksgiving Day.

While her brother is absorbed in one of the great football matches played on that day she, too, enjoys in her own way the great holiday.

There are many pleasant events to which the student at Wilson looks forward, but none she anticipates with keener enjoyment than the celebration on Thanksgiving Day.

While her brother is absorbed in one of the great football matches played on that day she, too, enjoys in her own way the great holiday.

describe the beauties of Tree Day, when the Freshmen plant their class trees with joyful ceremony and the Seniors bid farewell to theirs with sadness. The classes vie with each other for originality and beauty of costume, and the Scotch and Scotch-Country are the most conspicuous class crests in their bonnets, gay with lanterns and flags.

At twilight falls, the boats gather in the centre of the lake, floating together in most picturesque style, while the woods and hills echo to the boating songs. The crews are all selected from recommendations of the physical examiner, and the training is carefully watched to prevent harm to the members.

The Text-Books Used are All Expressly Written for the Course of Study. They are written in clear and concise language, are interesting to read, and contain all the information that the student must learn to be proficient in the theory of his trade or profession, and nothing more. They are arranged to students of free charge.

Students are Given a Foundation Before an Advanced Course is Entered in any of the Sciences. They must learn Arithmetic before they take up Physics and are required to study the more advanced subjects. Our students learn Mining, Mechanical, Electrical, Engineering, etc., because they are provided with the necessary preliminary education.

Work Very Exacting. She needs much rest and recreation, because her work is difficult and exacting. No lecture nor recitation can be skipped. Each day has its special course, which comes but once and must not be neglected.

Fascination of Dissecting Room. Even the dissection room has no terrors for her after the first visit. She does not begin this work upon entering college, but is obliged to wait several months, when she is given a course in anatomy.

Life at Dobbs is intended to make a girl independent, ready for the most arduous duties, and to develop the highest qualities in each of those entrusted to her care and send them out into the world as useful and self-reliant.

My dear Bella: Since I last wrote you we have had a banquet and a funeral, and now things have settled back into their old routine.

After singing our class song, we took our seats at the table and had a sumptuous dinner. The table was set with white cloths, and we were surrounded by the Seniors and Juniors, who sent us in baskets of their class flowers.

Imagine that it was to rise so early the next morning, but every Freshman was in the room at half past twelve o'clock. Some of the Sophs appeared in long black robes and hoods, four of them carrying a miniature coffin with our united class flowers upon the top.

THE FUNERAL. It was to rise so early the next morning, but every Freshman was in the room at half past twelve o'clock. Some of the Sophs appeared in long black robes and hoods, four of them carrying a miniature coffin with our united class flowers upon the top.

There is a college student of whom the public seldom hears, namely, the student of the Woman's Medical College. Her college life with its bright spots and hard, rough places, is very interesting. Let me tell you about it.

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

THE LARGEST TECHNICAL SCHOOL IN THE WORLD. SCRANTON, PA.

By which such satisfactory results are obtained that the student in every one of the States and Countries are now studying in this institution, has many original and valuable inventions, and one asks as much time as may be required to complete his course.

Students are Given a Foundation Before an Advanced Course is Entered in any of the Sciences. They must learn Arithmetic before they take up Physics and are required to study the more advanced subjects. Our students learn Mining, Mechanical, Electrical, Engineering, etc., because they are provided with the necessary preliminary education.

Work Very Exacting. She needs much rest and recreation, because her work is difficult and exacting. No lecture nor recitation can be skipped. Each day has its special course, which comes but once and must not be neglected.

Fascination of Dissecting Room. Even the dissection room has no terrors for her after the first visit. She does not begin this work upon entering college, but is obliged to wait several months, when she is given a course in anatomy.

Life at Dobbs is intended to make a girl independent, ready for the most arduous duties, and to develop the highest qualities in each of those entrusted to her care and send them out into the world as useful and self-reliant.

My dear Bella: Since I last wrote you we have had a banquet and a funeral, and now things have settled back into their old routine.

After singing our class song, we took our seats at the table and had a sumptuous dinner. The table was set with white cloths, and we were surrounded by the Seniors and Juniors, who sent us in baskets of their class flowers.

Imagine that it was to rise so early the next morning, but every Freshman was in the room at half past twelve o'clock. Some of the Sophs appeared in long black robes and hoods, four of them carrying a miniature coffin with our united class flowers upon the top.

THE FUNERAL. It was to rise so early the next morning, but every Freshman was in the room at half past twelve o'clock. Some of the Sophs appeared in long black robes and hoods, four of them carrying a miniature coffin with our united class flowers upon the top.

There is a college student of whom the public seldom hears, namely, the student of the Woman's Medical College. Her college life with its bright spots and hard, rough places, is very interesting. Let me tell you about it.

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

THE INTERNATIONAL CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOLS. SCRANTON, PA.

By which such satisfactory results are obtained that the student in every one of the States and Countries are now studying in this institution, has many original and valuable inventions, and one asks as much time as may be required to complete his course.

Students are Given a Foundation Before an Advanced Course is Entered in any of the Sciences. They must learn Arithmetic before they take up Physics and are required to study the more advanced subjects. Our students learn Mining, Mechanical, Electrical, Engineering, etc., because they are provided with the necessary preliminary education.

Work Very Exacting. She needs much rest and recreation, because her work is difficult and exacting. No lecture nor recitation can be skipped. Each day has its special course, which comes but once and must not be neglected.

Fascination of Dissecting Room. Even the dissection room has no terrors for her after the first visit. She does not begin this work upon entering college, but is obliged to wait several months, when she is given a course in anatomy.

Life at Dobbs is intended to make a girl independent, ready for the most arduous duties, and to develop the highest qualities in each of those entrusted to her care and send them out into the world as useful and self-reliant.

My dear Bella: Since I last wrote you we have had a banquet and a funeral, and now things have settled back into their old routine.

After singing our class song, we took our seats at the table and had a sumptuous dinner. The table was set with white cloths, and we were surrounded by the Seniors and Juniors, who sent us in baskets of their class flowers.

Imagine that it was to rise so early the next morning, but every Freshman was in the room at half past twelve o'clock. Some of the Sophs appeared in long black robes and hoods, four of them carrying a miniature coffin with our united class flowers upon the top.

THE FUNERAL. It was to rise so early the next morning, but every Freshman was in the room at half past twelve o'clock. Some of the Sophs appeared in long black robes and hoods, four of them carrying a miniature coffin with our united class flowers upon the top.

There is a college student of whom the public seldom hears, namely, the student of the Woman's Medical College. Her college life with its bright spots and hard, rough places, is very interesting. Let me tell you about it.

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

Bucknell University. JOHN HOWARD HARRIS, President.

Ten buildings, thirty acre campus. College amply equipped and endowed. Academy preparator for college and the technical schools. Institute for young men. School of Law with course leading to graduation, Art Studio.

The course of study has been improved materially and the standard of qualification for admission to the college has been raised since the opening of the preparatory department in 1883. Notable among the changes of '95 stands the organization of the Athletic Association, and the formation of the Student Body, of those interested in physical development and the matter of exercise, is regarded as a decided advantage to the institution. In accordance with the view—

"Health is the vital principle of bliss and the best of health is the best of the student's resolve to foster and increase the already active interest in athletics by introducing new attractions in the list of out-door recreations. A basketball field was marked out, and an instructor for the game was secured. For a time the tennis courts were abandoned, so great was the enthusiasm for the new pastime.

The same year witnessed the organization of the Glee and Mandolin clubs, and their annual concert is now an acceptable attraction in the series of entertainments.

Such an old heart too, my darling, Pierced through and through with darts, Every day I come to you you bring your candy, toys and tart, And you drive me for a pony In a harness made of straps Or you dress me up, so silly In tall peaked paper caps.

But for all this, Daisy Dimple, I, my payment shall not miss. You must always get by parting Just a simple little kiss. MARY E. STONE BASSETT.

Special attention given in making fine lace and millinery hats at Miss Nora Cleveland's, 34 Lacka's ave.

OUR ALMA MATER. But love of class leads back to love of college, and we will know that it is the old songs taken from the marmoset, come to sing and hear and which live in their hearts as fresh as in their own student days.

Here's a long life to Vassar, Wave her flag unfurled, Nothing can ever surpass her, Drive her to the top of the mountain, Drive her to the top of the mountain, Drive her to the top of the mountain, Drive her to the top of the mountain.

OUR MUSICAL UNIVERSITY. For many years Americans have been justly proud of the colleges which help to make our women the cleverest in the world, and we are beginning to realize that it is possible for them to acquire a broad and thorough musical education, as well, without leaving their own country.

THE CHRISTIAN INFLUENCE OF THE SCHOOL has always been prominent and from the first the Young Women's Christian Association of the Young Women's Christian Association, Miss Nettie Dunn and Miss Corabel Carr, also many local secretaries and workers.

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

There are the class meetings which create the class feeling, the "Students' Association," which fosters the collegian's social life, the Women's Christian Association, which develops her religious and benevolent tendencies, and the "Glee Club," which keeps alive the spirit of her life and

JAMES SIMPSON & Co., SILK MANUFACTURERS Haledon Avenue and North First St. Scranton, Pa.

HEADQUARTERS FOR Steam Heating AND Plumbing. P. F. & M. T. HOWLEY, 231 Womung Avenue, Scranton, Pa. Telephone 4944.